Red River Valley History

[illegible]

The writer has heard many tales by pioneers concerning wet and dry seasons and their effects and it appears that both have their faults, but of the two, of course, the wet years were preferable at least from the standpoint of agriculture and production. We do not know what specific objectives are contemplated in connection with the Red lake project, but it seems likely that a far-sighted program calculated to offset droughts in years to come will be carried out. Oldtimers have pointed out to the writer the possibilities in the scheme to restore water levels and bring back the old days and it appears likely, we think, that we actually will witness a recurrence of the wet seasons of other years.

But it may be that the swing of the cycle will bring back a protracted wet period that will make the Red lake program unnecessary. That such an eventuality is not improbable is evidenced by stories told of early years when wet seasons were the rule. Even then there was "an occasional" period of a [illegible] two or three [illegible] drouth reign[illegible] [illegible] a St. Paul business man who once was a cavalry captain stationed in the Red river valley. He said in the '80s there were years when most of the tributaries of the Red river were dried up and the Red itself became a small, sluggish, stagnant stream, contrasting this with other pioneers' stories of raging torrents and swollen rivers which had Freight trains nowadays act like express specials. New freight schedules are so fast, I sometimes wonder if everything has to be delivered day before yesterday.

Many of our passenger trains are running faster schedules, too. Well, and things move. We make faster time, but the first railroad commandment is still "Safety First!" That's one rule we won't change.

[illegible] railroads and allied industries provided jobs for [illegible] workers last year. Some of them live in our town. Good neighbors.

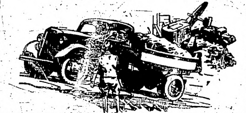
FORD V-8 TRUCKS DO MORE WORK AT LESS COST...



Because they have

RESERVE POWER AND EXTRA STRENGTH!

On [illegible] hauls—up steep grades—through gravel or gumbo, Ford V-8 trucks have the reserve power to deliver their loads on schedule and no favors [illegible].

The [illegible] engine is conservatively rated by Ford at [illegible] horsepower—more than is needed for [illegible] work. And this is one of the [illegible] reasons for a Ford truck's economy. [illegible] with so much reserve power, the Ford V-8 does its work easier, with less effort. The engine operates efficiently and [illegible] because it is usually below "peak" [illegible] whole truck, straight through to the [illegible] gives you longer life than would be possible with a relatively underpowered, overworked unit.

And [illegible] power is coupled with extra strength [illegible] the Ford truck . . . Frame, clutch, rear axle—in fact, the whole chassis, including springs, is ruggedly built to insure users the greatest possible freedom from servicing cost.

But the best way of all for you to learn for yourself exactly what a Ford V-8's reserve power and extra strength means, is to try it—on your own job—with your own loads, and check the results. Call your Ford Dealer today. He will lend you a 1936 Ford V-8 truck for an "on-the-job" test, without charge and without obligation.

"and here's the proof!"

J. M. CARTER, Contractor, Billings, Montana, says:
"These trucks are used for construction work, hauling gravel and dirt, out of pits and from under shovels. Oil consumption is nil and gasoline consumption is very satisfactory. Our maintenance cost for this fleet has been practically nothing. We are very favorably impressed with the reserve power and acceleration built into the V-8 motor which is essential in our type of work."

O. A. O'DONNEL of Billings, Montana, says:
"After operating my Ford V-8 truck for 21,300 miles I find that it is the most satisfactory unit I have ever operated.
"We use this truck for general farm hauling, with loads of from four to eight tons. Our gasoline mileage has averaged 13 miles to the gallon and our cost of operation has been practically negligible."

F. C. CLINE, President and Manager of Billings Laundry Company, Billings, Montana, says:
"We have received very satisfactory service from Ford V-8 trucks and the cost of maintenance, gasoline and oil has been exceptionally low. One of our V-8 units has been operating over the Cook City Highway which rises to an altitude of over 10,000 feet. The truck has traveled 63,000 miles over this road without a major overhaul job."

CHAS. HARRIS of Beebey, Montana, says:
"I have been an enthusiastic user of Ford trucks during the past several years having purchased 40 units in all.
"I believe that the Ford V-8 truck is without question the most outstanding 1½-ton truck on the market today and with the factory exchange motors and other parts costs are rock bottom."

A. J. GALERNEAU, Motor Transit Company, Billings, Montana, says:
"Our 1935 and 1936 units are used for general freighting, often carrying pay loads up to 7 and 8 tons. We realize that this is an excessive overload but find that the trucks handle it very satisfactorily.
"Gasoline and oil consumption, as well as other costs on our fleet of Ford V-8's, has convinced us that this truck is the most economical unit for this type of work."

Mr. Graettinger said he planted a five-acre field May 15 and that part of the crop matured within ninety days. He expects that the tract will yield at the rate of 50 to 60 bushels to the acre.

Appreciative audiences enjoyed the presentation of the "Personality Parade" and amateur contest at the Auditorium last Thursday and Friday evenings under the sponsorship of the local Legion auxiliary unit. Well-known businessmen garbed as "Personality Girls" brought forth much laughter and the syncopated kiddie wedding was applauded. A group of talented young performers participated in the amateur contest, over which Paul Lundgren presided as master of ceremonies, the winners being decided by the volume of applause from the audience. Clayton Tripp, seven-year-old tap dancer, was awarded first prize, while second honors went to Nicky Christie, juvenile singer.

[illegible] Groups Cooperate With Junior C. and C. Sponsors

Due to the initiative display by the Junior Civic and Commerce association, Thief River Falls residents this fall will witness the novelty of night games played under floodlights by the Lincoln high school football team. The equipment has already been ordered, Chester Myrom, president of the junior group, announced today, the project being under the direction of George Lee and Lincoln Arnold.

The cost of the installation, estimated at $400, will be defrayed in part by contributions of $50 each from the junior and senior Civic and Commerce associations and the American Legion post. The remainder will be advanced by the Junior group, which will later be reimbursed by the high school athletic association. Additional contributions also are in prospect.

The equipment for night games, which in other communities has proved highly effective in stimulating attendance, will be installed in time for the first game of the season to be played here against Red Lake Falls September 18. Later home games on the Prowler schedule include contests with East Grand Forks October 2; Grafton, October 6; and Mahnomen October 16. The schedule also includes games away from the city with Crookston, Warren and Bemidji.

Twenty high school boys responded Tuesday to Coach George Lee's first call for practice, and gave promise of developing into a light but fast team, the biggest task being to fill the tackle positions. Lettermen from last year's team who turned out for practice include Captain Milton Ness, Pomeroy Hill, Selmer Dicken, Jack Adkins, James Peterson, Loren Stadum and Alfred Nelson.

C. C. TO ACT ON FALL FESTIVAL THIS EVENING

Association Schedules Evening Meeting to Discuss Matter

GROUP TO SEEK TO ADD TO MEMBERSHIP

Paul Lundgren, in Office of Secretary Seven Years, Resigns Post

A dinner meeting of the Civic and Commerce association will be held this evening at 6:30 in the association rooms, Secretary Paul Lundgren announced following the making of preliminary arrangements at last Thursday's luncheon.

The purpose of the evening meeting, Mr. Lundgren said, is to encourage a large attendance for the purpose of taking action on the matter of holding a fall celebration in October. Speakers at last Thursday's meeting emphasized their belief that celebrations staged the last two years had not received proper support, and the opinion was expressed that no similar event should be planned this year unless the sponsoring groups were assured of whole-hearted cooperation.

W. L. Carlisle, president of the association, stressed the need of the organization having a larger and more thoroly representative membership to increase its possibilities of service to the community, and urged that all businessmen plan to attend the meeting this evening.

Chester Myrom, president of the Junior Civic and Commerce association, outlined plans to install a floodlighting system for night football on Lincoln athletic field, and solicited the cooperation of the senior group in financing the project.

Mike Murray of St. Cloud, former state commander of the American Legion in a brief address made a stirring appeal for Americanism, which he said is to be a chief goal of the American Legion during the present and coming years.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the association held following the business session Mr. Lundgren resigned from the office of secretary, the duties of which post he has diligently performed the past seven years. His professional duties, he explained, would prevent his doing justice to the position. A committee of board members was named to propose the name of a successor.

LUNDEEN TAKES OLSON'S PLACE IN SENATE TILT

Third District Congressman Accepts Party Call Saturday

PETERSEN HAD MADE OFFER TO ENTER RACE

Selection Means Party Harmony, Declares State Chairman

Complete harmony was claimed in the ranks of the farmer-labor party following selection of Representative Ernest Lundeen as the party's nominee for United states senator to replace the late Governor Floyd B. Olson.

Lundeen, who immediately accepted the nomination, was chosen at a meeting of the party's state central committee Saturday in which the anticipated disputes over party leadership failed to materialize.

In tendering the nomination to Lundeen, the committee ignored the efforts of Governor Hjalmar Petersen to completely alter the party ticket. Petersen had sought committee approval of a plan where he would have been selected to run to succeed himself, and the present gubernatorial nominee, Senator Elmer A. Benson, would have been placed in the senatorial race.

Lundeen's advancement leaves a vacancy on the party ticket for congressman in the third district. A call for a convention in that district to endorse a nominee to succeed Lundeen is expected within a few days.

In commenting upon the committee meeting, Chairman Lewis Hefindahl said that Lundeen's selection leaves the party completely harmonious and presenting a united front for the November elections.

Lundeen, upon receiving notification of the committee's action, told the committeemen that he would carry out the policies and program of the party's departed leader, Governor Olson.

This was construed to mean Lundeen would support the re-election of President Roosevelt, since Olson in a death-bed statement called upon his party to accord the president such aid. Speaking before the committeemen, Senator Benson likewise urged advancement of the policies of the late Governor Olson.

Only other action taken by the central committee was to approve the withdrawal of 21 members of the Farmer-Labor state association from that group. They had held dual membership in the association and in the state central committee.

The Thief River Falls Civic and Commerce association is cooperating in making arrangements for the day's program, and will supply a speaker in addition to assisting in the operation of concessions. A large delegation from this city is planning to participate in the event which will get under way at 10:30 in the morning.

The River Valley group has extended an invitation to Congressman R. T. Buckler of Crookston to deliver the principal address, other features of the program being a tug-of-war contest, horse races and a baseball game between a team from Erie and the junior league team of this city. In addition Bohn-O and other games will be operated on the grounds. A dance in the evening will wind up the day's festivities.

ESCAPE DEATH IN HAY RACK-TRUCK SMASH ON T. H. 1

Four Are Hurt and Horse Is Killed as Result of Collision

Four persons sustained injuries, none of which were serious enough to require hospital attention, and one horse had to be shot as a result of a broken leg sustained in a collision four miles west of the city on Highway 1 Saturday night between a light truck and a loaded hayrack.

Iver Austad of North township was driving toward the city with a load of hay when the pickup truck driven by Arnold Helgeneseth of this city came from behind and crashed into the rear of the unlighted hayrack.

Austad was injured when thrown off the load into the ditch, and the wagon was completely demolished. One horse, which sustained a broken leg, was shot by Sheriff Rambeck, and the other suffered a deep cut in the leg. Helgeneseth and two companions in the truck were slightly injured.

Two other cars ran into the load of hay lying on the highway before flares could be set up, one going into the ditch, but no one was injured.

Junior C. C. Team Wins League Pennant

Above is pictured the Thief River Falls baseball team sponsored by the Junior Civic and Commerce association, which last Sunday closed its league season with a record of thirteen victories and one defeat, and the league title with a standing of .929. The aggregation met its one and only setback of the season Sunday when Oklee, using an imported battery, won by a score of [illegible] to 0. The team, under the managership of George Lee, has demonstrated its ability to play a high-class variety of baseball, especially in view of the youthfulness of some members of the squad.

Fall Term at Crookston Institution Will Open September 21

Students attending the Northwest School of Agriculture will be offered unusual opportunities in the study of music during the coming school year, with three instructors in charge of the work in piano, voice, violin, choruses and orchestra.

Miss Marion Nelson will direct the school orchestra and other private lessons in piano. Miss Nelson joined the Northwest School staff in 1935 following graduation from the University of Minnesota department of music. She was a pupil of Professor Carlyle Scott.

The work in voice will be presented by Miss Katheryn Henning who will also have charge of the glee clubs and choruses. As an undergraduate student at the University of Minnesota, Miss Henning appeared in leading roles in numerous operatic productions including "Madame Butterfly", "LaBoheme", and "Aida". She joined the Northwest School staff in the fall of 1933.

Private lessons in violin will again be offered by Miss Grace Mary Warne, who has completed ten years of efficient service at the Northwest School. According to Miss Warne, the violin is one of the most difficult instruments to master, but it has always been a favorite with many people due to the close resemblance of the varied tones to the human voice.

Last year 94 students registered for private lessons in piano, 26 in voice, and 22 in violin or a total of 144 pupils. Many other students took part in the girls' glee club, boys' glee club mixed, chorus and orchestra. Two new pianos were purchased during the summer to insure sufficient practice pianos for students registered for special work in the department.

The fall term will open for registration September 21, and the winter term will close the last week in March. Additional information may be obtained by writing the Northwest School, Crookston, Minnesota.

GIRL FOOLS MALE GOLFERS BY PLAYING IN SLACKS

Alexandria—In one of the women's flights at the Resorters tournament in Alexandria in August a card turned up at the starter's desk with the name "Mack Mattimore" on it. Supt. H. N. Peterson, who was one of the starters, was quite sure that it was a man's card that had become mixed with the women's, because he had seen a boy by that name qualifying the day before. While the starters were discussing the incident, Miss Mack Lattimore came up to the desk and assured them there was no mistake. "But," said Mr. Peterson, "I was sure there was a Lattimore boy in the tournament." "Yes, but that was me," said Miss Mack. "I was wearing slacks yesterday."

Auxiliary Notes

Auxiliary meeting this Thursday evening, Sept. 3rd. Be sure to be there! State Convention reports will be submitted at this meeting. Also report on our show "Personality Parade."

It was an interesting show, wasn't it? With its many features adding variety, the production won the approval of the audience. To all who gave of their time and talent, the Unit is indeed very grateful. You helped make this a success both from the entertainment standpoint and as a financial aid to the Auxiliary. The Amateur contest demonstrated that there is indeed a great deal of talent in our community and every number was thoroughly enjoyed. Paul Lundgren acted as Master of Ceremonies, the applause of the audience deciding the winners. To Clayton Trapp, 7 year old tap dancer, went the first prize, while our young vocal artist, Nicky Christo, won second honors. Congratulations! The Tom Thumb wedding scored a hit with the little actors daintily costumed assuming their roles in a most natural manner. The individual dance numbers put on by the "Personality Girls" brought down the house when the "girls" were recognized as some of our city's business men. The characters in the main cast are to be congratulated for their fine performances. It was fun! The choruses added their bit, too, and Miss Dorothy Hoel, the accompanist, was right on the job all the time.

See you Thursday evening at the Legion Club Rooms.

State Calls for Bids on $90,000 Road Jobs

Bids on three state highway construction jobs, to cost approximately $90,000, have been called for September 11 and 18 by N. W. Elsberg, commissioner of highways. The work includes 8.5 miles of grading in Beltrami county, the concrete paving of 1½ miles of Trunk Highway No. 78 in Bemidji, also in Beltrami county, and a culvert in Ottertail, Ottertail county. The grading job is called for September 11 and the other two for September 18. Following are the jobs:

Beltrami County: Grading — Trunk Highway No. 89, between 3¼ and 7 miles south of Island Lake; length 3.5 miles; 75,000 cubic yards of excavation. September 11. Concrete Paving—T. H. No. 78, in Bemidji; length 1½ miles; 27,500 square yards of concrete paving. September 18.

Ottertail County: Culvert—T. H. No. 78, in Ottertail; one monolithic culvert; comprising 30 cubic yards of concrete. September 18.

SUPER-HONEST MAN BURNS HIS OWN HAY

Fergus Falls—"Honest until it hurts" can be applied to a resident of the Orwell area near Fergus Falls, who burned a stack of hay, rare as that commodity is, because he thought he could not righteously collect under Uncle Sam's Soil conservation program otherwise. The planter, a respected resident of his community—had cut crab grass on his land because it was smothering clover beneath. For planting the clover, under soil conservation terms, he was to get $10 an acre from the government. However, he felt that the use of the hay gleaned from the clover field would be construed as having been harvested. He had no cattle to pasture. Thus, the thing to do, he deduced, was to burn the hay. So he did.

A cancellation of the address scheduled to be delivered by William Lemke, Union party candidate for president at Tabor in connection with the St. Wenceslaus celebration on Sept. 27, was received late last week by Father F. J. Tomanek, pastor of the Tabor church, in charge of the affair. Father Tomanek was greatly displeased over the action taken by Lemke's campaign managers, and immediately wrote headquarters in Chicago, offering to postpone the event one week later. Mr. Lemke had accepted the date proposed by Mr. Tomanek at a personal interview in Fargo recently.

Growing With Your Child

Play Equipment for Children

Young children need much active, outdoor play to encourage the development of lungs and muscles. In buying or making equipment for the young child ask yourself, will this material be used in a variety of ways, over quite a period of time? A few things that can be used in many connections are better than many odds and ends. Thus, large blocks will be used from babyhood up into school age; a good stuffed animal becomes a family pet; a blackboard, used only for scrawling by the two year old, becomes a useful tool to the eight year old.

Equipment that Stimulates Physical Activity: The baby will enjoy a big ball, steps to climb, a low slide, and a kiddie-car. The child from two to six will spend much time with a wagon, a velocipede, a doll carriage or other stout wheeled vehicles. A ladder, swing and see-saw could at this time be added to the backyard equipment to great advantage. Large hollow blocks 6x6x24 or 6x12x24 inches, or of similar measurements, painted to protect them from the weather, with shots or holes drilled in the ends to prevent warping and make handling easier, will be used for building. These are large enough so that they are a real aid to muscle development, and can be used in combination with the smaller blocks that make up a very important part of every small child's play equipment.

Babies learn much through their senses, before they can ask questions. Provide materials that appeal to all the senses. Color, sound, manipulation to see how things work, are parts of the child's "education."

Celebrated Golden Wedding

A celebration was held for Mr. and Mrs. John Halvorson at the Zion Lutheran church last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Halvorson had been married fifty years Feb. 12, but as it was impossible for their children to be here then they decided to have it Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Halvorson were ushered into the church to the strains of Lohengrens wedding march played by Mrs. Henry Rud. Mrs. Halvorson was presented with a lovely bouquet of gladioli by a friend of her daughter Agnes.

The church, which was decorated in various fall flowers, was filled to capacity by relatives and friends. A program was given which consisted of the following: Song by choir "Even Me"; a short talk by Rev. H. O. Peterson; vocal solo by Glen Halvorson, "Our Yesterday"; piano solo by Rev. H. O. Peterson "Barndoms Minnen"; piano solo, Mrs. Floyd Greenley; cornet solo by Gene Jacobson; song by choir, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus". At intervals during the program, the following were called upon for short talks: H. C. Hanson in behalf of the congregation, August Peterson in behalf of the Farmer's Cooperative Co. Mr. Halvorson is president of the board of directors for said company and has also been secretary and treasurer for the Farmers Co-op Creamery for many years.

Carl Hanson of Newfolden represented the town board of New Solum township, having served together with Mr. Halvorson on that board some years ago. Carl Johnson of Warren gave a very fitting talk in behalf of the Scandinavian Mutual Fire Insurance Co. They all stressed upon the honest and up rightness of Mr. Halvorsen and of the wonderful unity in the home. Kermit Greenley spoke in behalf of the grandchildren. Martin Anderson, a brother of Mrs. John Halvorson of Hendrum told about their childhood days, of the little log house in which they lived and about the wonderful character of Mrs. Halvorson in the home. He stated that Mr. and Mrs. John Halvorson had been married in a little log church. Volunteer speeches were given by Mrs. Bergstrom of Warren and Mr. Nestrud. H. C. Hanson presented Mr. and Mrs. Halvorson a purse of money from relatives and friends. Congratulations and best wishes from relatives and friends not present were read.

Mr. Halvorson expressed their thanks and appreciation. He stated that by the looks of the crowd they had many friends. He wished them God's blessing and his wish was that some day should all meet in the heavenly home.

After the program lunch was served. The relatives were seated at the tables in the church parlor which were beautifully decorated in gold and white streamers and golden wedding bells. A wedding cake adorned the table and a bouquet of Golden Rod flowers. The day was an enjoyable event.

The children were all present except Halfrid.

Mr. and Mrs. Halvorson have spent forty-seven years here and during this time made many friends and have been active in church and social work. The relatives from a distance who attended the celebration are: Mr. and Mrs. Martin Anderson, Edwin Rustad, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Riste, daughters Marjorie and Doris, Miss Marie Riste, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wick, all of Hendrum, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jacobson, Mr. and Mrs. William Jacobson and children Doris and Clayton, George Jacobson, Mrs. Mollie Distad and Mildred, Miss Overpeck, Mr. and Mrs. John Grothe of Roseau, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bratland, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Newton, Mrs. Martin Lee, Halbert Halvorson of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dahlin and Mr. and Mrs. George Stiner of Grand Forks.

Rains Bring Forest Fires Under Control

Heavy rains throughout the northern forest region of the state have brought all major fires under control, conservation commissioner E. V. Willard announced last week. Mr. Willard said the period of high hazard was not yet over, however, pointing out that dangerous conditions which normally develop in October after the frost has killed vegetation have this year been brought about by drouth. "The normal late autumn fire season of about 30 days has this year been extended to more than 90 days as a result of the drouth," Mr. Willard stated. "In other words the hazard of destructive fires will be a source of concern until snow falls."

BELL PUT ON ROOSTER WHICH CHASES CANINES

Marshall—Lochinvar, a pugnacious rooster making his habitat in Marshall, has been "belled", and according to neighboring dog owners, it's about time. Placing of a large turkey bell followed complaints that the male fowl had been chasing, worrying and otherwise pestering dogs. One owner deposed that Lochinvar was in the habit of strutting up and down before his dog and intimidating him so that he cowered and whimpered, causing intense mental cruelty. He further alleged that Lochinvar would flaunt his tail feathers impertinently in the face of the said dog, and would then crow like a rusty fog horn, causing intense physical distress both to his dog's and his own eardrums. The belling of Lochinvar accomplished, peace reins in the neighborhood save for the faint jangling of the bell about the rooster's scrawney neck as he carelessly pecks at and then tosses down such stray bits of scrap iron he can find in the adjacent alleyway. Quite a rooster, Lochinvar!

TRUCK THIEVES STRIP ORCHARD OF APPLES

Howard Lake.—Several hundred bushels of Duchess apples were stolen from Harold Simons of near Howard Lake recently, when thieves drove a truck into his orchard some distance from the house and cleaned every tree. Simons had been very ill, and harvesting of the apples had been slightly delayed due to that cause. The theft was discovered when his housekeeper took a man who had been hired to pick the apples into the orchard to show him where they were. The trees had been stripped bare and wheel marks in the marsh showed where a truck had been driven in and out again. The act of the thief was especially despicable because of the sick condition of Simons. Exactly how many apples were taken is not known, but the "loot" amounted to several hundred bushels.

HAMM IS BUYING OVER A MILLION BUSHELS OF BARLEY IN THE NORTHWEST THIS YEAR
HAMM'S BEER
Here's good news for the Northwest. Hamm is buying over 1,000,000 bushels of choice malting barley this year — barley grown in the Northwest.

Another interesting fact: 1936 is the biggest year in Hamm's history, by a good margin. The Northwest is gaining ground as one of the world's best known centers for fine quality brewing. And today Hamm is not only the Northwest's largest brewer, but one of the largest brewers in America.

In 26 states the trend is toward sensible drinking. They are asking for a smooth, mellow beer, fully aged.

They are asking for Hamm's!

Farm and Implement News

Something NEW in INTERNATIONAL TRUCKS, now out and our first shipment expected soon.

A cab-over-engine truck of beautiful design for all kinds of hauling in the 1½ ton field. Here we have increased loading space, proper load distribution, perfect place for driver, on a compact chassis of two wheelbases, 99 and 117-in., and at low price. Watch for full announcement of new Model C300.

LOW COST ELECTRIC LIGHT

The long evenings are coming on and what a treat to have the convenience of electric lights on the farm. We have our demonstrator Mercury Electric Light Plant all set and ready to give you a demonstration. It's not a big cumbersome plant, nor is the cost out of reach for any farm. It carries 12 25-watt lamps continually which is more than average used at one time on a farm and the plant only costs you $69.50.

WASHING MACHINE

The long summer hard wash days are tough jobs for the women on the farm especially and surely they are entitled to a good washing machine to lighten and brighten the wash days. We have a very large number of satisfied customers on Horton Washers and the Horton never fails to prove satisfaction. The Horton is the oldest washing machine on the market and is a time tried-proven success. We want to demonstrate this quality machine and a demonstration in your home is yours for the asking.

THE NEW NO. 6 FIELD CULTIVATOR

The New No. 6 McCormick-Deering Field Cultivator is just a lot more than we can tell you by way of improvement over anything we or any one has offered in the past. You just cannot appreciate this new cultivator until you have tried it. I'm sure you will get a surprising good report if you ask some of our customers: Otto Parnow, Erie; Alfred Lengren, R. 4; C. M. Hoverstad, R. 4; Ed. Hounkie, Hazel and others. The usual statement, "I would not care to farm without one of these New No. 6 cultivators."

MANURE SPREADERS

As the fall farm work is nearing completion, there is a most certain paying job that should not be overlooked that too often is neglected. On many farms there are large piles of manure and any number of old straw bottoms that should be out on the field this fall for big crop dividends in 1937. No better way to get it there than with a new No. 4 McCormick-Deering light running, all steel spreader. It's a copper rust-resisting steel, simple in construction and durable long lasting machine. We will deliver one at your request.

LOW PRICED USED CARS AND TRUCKS

Not very many on hand now, but we are making every effort to give special price values in these low cost automobiles that we have on hand. Several very low priced good working trucks and a few of the late models. They are going fast because the bargains we now give.

HORSES

Two teams and one single horse. One team as low as $75. The other is such an outstanding value in a pair of draft mares that it is hard to find the equal. The single horse is a 7 year old 1500 lb. gelding and a mighty fine horse.

PLUMMER

PLUMMER DROPS FINAL GAME TO RED LAKE FALLS 8 TO 7

A spiritless Plummer team playing listless baseball dropped its final game of the season to Red Lake Falls by a score of 8-7. The defeat dropped Plummer into fourth place in the final standings of the league.

Five unearned runs in the seventh and two in the eighth brought about the defeat as Fremling's support collapsed.

Gilbertson started on the mound for Plummer and receiving brilliant support from his mates set the opponents down for five innings with but 3 hits and 1 run. He chalked up six strike-outs in those five innings. Fremling relieved in the sixth and ran into trouble in the seventh when his support collapsed with two out and five runs scored making the score 6 to 3 for Red Lake Falls.

In their half of the seventh Plummer came back with 4 runs to take the lead again. Fremling singled but was forced by Toulouse. Hanson doubled, scoring Toulouse, and Langlie reached first on an error. Ripple bunted, scoring Hanson, Langlie taking second. Craft singled, scoring Langlie. After stealing second and third, he scored on a passed ball.

Red Lake Falls scored two in the 8th to gain their margin of victory.

Now that the league season is over, our attention is turned to the idea of an all-star game played between a team composed of two players from each team in the league except Thief River, and Thief River Falls, champion of the league. Manager George Lee of Thief River Falls offered $25.00 to pay the expenses of the All-Stars to play at Thief River. If such a game is arranged, it should prove very interesting.

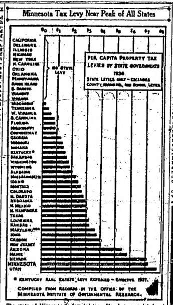
Minnesota Tax Levy Near Peak of All States



The state of Minnesota is forcing its citizens to pay the highest per capita tax on general property in the United States this year with one exception, officials of the Minnesota Federation for Tax Reform pointed out in a report received here today comparing property tax burdens throughout the country.

The state levy on homes, farms and other general property which Minnesota citizens must pay this year amounts to $7.16 for each man, woman and child in the state, Constant Larson of Alexandria, president of the federation said. Only in Utah does the state levy reach such a peak, and the only other state whose levy approaches that of Minnesota is Nevada. Both of these states have a small and scattered population, Mr. Larson pointed out, and are hardly comparable with Minnesota.

The report was based upon data gathered by the Minnesota Institute of Governmental Research and covered all states.

The Minnesota levy is about 10 per cent more than the state levy paid here last year, and it would be much more if the state were levying taxes to cover all the money being spent. Where the state levy being paid this year is 13.57 mills, estimates have been made that at least 20 mills will be needed for 1937 if the state levies taxes on property to meet the huge deficit that now exists in the revenue fund and finance out of current revenue some of the new obligations which are being carried now through bond issues.

One more week of vacation and then the school bells will ring again. And that means a big increase in community activities. The school system is one of the city's biggest industries. More than sixty employees will go back to work. Some over fifteen hundred youngsters will be exposed to knowledge, some of which will be absorbed. But it means activity and a lot of the same old problems to worry about all over again. One more week and, for all practical purposes, the summer will be ended.

Worthy of praise, and certainly deserving of serious consideration, is the plea of local automobile dealers for safer driving during the month of September. Just why September, year in and year out, should be the most dangerous month on the highways we haven't the slightest idea. We'll leave that to the statisticians, or the astrologers, to figure out. But regardless of what the reason may be, it does seem reasonable that if the extra hazards are offset by extra precautions the fatalities could be reduced to at least normal. Those who survive September will have a pretty fair chance of living through to election day. After that, of course, it will be a matter of opinion as to whether or not it will be worth while living, but between now and then things should be quite interesting. So drive carefully during September. If for no other reason, let's humor the automobile dealers.

With first results of the Literary Digest poll on the presidential election released this week we swing into the final stages of the 1936 campaign. The Digest poll has proven itself a fairly reliable guide in past elections and the results of this poll will command much respect. Other polls have already indicated that the election is going to be a close race and that the present administration faces a hard fight in the campaign for votes. But these other polls do not bear the stamp of authority that the Digest has earned through several campaigns and have not been taken so seriously. From now on there will be nearly as much interest in the weekly reports as there will be in the final official election returns.

Thanks to the efforts of the Junior Civic & Commerce Association we are now going to have an illuminated football field and many football fans who have not been able to get away for the afternoon games will be able to see the high school athletes in action under the flood lights. Night football has proven successful in so many communities that there can be little room for a doubt as to the results here.

Public enemy No. 1 in the country today, we are reliably informed, is one William Randolph Hearst. He is a very bad man, we have been told. Just why he has such a low rating at the present time we have not been informed. Four years ago he was a respectable citizen. At any rate there was a fellow by this same name, and answering the same general description, who took quite an active part in the presidential campaign four years ago. If we remember right he was for Roosevelt at that time. And Hearst was a pretty decent sort of fellow at that time, rich of course, but a patriot nevertheless and interested in the welfare of the masses. Now things are different. He is a scoundrel. And he is for Landon for president. And therefore Landon is a scoundrel. This would be very confusing of course if Mr. Farley had not made it clear a few months ago that this would be a dirty campaign. This is one promise that Mr. Farley evidently intends to fulfill.

A new farm program is in the making down in Washington. Advance reports speak of crop insurance and a "normal granary", the new idea being to build up a controlled reserve that will tide us over during lean years. Farmers would pay their premiums in harvested grain, which would be placed in the public granary. Settlement of claims would also be in kind, the farmer whose crops had failed receiving grain from the public granary. Along with this would go the crop control program somewhat as we have it now. Some of the questions that worry the planners are whether the insurance should be on a compulsory or voluntary basis? If on a voluntary basis could farmers be persuaded to carry the insurance during years of good prospects? Should rates vary by zones according to crop failure experience? Would security from failure tend to make farmers careless and inefficient? Well the plan isn't here yet but it's something to think about. We would like to stand around and listen when the government tries to collect the same premium from a good farmer as it does from the fellow who never gets started on his spring work until the middle of the summer.

Reports from down in the other end of the world tell us that Australia and Argentina are increasing their wheat acreage now going into crop. This probably will mean that, as good neighbors, we will be asked to make further reductions in our wheat acreage next year.

Those who hope for a Republican Victory in Minnesota this fall are not at all sorry the leaders of the Farmer-Labor party turned thumbs down on Hjalmer Petersen's request that he be permitted to run for governor, the office he now holds. Governor Petersen would have been a strong candidate to succeed himself. During the few weeks between now and election he could have repaired many of the party's fences and held in line many of the more conservative voters who are being forced out of the party by its present radical leadership. Governor Petersen has many friends outside his own party who like him personally and who respect him for his sincerity and honesty and who wish him well in the difficult office he holds for the balance of the year.

TO SEE WHAT CAN'T BE SEEN

(St. Cloud Times)

The Minneapolis Journal suggests President Roosevelt on his Western drouth trip, take a look at the trees planted in the shelter belt in the arid West, to see the result. One official says 81.9 per cent of the seedlings survived up to July, while Chief Forester F. A. Silcox contends the trees in such area cannot survive. Both may be right. Seedlings might survive for a year, but wither away after that, if there were no moisture for the roots. North Dakota Experimental Station has demonstrated that trees can flourish with very little rain, under constant cultivation, with a year previous to put the soil in preparation. But to properly cultivate a hundred thousand miles of trees as the shelter belt advocate proposed, is almost impossible. Even if they grew up, they would not stop the dust storms.

WORKING AT THEIR JOBS

(Little Falls Transcript)

Why should it be so surprising that Governor Landon is ready to co-operate with President Roosevelt in the matter of drouth relief? Landon is the Governor of the State of Kansas where there has been drouth. Roosevelt is the President of the United States of America. They both have jobs with duties attached to them. Both work at those jobs and have no excuse for not doing so. The fact that they are campaigning—on the side—for the same future job is completely irrelevant.

NEWS WITHOUT BIAS

(Grand Forks Herald)

Many changes have taken place in newspapers, and probably not all the changes have been in the line of improvement. But in one direction there has been decided improvement. In its distribution of information the modern newspaper is far superior to its predecessor of two or three generations ago. The early newspaper was distinctly and avowedly partisan, and invariably its partisanship extended to its treatment of news. The partisanship which colored the news columns of the early newspaper has disappeared from all but the few sheets which exist merely as political mouthpieces, and whose utterances are discounted because of that fact.

FOUR BILLIONS ALARMED THE PRESIDENT!

(Northfield News)

"For three long years the federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy . . . With the utmost seriousness I point out . . . the profound effect of this fact upon our national economy. It has contributed to the recent collapse of our banking structure. It has accentuated the stagnation of the economic life of our people. It has added to the ranks of the unemployed. Our government's house is not in order and for many reasons no effective action has been taken to restore it to order."

Sounds like a Republican attacking the New Deal's extravagances and deficits, that quotation, doesn't it? But it is not. It is simply the authoritative message of President Roosevelt in a message to congress March 10, 1933, reviewing the $4,000,000,000 deficit which had accumulated in the three closing years of the Hoover administration.

But if the President was alarmed over that deficit of four billions incurred when federal revenues were declining and felt it had put the country on the road to bankruptcy, what of the three long years that followed? At the end of the fiscal year last June the Roosevelt administration had piled up a deficit of $12,328,000,000.

If the President was alarmed at a deficit of four billions when he took office in 1933, is there not even more reason for the country to be alarmed at a deficit in 1936 three times as great?

STUDYING SCANDINAVIA

(Minnesota Mascot)

Here in Minnesota in particular, political leaders have formed quite a habit of pointing to Scandinavian countries in advocating certain legislative and economic reforms. It's flattering to the state's large Scandinavian population to hear the leadership of their old homelands praised and it makes fairly effective argument in a good many instances.

Now President Roosevelt has sent a commission over to visit mainly in England and the Scandinavian countries, for the purpose of studying their success in organizing consumers' cooperatives. The Realtor, a weekly bulletin published by the Minneapolis Real Estate Board, has a suggestion to make to that presidential commission, in its current issue. It voices the hope that while this delegation is in Sweden, it posts up a bit on the Swedish tax system, as well as on their co-operative organizations.

Here's what the Minneapolis realtor's publication points out about taxes in Sweden:

"Sweden's taxes on real property are approximately one-third of what is customary in the United States. The total tax for Karlstad, for instance, on the average home, farm or business property is about $15 per $1,000 valuation. While owners often discuss the valuation placed upon their property, there are virtually no complaints about the amount of tax. Taxable value of property is fixed by a municipal architect, sometimes assisted by a real estate man or builder. This valuation takes into account cost but is based primarily on income values. The income is net, which means what is left after deducting a fair amount for keeping the property in good condition.

"Every person from 17 years of age to 90 years old has his name in the Swedish tax book. Each is liable for a tax, if it be only a head tax, and total exemptions are very rare, and only for those of great poverty. In the book is noted down what each person has to pay on the property he owns, on income he receives, etc., and also the purpose for which the tax is used. By simply looking in the book anyone can see the whole situation at a glance.

"Contrary to the situation prevailing in the United States, in Minnesota, and in Minneapolis, tax delinquency is very small, with only fairly severe penalties. As an example of the penalties, anyone 'going delinquent' is deprived of his 'permit book' or motbok, which entitles the holder to purchase about a gallon of hard drinks a month. This is one of the most effective measures, it is said. While Sweden's tax system undoubtedly has its faults, tax officials take a very realistic and practical view of the entire matter and have popular support. They have recognized the two main principles of any sound tax system. Ability to pay, and equitable distribution of the tax burden with everyone paying his share."

Perhaps the Scandinavian countries can supply some lessons through their tax system; certainly our law-makers will have to study hard to devise the reforms long promised, but still lacking.

REEMPLOYMENT ITEMS

Our state office reports that within the next two weeks they expect to have several openings in the following occupations: Finish carpenters, form carpenters, camp cooks, dragline operators (gas and Diesel) and Diesel mechanics. Available applicants should get in touch with the local office.

All National Reemployment Offices will be closed on Labor Day, September 7.

History of Agriculture Theme of U. S. Exhibit at Minnesota State Fair

To emphasize the relationship between scientific research and agricultural progress, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is sending a carload of educational exhibits to the Minnesota State Fair, St. Paul, September 6-12, 1936.

Dioramas, flashing lights, mechanical devices, motion pictures, signs, legends, cutouts, and other modern display methods will be used to portray the theme of the whole display which is that while great progress has been made, the future offers opportunity for much improvement through cooperation between farmers and breeders and research organizations.

The center feature of the display is entitled "The History of American Agriculture", which is presented in a series of dioramas, two of them pertaining to each major phase of the subject. One on early American corn culture shows a primitive Indian corn field and Indian women grinding corn into meal. The diorama is supplemented by actual samples of early Indian corn and pictures of Indians teaching the early settlers how to grow it. The other diorama shows modern corn culture.

WOLF, KEPT FROM DOOR, RETURNS WITH RACOON

Moorhead.— Residents of Elm street in Moorhead have been more or less successful in keeping the wolf from the door, but are finding it equally difficult to close their outside portals against some of the rest of the animal kingdom. Three householders were startled one night recently to find a raccoon snooping around their dining rooms. Merton Moll heard something sniffing something to eat. It had broken through a front porch screen. He chased the animal from the house, but Mr. Coon was not to be discouraged. He went next door to the Herman Sears residence, and repeated the performance. Chased from this home, too, he tried his luck across the street, but there met his Waterloo. A dog owned by Mrs. Herman Kiefs resented the intrusion of his domain, and killed the raccoon. Neighbors blame the marauding coon for the death of 25 chickens nearby recently.

MARRIED WITH LICENSE OBTAINED 26 YEARS AGO

Detroit Lakes.—In April, 1910, more than 26 years ago, the fancies of a Detroit Lakes couple lightly turned to thoughts of love. Hopping into a buggy, they made a hurried trip to the marriage license bureau and rushed home. From that time on their story is not known. Time marched on. Wars were fought. Governments changed hands. Depressions came and passed. Cupid was apparently too busy keeping the wolf from the door to shape the affairs of men. On August 12, 1936, came the license to C. B. Connell, present clerk of court. Yellowed with age, brittle with the accumulated dust of over a score of years, the license served its purpose, for on that date the couple agreed that they fully understood each other, and that they were not rushing into a hasty marriage. They secured the consent of their parents, bought the ring, and having thought the matter over for 26 years and 102 days, they were married.

Those attending were Mrs. Fred Bjornson and son Loryn of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Leonard Helgeland and daughters, Jean, Irene and Doris, Mrs. Selmer Berg and son Clinton and daughter DeVon, Mrs. Henry Bolstad and daughters Jeanette and Loretta and Lillian Larson of Grand Forks. The little guests enjoyed a rollicking afternoon followed by a delicious refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Corbett of St. Hilaire were visitors at the Freeman Allen home Tuesday evening.—A large crowd and a good time was had at the "Old-time" dance held at the Smiley hall Saturday evening. Mostly old-timers turned out for the old fashioned tunes and steps. Music was supplied by an orchestra composed of Luther Haugen, Stella Ringstrand and the Rude brothers.—Lillian Larson left for her employment in Grand Forks Monday after spending a week's vacation at her parental home. She was accompanied on her return by her daughter, Betty Lou, who will reside with her mother and attend school.

Mrs. Carl Norquist of Superior, Wis., former resident of this community is up here visiting. She is a house guest of her sister, Mrs. Borgen in Thief River Falls.

Mark Olson and Otto Myhrer left Monday for Bemidji where they will join the former's cousin Carl M. Jacobson of Memphis, Tenn. From there they will motor to the North woods and Lake of the Woods to take a canoe trip beginning at Crow Lake and will explore for a six day outing.

Earl Turnwall left Sunday for Cloquet where he is employed at a Gamble store there after spending a week at his parental home.

News and Comment

By R. W. Hitchcock

In the death of Governor Floyd B. Olson, Minnesota and the nation lose one of the most brilliant men in public life in this generation. Resourceful in a remarkable degree, Floyd Olson was endowed with abilities of a high order covering a wide range of human activities. As orator, administrator, leader, he was courageous, understanding and highly effective. His personality was unique, binding to him men of diverse opinions and interest; his charm won both friend and foe. As a political leader he had no peer in the history of Minnesota.

Floyd Olson has given his talents back into the hands of his Maker. He alone who judges the quick and the dead will render the just award of merit. The judgments of men will differ, but neither the plaudits of his friends, nor the recriminations of his foes, will determine the measure of Floyd Olson's usefulness in the world. Time alone will determine his place in history.

Today we only know that one who surpassed his fellows in the leadership of men has gone on.

While the farmer-labor party in Minnesota was ostensibly formed for the purpose of conferring particular benefits upon labor and while it aggressively poses as the friend of labor, it is the republican party that has proved itself the true friend of labor in this state. The record abundantly shows it.

Here are a few of the progressive labor laws enacted by republican legislatures under republican administrations:

Knute Nelson—Bureau of labor established (1893).

A. O. Eberhart—First workmen's compensation law (1913), guarded machinery act (1913), minimum wage law for minors (1913).

J. A. Burnquist—Recognition of labor unions and principle of collective bargaining, declaration that the labor of a human being is not a commodity and that the right to work shall be construed to be a personal not a property right (1917), law compelling prompt payment of wages to a discharged employe (1919), comprehensive act regulating the operation of foundries for the protection of employees (1919).

J. A. O. Preus—Workmen's compensation act amended, revised and made a model for other states. This act has done more for labor than all other labor legislation combined. Between 1913 and 1936 a sum in excess of $40,000,000 has been paid to employees or their dependents, under the Minnesota Compensation Act—State industrial commission created and granted wide powers (1921), law limiting the employment of minors in certain occupations (1921), act limiting the hours of employment for women (1923), compensation act extended to cover the highway department (1923).

Theodore Christianson — Comprehensive employment agency law (1925), compensation act extended to state employes (1927), act requiring the labeling of prison-made goods (1929).

The hollowness of F-L protests of friendship for labor was strikingly illustrated in the 1933 legislature. The house was controlled at that session by F-L, the senate by what farmer-labor called "reactionary republican forces." That "reactionary republican" senate passed 14 labor bills which the F-L house neglected or refused to act on. These bills are detailed in the Minnesota Federation of Labor report on the session as follows:

S. F. 563 and H. F. 540, adding a definition to the term "minor" in the minimum wage law.

S. F. [illegible] and H. F. 323, requiring employers to give notice to employees concerning certain conditions of employment.

S. F. 621, requiring employers to give advance notice of discharge to employees who have been in their service 6 months.

S. F. 281 and H. F. 335, relating to deductions from wages.

S. F. 641 and H. F. 751, relating to violations of the minimum wage law, recalled from the senate after it had passed there and allowed to die in the house.

S. F. 327 and H. F. 421, relating to amount which employer shall pay into special compensation fund in case of death of an employe where no persons are entitled to compensation.

S. F. 370 and H. F. 416, relating to payment of compensation during the healing period in cases of permanent partial disability.

S. F. 326, relating to appeals to the industrial commission from decisions in compensation cases.

S. F. 322 and H. F. 417, amending the workmen's compensation law relative to dependents.

S. F. 324 and H. F. 418, amending schedule of compensation for certain cases of permanent partial disability.

S. F. 742 and H. F. 828, requiring payment of not less than the highest rate of wages on public works.

S. F. 707, subjecting products of prisons in other states to the laws of Minnesota.

S. F. 708, requiring the branding and labeling of convict-made goods sold in this state.

S. F. 267 and H. F. 847, providing for one day's rest in seven.

There is a growing realization in labor circles that the republican party is more to be depended upon for labor progress than is any other in Minnesota. In November last year the Duluth Federated Trades Assembly divorced itself from the Central Committee of Laborers and Farmers and set up its own Central Labor Political Committee. It declared that so-called "reactionary legislators had put across more progressive labor legislation than the so-called farmer-laborites" and it urged "all union labor men to go back to the days when they elected their friends and defeated their enemies." This action was followed in March of this year by an open break with the farmer-labor party. There is also a distinct trend in railway labor circles toward the republican party.

Martin A. Nelson is the spear head of the thrust of the republican party to restore good government in Minnesota.

His progress in favor with the people of Minnesota in two short years has been remarkable. He has grown immeasurably.

The people of Minnesota have come to know and like him—a farm boy who had to make his own way, who worked days and studied nights, who won degrees in pharmacy and in law, who became an aviator in the World War, who hung out his shingle in the City of Austin and soon became head of one of the largest legal practices in southern Minnesota.

He became the standard bearer of the republican party when the fight seemed utterly hopeless. To the astonishment of all, under his leadership the republican party made sweeping gains throughout the state.

Since then Martin Nelson has become a familiar figure in every part of the state. He has studied the needs and the problems of the state and its people right on the ground in the local communities.

No man in the state today is more familiar with what the people want and hope for than Martin Nelson.

He has grown tremendously in political stature. He has learned the problems of government at first hand and is today splendidly equipped to assume the responsibilities of chief executive of the state.

His discussions, in all parts of the state, of the problems of the day reveal a warm sympathy, a clarity of vision, a keenness of judgment and an integrity of action that promises much to the state. His is the common-sense, practical view.

It is probable that no candidate for governor in Minnesota has ever studied, talked and revealed himself so thoroughly in every quarter of the state as has Martin Nelson.

Physicians Encourage Traffic Safety Drive on Habitual Offenders

A recent study of accidents made in Connecticut showed that more than half the automobile accidents in a large series happened to repeaters. This fact is noted in a bulletin on accident prevention issued by the public health education committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association today.

Minnesota physicians, in this bulletin, heartily join with the Minnesota public safety committee in their campaign to cut down automobile accident deaths during September. They also call attention to the significance of the findings about repeaters.

If a driver figures in repeated accidents, it cannot be argued, according to the physicians, that luck is always against him. It is time, then, to look into his qualifications for the exacting business of driving. He may be merely undisciplined and irresponsible or he may be physically or mentally unfit for driving. In any case, he should be prevented from further driving unless the defect that caused the trouble can be corrected.

A few truck companies have already followed the program recommended by the doctors. That is, they have barred chronic accident repeaters from their employ. The result has been a sensational drop in the accident rate among their drivers.

LITTLE DUCK DRINKS HIMSELF TO DEATH

Morris—Another story of the drouth and the hardships it wrought on the wild duck population of this section is told by a Morris farmer. While the drought was at its height, a little spoonbill wandered into the farmyard and made a straight line for the water tank. It hopped and drank and drank and drank. It couldn't seem to get enough of the water. The duck finally got out of the tank and started to waddle away, but had gone only a short distance when it fell over and died.

BABY IS STRANGLED IN ROPE OF SWING

Norwood.—The 15-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Graunke of New Germany was strangled to death when an ordinary swing rope became entangled about her neck. The child had gone out to play. Ten minutes later her father sent her brother out to search for her, and the lad found his sister strangled to death with the swing rope tight around her neck. No one witnessed the tragedy, so it is not known exactly how it happened but apparently the child, only a little more than a year old, had been playing with the rope, which hung about her neck. She probably became twisted about with the rope around her shoulders and became excited, the noose becoming tighter and tighter as she struggled.

AVERAGE AUTO TAX WOULD RAISE ROAD FUNDS $7,500,000

Highway Department Needs More Current Revenue, Elsberg Says

If Minnesota motorists paid as much as the average motorist in the United States in motor vehicle license fees and gas tax, the state revenues for road building purposes would be increased more than $7,500,000 a year, according to an estimate by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

This amount of money would pay for more than 800 miles of concrete paving a year, or triple that mileage in an intermediate type bituminous surfacing, Mr. Elsberg stated. It also would obviate the issuance of further state highway bonds to match federal aid funds. Part of such an increase, if derived from gas taxes, would go to the counties for use on county aid roads.

"On October 1 the state will sell another $4,000,000 of its bonds to enable the highway department to obtain $3,400,000 of federal aid funds for the current fiscal year", Mr. Elsberg said. "The issuance of bonds was authorized by the legislature for this year and last because current revenues of the highway department are insufficient to meet requirements. In 1933 revenues of the department were decreased by cutting motor vehicle license fees, while the mileage of the trunk system was increased 65 per cent. This situation has not been permanently remedied, but has been met temporarily by borrowing money. This policy should not continue in the future."

'U' FRESHMEN TO BE GIVEN HELP BY OLDER STUDENTS

Student Advisers Prepared to Give Variety of Services

University of Minnesota freshmen this year will have a decided advantage over students of earlier years when they find upperclassmen ready to provide them with a variety of information on campus activities and problems as soon as they reach the campus.

For the first time in University history, incoming freshmen will be aided in registering by older student advisers. Forty upperclassmen of outstanding scholarship and representing various curricula have been selected by the Deans and major advisers of the various colleges at the request of the student committee to supplement the work of the faculty advisers.

These student advisers will be located in the Armory and Folwell Hall, and will attempt to aid students vocationally with advice on the professional schools and the major sequences, and technically in the following manner:

Explain course sequences and interpret the bulletin.

OKLEE WINS FROM LOCALS IN WINDUP OF LEAGUE SEASON

Bemidji Battery Proves Too Potent for Thief River Falls Team

Handicapped by the absence from the lineup of George Lee, manager and heavy hitter, the Thief River Falls baseball team wound up its league season by suffering its first defeat in a contest played in Oklee Sunday afternoon. The score was 6 to 0.

The Oklee team was fortified by the addition of a battery from Bemidji, Haugen serving as catcher, while Schell, the pitcher, proved to be a big obstacle for the locals, striking out no less than 15 men and holding Thief River Falls to five scattered hits. Oklee collected a total of ten singles off Orvalla and Sahl who were on the mound for the locals.

Next Sunday the Thief River Falls team will journey to Grygla for a post-season game with an aggregation of men picked from three teams in that section, the game being called for the afternoon at 2:30. A scrappy Warren team is coming here next Monday at 2:30 for a contest at the fair grounds. Each team has won a game earlier in the season and is determined to make it two out of three.

Flax in Drouth Years Is Dangerous for Feed

Verifying his statement that flax straw in drouth years contains enough prussic acid that only a few mouthfuls will kill an animal, T. H. Hopper, agricultural chemist for the North Dakota Agricultural College experimental station, declared that in every one of the numerous samples sent him throughout North Dakota, the deadly acid was evident.

The last five years, Mr. Hooper said, much of the flax in North Dakota has been stunted by heat and drouth, thus making it dangerous to feed to livestock. This year, however, has been the worst season, he declared.

The acid is eliminated if the plant ripens under a normal conditions, and when there is a normal amount of moisture.

Horseshoe Pitching Title Goes Again to Floyd Olson This Week

Floyd Olson won his second city horseshoe title this week by defeating Ames Pederson in a match cut short by darkness. It was already dark when the two players began their match, both men agreeing to settle it with one game. Olson proved the better night owl and came out on top by a 50-45 score.

Due to the fact that Olson was leaving for the cities last night the tournament had to be finished regardless of daylight or darkness. Earlier in the evening Olson won from Merrill Grothe by a score of 50-28 42-50, 50-8. In the other semi-final match Pederson defeated Benson 50-42, 50-34. In the quarter finals Grothe beat H. Sahl; Benson eliminated Gust Anderson 50-8, 49-50, 50-38; Pederson upset Leaf Sahl 50-33, 50-42; Olson won from Art Berg by default.

ENJOYS BITE FROM GLASS WITH BEER

Buhl.—Matt Ilka bites a chunk out of his beer glass and washes it down with beer, making it rather unprofitable to serve him as a customer. Before witnesses, Ilka bit a chunk out of an ordinary beer glass, chewed it and washed it down with the beer. In fact, he noticed a piece of glass that laid on the bar and swallowed that also. The first chunk was two inches long and an inch wide, and about 3-32 of an inch thick. Ilka claims that he is now 57 years old and has performed this feat at various times for the past 40 years.

TOAD IS HATCHED IN FLOWER POT

Piers.—A small toad, measuring about 1½ inches in size, was discovered in a flower pot in the home of Mr. F. X. Virnig in Piers, apparently having been hatched there. Mrs. Virnig was about to throw out what she though was a stone from the pot, when the object became very much alive and hopped out. The pot containing the fern had been kept on a steel stand on which the toad could not possibly have climbed while the fern was kept in the house. Since new ground was taken from the garden for the planting of the fern in the flower pot last spring, it is believed that the ground contained an egg from which the toad was hatched during the hot period in July, while the pot containing the fern was kept in the house.

Youth will be served. The Dionne quintuplets learned to take a walk before Messrs. Smith, Colby, Ely, Reed and Oshalsa.—

Thief River Falls Schools to Open Next Monday Morning

MEETING OF FACULTY TO BE HELD SATURDAY

School Board Selects Minneapolis Woman for School Nurse Tuesday

With only three days remaining of the long summer vacation, boys and girls of the Thief River Falls community are turning their thoughts to school sessions, which will get under way in this city next Monday morning. The first general meeting of the faculty will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Lincoln building, Supt. Morris Bye announced today.

The present outlook is for a high school enrollment fully equal to last year's total of 580, Principal W. G. Claffy having registered 568 up to Wednesday noon, with the usual last-minute rush still in prospect.

Additional details incident to the opening of the fall term were disposed of at a special meeting of the board of education Tuesday morning. At the session Mrs. Clara Gay Paulson of Minneapolis was elected to fill the position of school nurse. Mrs. Paulson is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, where she specialized in public health work, and was active in that field for five years at Oshkosh, Wisconsin, in addition to two years service with the federal emergency relief administration.

While no major improvement projects in the school plant were carried out during the summer vacation period, floors in all of the buildings were refinished and desks and other furniture revarnished. Heating plants also were checked over carefully and repaired, and hot water facilities were installed in the Northrop school. New desks and chairs have been placed in the typewriting room in the Lincoln building, and enough new typewriters have been added to accommodate classes of thirty members.

Mr. Bye announced that difficulty is being experienced in arranging for rooms for non-resident students, and suggested that anyone having room available for the purpose should communicate at once with Mrs. Blanche G. Korstad.

Director Riggs Announces His Plans for Building School Band

Talks to Grocery Men

GEORGE E. BAGAN
Of Albert Lea, secretary of the Minnesota Retail Grocers and General Merchants association, who Wednesday evening in the Auditorium addressed a gathering of grocers from this city and neighboring communities.

Ronald C. Riggs of St. Cloud, recently appointed school band instructor, who will arrive in the city late this week preparatory to assuming his new duties, states in a letter to the Times that next week he will start organizing a group of beginners in band work, taking his pupils from the fifth and sixth grades of the Washington, Knox and Northrop schools.

He also will teach pupils from the seventh and eighth grades in the Central school and from the freshman and sophomore classes in Lincoln high school, while members of the junior and senior classes are not encouraged to make a start in band work. Parents will be expected to supply satisfactory band instruments, and to provide an instruction book for home practice.

Mr. Riggs states that he hopes to start fifty beginners before Christmas, which number, added to the present band of 34 members and last year's beginning class of 20, will give a band membership of approximately 100.

In Farmington, where he taught the past three years, Mr. Riggs developed a first band of 58 members and a second band of 24. Late in August he directed the Farmington organization when it appeared at a St. Paul baseball game and also in a performance over the radio.

THIEF RIVER FALLS WINS PAIR OF POST SEASON CONTESTS

Downs Grygla 14-10 Sunday and Warren Team 7-6 on Labor Day

Schell of Bemidji, on the mound for the locals, kept the visitors' hits scattered during most of the game and struck out ten men, while H. Strobble, pitching for Warren, struck out five.

In a slugging exhibition at Grygla Sunday the Thief River Falls team accounted for no less than 19 hits, while Grygla collected ten off Orvalla, the final score being 14 to 10 in favor of the locals.

Next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Thief River Falls team will play a return game on the Warren diamond, winding up the season for the local aggregation.

COUNCIL ACTS ON NUMEROUS TAX MATTERS

Approves $25,000 in Building Permits Tuesday Evening

VOTE TO CALL FOR BIDS ON SNOWPLOW

Ask Highway Department to Abate Dust Nuisance on E. Third St.

A large number of applications for tax abatements, inspired by the approaching deadline when the state will take title to real estate long delinquent, occupied the major portion of the attention of the council in a lengthy session Tuesday evening.

Also approved at the meeting were approximately $25,000 in building permits, most of the applications covering construction already well under way. Included in those granted permits were Thomas Waale, business block on La Bree av., $15,000; Mrs. A. Lein, residence, $2,000; Dr. L. V. Johnson, residence, $3,500; F. A. Rinkel, residence, $3,600; O. M. Bishop, roof repairs, $350; J. D. Turnwall, addition to residence, $500; and Phil Hawkins, garage, $150.

The application of the Gospel Tabernacle for a permit covering a building already completed was laid over until Friday evening, following criticism of the type of construction employed.

The council adopted a motion to request the state highway department to take steps to abate the dust nuisance on the East Third st. boulevard, which is causing considerable annoyance to residents along the street. Action also was taken to call for bids on a snowplow to be operated in connection with the city street department truck, the plow ordered last winter never having been delivered.

Fire Chief Leonard Hanson told the council of the menace caused by burning paper in the downtown district in burners without screen protection. He was advised to take the necessary steps to see that the burners are properly equipped. The council also voted expense money to send a small delegation from the local fire department to the Border Firemen's association meeting at Warroad this week-end.

Among those presenting application for tax abatement, most of them covering vacant lots in the city, were Frank Carpenter, Leslie Hall, Mrs. J. M. Bishop, M. C. Harlow estate, P. W. Mabey and O. L. Ihla. All proposed settlements, which in most cases were sufficiently large to cover special assessments, were approved.

The complaint of F. J. Dudley relative to a player piano which he said is being operated in the vicinity of his apartments late at night was referred to the license committee for investigation.

"We went into the question of a large water program for the state," said Victor Christgau, State W. P. A. administrator, explaining this was to supply the cities of the Red River valley.

AUTO DEALERS TO HOLD SHOW IN NOVEMBER

Project Endorsed by Civic Group at Meeting Thursday

GIVE UP PLANS FOR OCTOBER FESTIVAL

Committee Chairmen Report on Association Work of Past Year

The dinner meeting of the Civic and Commerce association arranged for last Thursday evening attracted a large and representative attendance, and brought forth a discussion of a variety of projects relating to community activities.

The chief topic brought before the meeting was the matter of holding a fall celebration, which at an earlier meeting had been scheduled for October 1, 2 and 3. Discussion brought out the general opinion that time was lacking to prepare properly for a city-wide festival, and the earlier action was thereupon rescinded.

F. A. Rinkel and C. D. Gustafson brought up a proposal supported by all local automobile dealers to hold an automobile show in November at approximately the time of the New York show, using the event as the nucleus for a celebration backed by all civic groups. It was pointed out that with the present practice of introducing the new models of cars in the fall instead of in January as formerly, the dates of the show here should be correspondingly advanced.

Members of the association endorsed the suggestion, and a motion was carried to cooperate in arranging a three-day celebration in November, the exact dates to be set later. President W. L. Carlisle was authorized to appoint a committee of five members to make the necessary arrangements.

Details of the various accomplishments of the association during the past year were given in a series of brief reports by Chairmen F. A. Rinkel of the road committee; Morris Bye, conventions; Andrew Anderson, agriculture; and W. E. Dahlquist, industrial.

Secretary Paul Lundgren, retiring from office after seven years of service, announced his resignation at the meeting and received a standing vote of appreciation for his efforts in behalf of the association.

Social, Sociable

The nouns social and sociable, each meaning "a social gathering," are distinctly Americanisms. Of the two sociable seems to have been the earlier form, and has been in use for more than a century. Both terms are in good usage in the United States; though until recently, sociable enjoyed a preference. Usage appears to be veering toward social.—Literary Digest.

The Foot of a Horse

The foot of a horse may be considered as a horny box, consisting of wall, quarters, sole, bars and frog, inside of which is contained a wonderful mechanism. All efforts of horseshoeing should be to keep that box in a good natural healthy condition.

REEMPLOYMENT ITEMS

By E. R. Stanghelle

5,755,964 placements have been made by the United States Employment Service in the past fiscal year.

During the month of August 1936, 830 persons contacted the local office for work either by letter or in person. This is a slight increase over July. The local office referred 316 persons to jobs and 235 were reported placed. These figures include activity for the five counties handled by the Thief River Falls office.

Let the NRS office fill your labor order. If applicants are not available locally, the local office will contact other offices or refer your order to the state office.

The National Reemployment Service in Minnesota reports a placement increase of 9.4 percent for July 1936 over July 1935.

Private employers are urged to visit the local National Reemployment Service. Stop in for a visit with the local manager. He will be pleased to discuss the Service and show you how it operates.

Applicants must renew their applications every thirty days.

Maids and housekeepers are urged to register. There is a constant demand for this type of labor both on farms and in town.

Placements to all Bureau of Public Roads jobs are made through the National Reemployment Service.

Day laborers for doing odd jobs around the home, painting or repairing, cleaning offices or homes, can very conveniently be secured through the local office by telephoning 411.

First Greyhounds in America

The first greyhounds imported into America from England were in the late 70's, and it is from this foundations stock that the racing dogs were developed.

CARD MAILED 53 YEARS AGO DELIVERED BY P. O.

Chatfield.—A postal card which was mailed October 18, 1883 and addressed to S. Burnap was delivered to A. M. Burnap by the Chatfield postoffice the other day. The card was found in the night mail box, evidently having been deposited there by the sender, John Jahnke, 53 years ago. Jahnke was renting a farm from S. Burnap at that time, and was writing to tell him that "if it did not rain I will thresh on the 24 day of Oct. on the place I have rented from you—that is if it don't rain before the above date." The card was considerably smaller than the ones now in use, and the stamp is printed with black ink with a classical figure. The cancellation stamp bears the following: "Chatfield, Fillmore Co. Minn."

CHASES BEAR WITH A FLY SWATTER

Roseau.—Up in the north part of the North Star State they don't monkey with such animals as lions and bears and tigers. Even the women are slightly bored when a black bear appears on the scene, and a fly-swatter appears to be the customary weapon for dispatching a Bruin. One of the big black bears was browsing around in a pasture north of the Lars Jenson's barn near Roseau recently. Everything was peaceful until Clinton and Junior Young came riding by. Spotting the bear, they jumped out of their car and gave it chase. It headed for the Jenson farmstead, where it was seen coming by Jeanette Jenson. The only weapon she could think of laying hands on was a flyswatter, and after Mr. Bear she went! The animal swerved and headed for the weeds toward a schoolhouse. Delamore Wisckstrom waited for it to come out, but that was the last seen of the animal. Perhaps the bear was afraid he was going to fall victim to a "swat that fly" campaign.

We think we know why those ushers in refrigerated movie theaters are so stiff. They're frozen.—

What is Minnesota going to do about taxes next year? Regardless of which party controls the government machinery, the question of taxation is going to be a red hot issue and a difficult problem to solve. The state's finances are in wretched condition and there is a possibility that the next tax levy for state purposes alone will exceed twenty mills, adding further to the already heavy burden now carried by real estate. Adoption of Amendment No. 2 would relieve to this extent the burden of real estate and force the state to seek other sources for its revenue. Further sales taxes and a broadening of the base of the income tax would be the inevitable result. But it is not likely that the amendment will be adopted and whatever action is taken by the legislature probably will be a voluntary attempt to shift a part of the load. And this certainly should be done. South Dakota is attempting to meet a similar situation by a constitutional limitation on state debt. And that would be an indirect limitation on expenditures because it would necessitate taxation before the expenditures could be made once the debt limit had been reached. North Dakota has collected enough money from its sales taxes to take the place of all state levies on real estate, but sales taxes are unpopular especially in the cities and could be adopted only on a limited scale in this state. The only alternative for Minnesota, it would seem, would be an income tax that would tax all incomes and really produce some revenue, which would also be unpopular, but probably less unpopular than a sales tax. Unfortunately, in all these discussions about the need for shifting taxes, the real need for economy in the administration of the state's affairs is forgotten. After all, the proper solution to the tax problem is less spending, and economy and efficiency should be the important issues in the election.

Mexico started putting silver coins back into circulation last week, the price of silver having settled back to a more normal level again, making it unprofitable to melt the currency and sell it to the United States. Which indicates that our government has abandoned its foolish silver buying policy that made another group of speculators rich at the expense of the American taxpayer. This silver buying fiasco is another chapter of New Deal history that will make interesting reading when the records are finally opened for inspection. That will not be for some time, however, the Democrats having provided, when the ridiculous law was passed, that no public accounting of the transactions should be made until after election. Just how many million dollars were wasted in this deal cannot even be estimated. Under the pressure of government buying the price of silver went up to more than eighty cents an ounce. Now it is back to around forty-five cents again, and our government is holding the bag with a supply so large it has had difficulty finding storage space for it.

Federal taxes alone, for the fiscal year ending June 30th, totaled three and one-half billion dollars. This was the largest amount collected by the Federal government since 1921. In that year, however, a large portion of the amount collected went for debt retirement. Last year the amount collected was several billion dollars short of balancing the expenditures. Only one-third of last year's revenue was produced by levies on incomes. During the four years preceding 1933 about three-fourths of the Federal revenue came from income taxes. Which means that the increased revenue now being collected is derived from various forms of sales taxes, some direct and some indirect, but all included in the cost to the consumer. And when the government quits borrowing and starts paying its debt, the comparisons are going to be still more unfavorable.

Considering the short sweet clover seed crop this year, it isn't at all unreasonable to assume that the price would have been higher if the government had not cut the tariff in two in its trade treaty with Canada. Considering how much two cents a pound on sweet clover means to the growers of this territory, we are paying a heavy price for the concessions Canada has made to American manufacturers and fruit growers. The fact that our farm products are about the same as those produced by our neighbors across the line means that practically the entire cost of that treaty is charged to us. Western fruit growers and southern vegetable growers derive some benefit, but we have all the disadvantages with none of the advantages.

Leaders of various dairy organizations are protesting vigorously in Washington because of the duty-free, tax-free importation of babassu nuts from Brazil, put on the free list in the reciprocal trade agreement with that country. From the cheap fats extracted from these nuts more than a million pounds of oleomargarine are being manufactured a month, they point out, and are especially indignant because the agreement provides that no internal tax may be placed on the product. This is another example of our country's present "good neighbor" policy. The good will of the babassu nut growers of Brazil is more important than the welfare of the fat producers of our own country.

NONE BENEFIT
(Duluth News-Tribune)

Hitherto the United States has been an exporter of pork. Now it has become an importer of that sort of meat, and indeed of all other sorts of farm products. This means that our farmers are losing their foreign markets. But the Government will say that foreign farm products must be imported in order to open foreign markets for manufactured goods. That is saying that the farmer must lose to benefit manufacturers. But no home manufacturer has benefited. No mechanic has benefited. Bank accounts are not helped. Housewives complain. Farmers are out of the world markets. It may be observed that increases in costs of living mean reduction of wages and salaries.

SLOW DOWN AT NIGHT
(Industrial News Bureau)

Here is some worth-while advice to motorists: As soon as darkness descends, slow down pronto!

In spite of the fact that the bulk of cars are operated entirely during the day, well over half of all the fatal accidents last year occurred at night. Sixty-nine per cent of the victims were pedestrians. And the death rate for the evening rush hours was over 100 per cent greater in winter than in summer, due to darkness.

Unconsciously or otherwise, many motorists chronically "overdrive their headlights"—that is, they could not bring their cars to a stop within the illuminated distance before them. And more powerful lights are no cure for this—they produce glare, a potent cause of head-on car crashes, and are justly illegal in most states.

The pedestrian, of course, is not wholly free from blame. It has been extensively publicized that one should always walk on the left side of the highway, facing oncoming traffic—but a great many night-walkers apparently haven't heard the news yet. And many of them also don't seem to realize that to walk on a dark highway wearing dark clothes is an invitation to the coroner. Light refraction is an eccentric thing—and a darkly-dressed pedestrian often can't be seen by the motorist until it is too late.

Thus, we need education for the pedestrian as well as for the auto driver. But in the meantime, the driver should take every precaution—and even go to what may seem ridiculous lengths—to operate his car safely. After all he is in command of a potentially lethal vehicle that literally kills more men than war. Don't take a chance!

BOASTS OF CHEATING
(Fergus Falls Journal)

The state of Idaho is one of several states in the Union that could easily take care of all of its needy citizens. In 1930, the state's current debt was only $202,637. During the five years of depression, the state has paid up this small amount and has a net cash surplus of $3,157,078. During these same years, it has also reduced its bonded debt from $8,211,032 to $2,607,635. But while doing this, it has received $27,000,000 from the Federal government as aid for its needy citizens, and has made no effort to match any part of this aid as most other states have.

In a speech delivered a short time ago, Gov. Ross boasted:

> "The states around us have paid for those who needed aid. Utah has paid $1,000,000 a year. Oregon and Washington paid their share and Wyoming and Nevada their share. Idaho has not contributed, and do you know why Idaho has not contributed and matched the government's money as have all the states around us? I don't know any other reason except that we had a Scotch governor that talked them out of it. We got by, and Uncle Sam paid the bill."

That means, of course, that the governor of Idaho is boasting that he got the money from Washington that the taxpayers of Minnesota and other states must pay.

But it was not entirely "Scotch smartness" that enabled the governor of Idaho to "get by" and cheat the taxpayers of other states. The truth is that Gov. Ross is out to unseat Borah, and the Roosevelt administration is very anxious to see Borah, a leading Republican, retired. So millions of dollars belonging to the taxpayers of other states are poured into Idaho and the state is not compelled to contribute anything toward helping its own needy. States, like individuals, are being bribed with borrowed money to vote for the New Deal.

WE MUST PAY FOR WHAT WE GET
(Detroit News)

Probably a good many drouth sufferers grabbed at futile hope when a young man from Ohio proposed a scheme for selling anybody a quarter of an acre or an acre of rain to be used for agricultural purposes. A good rain system that could be turned on and off at will would be a great help to the farming industry.

But next day came a ruling by Don Coleman, weather bureau observer, dousing all such hopes with chilling scientific facts. The least volume of rain that could be expected to revive a drouth-stricken patch of ground would be a two-inch precipitation, says Coleman. That amounts to 226 tons of water per acre. To condense that much moisture from the air takes about a billion horsepower of energy.

Nobody denies the possibility of producing the required energy, but anybody can figure that the cost would more than balance the returns to be expected from production of the soil benefited. And so we are right back where so many balloon-like hopes have landed. We have reached realization that we have to pay for what we get.

For a long time visionary people have been toying with notions of perpetual motion and printed money and government gifts, and always they have been met by the stony-faced principle.

That the machine that generates power has to have fuel to run it.

That printed money soon gets to be worth about the same as the paper on which it is printed, and,

That government "gifts" have to be repaid in taxes.

The government has little or no wealth of its own to spend and must get its income by taking it away from its citizens in the form of taxes, which means that the citizens have less to spend for themselves. Nowadays the government is not only spending all that it collects from the citizens, but it is issuing bonds and spending the future taxes it will collect from future citizens.—Morris Tribune.

TWO HOBOES DINE WITH THRESHERS

Heron Lake.—Two hoboes worked a clever ruse to obtain a good dinner at the expense of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Hovenden near Okabena, recently. The threshing crew was at the Hovenden farm, and when the men ate dinner it was noticed that there seemed to be two more men at the table than had been figured on. However, nothing was said about it until, as the crew went back to work, the two men picked up their bundles, left some distance from the house, and went on their way. Then the Hovendens and the members of the crew realized that two outsiders had mingled with them during the noon hour and secured their dinner without cost.

Capitol News Review
By A. I. Harris

Now that Floyd B. Olson has passed to the great beyond, people are asking: What kind of a man was Olson? How will history treat him? What does his death mean to the future of the Farmer Labor party of Minnesota and to the liberal movement of America?

It was perfectly natural that one in public life, so gifted in oratory, possessed of such a magnetic personality and a keen sense of practical political values, should have been called an opportunist by his opponents.

Floyd Olson's personal friends always knew that he was an idealist determined to do his part in helping to bring about an economic order which would give to the millions of toilers in the city and on the farm a greater degree of comfort and happiness than they now enjoy and a larger and more equitable share in the wealth which they produce. These friends knew that his radical utterances came from the soul, an outcry against the social and economic injustices of today.

When Olson spoke as a radical he was speaking not as a politician but as a crusader for a cause. He knew that such utterances could do him no good politically, but would subject him to bitter criticism and abuse. It is no exaggeration to say that no man in public life in the history of Minnesota had ever been subjected to the abuse and vilification as had Floyd B. Olson. He took it all as a matter of course—something to be expected—and went serenely about his tasks.

It was a fine gesture for a political writer on a conservative newspaper—Lief Gilstad of the Minneapolis Journal—to set the record straight. Said Leif Gilstad in an appraisal of the late Governor:

"I have been asked the question many times, and I have asked it myself—was he an idealist, a real believer in all that he professed, or was he merely a willing opportunist, riding a vehicle to personal power?

"My own opinion is that he was essentially a sincere crusader for the underdog, who earnestly wanted to see better things for the common man; that he mixed that feeling with the instincts of an acute and ambitious politician who loved politics as a great game; that he would utilize any reasonable means to gain the end of power and position."

What will history say of Olson?

He will be remembered as a pioneer in the movement for a better America. Before Olson came upon the scene there was protest and grumbling on the part of the agrarian west, but the farm revolt never got beyond the protesting stage. Olson dramatized this revolt and related it to the problems of the city worker. He crystalized sentiment that had been forming for years, gave it enthusiasm, inspiration, coupled with the practical political leadership it needed for success.

...At the same time he synthesized its philosophy. Before his time, persons who were against the present system did not know what they would substitute for it. Olson gave their protests a radical direction, showing them that reform was only a palliative, and that without a new economic order depressions would constantly recur, war was certain, and social security impossible.

He popularized and dramatized economics, held up to ridicule and scorn the defenders of the old order, showed how a new order was not only possible but inevitable. That the party became radical with the courage to advocate a complete new system of production and distribution was due to Olson's direction.

History will say that this was his greatest accomplishment. And when the Farmer-Labor Party realizes its ideals nationally and the dreams of Floyd Olson become actualities, men will remember him and say, "This great man saw the light and pointed the way. He did not live to see his people enter the promised land, but his vision directed them on the right path, his courage started them on their journey."

What will his passing mean to the Farmer-Labor Party and the liberal movement of America? Was he the Whole Party and will the Party follow him soon to an untimely end?

For months Olson's enemies knew that he was ill unto death and laid their plans accordingly. They decided to bury the Farmer-Labor Party with his body. To accomplish this they built up a myth of inter-party strife, encouraged jealousies between different leaders, and tried to thwart the will of the rank and file by running independent candidates.

Olson's illness and death have solidified the Party. Even those within the Party who were critical of some of his actions—the matter of appointment—are determined to carry on in the name of Floyd B. Olson so that the ideals of the leader can be realized. These ideals will now become a holy crusade.

Although Olson was the spearhead of the party, he never claimed to be anything more than the voice of a movement which was greater than he and which would have attained success had he never lived. He was modest. Speaking before the 1932 convention, he declared, "The Farmer-Labor Party is greater than any single man in it. It alone has the power to accomplish the ideals we stand for; it alone can carry on, bringing peace and security to humanity years after we have passed away."

The death of Olson means a new alignment of leadership. It means that the party will depend more on itself and less on one man. It means that what started as a movement of the people is still a movement of the people, strong, confident, and sure.

EASY MONEY ARTIST TRIES NOVEL GAME

Howard Lake.—An "easy money artist" gave a nice demonstration of his line of attack but failed to obtain any loot in Howard Lake last week. E. A. Dahlberg, manager of the stock shipping association, had left town to attend a funeral in Dakota. A stranger called at his home in his absence, asking Mrs. Dahlberg for $10, saying he had shipped stock the Wednesday before and needed the money. Mrs. Dahlberg said she did not have that much at home. "Give me what you got," the stranger replied. Mrs. Dahlberg told the man that if he had shipped stock he should go to A. C. McGrew, who kept the books for the shiping association. The stranger argued that McGrew had no money there, but Mrs. Dahlberg failed to fall for his "line" and the man finally departed. Apparently he hung around town long enough to find out who might be absent from his home, and then attempted to pull his sales talk on the wife of the home.

BEATS RECORD OF 56 YEARS IN GRAIN THRESHING WORK

Hanley Falls.—In a recent issue of the Minnesota Briefs appeared an article on a Preston man, Mr. Rollins, 75, who has been threshing for the past 56 years. He claims to hold the record for Minnesota. Right there is where an argument started in Hanley Falls. For that town boasts a veteran thresher who has been at the game for 57 years, one year more than Rollins of Preston. The man is Sever Helleckson, who was 81 years old last spring, and this year had one of his biggest runs of shock threshing. Severson started out in 1879 with horse power and four years later startled the community with a steam rig that was fed with straw. He has kept abreast of the times ever since, and has always had modern equipment and scores of satisfied customers who have hired him year after year. So, until someone else comes forward with a better record, the crown will have to be shifted from Preston to Hanley Falls.

ASH TREE GROW IN CROTCH OF POPLAR

Sauk Center.—Nature does peculiar things, and rarest among her oddities are freaks occurring in seeding and pollenizing. In Sauk Center, on the corner of Pine and Sixth streets at the residence of Mrs. J. A. Caughren, is one of the queerist quirks of nature's sowing. Where the main trunk of a large poplar tree divides into large branches is nestled a tree of another variety. Just how the tree got its start is merely speculation, but there are mountain ash just across the street. Perhaps the seed was carried by the wind to the crotch of the larger tree; perhaps some bird scratching for seed deposited it there. At any rate, it took root and grew. It is now approximately two feet in height.

CARELESS PRISONER SETS CAR OF SHERIFF AFIRE

Chaska.—Sheriff Frank Trende's new car almost went up in smoke as the result of an arrest which he made at Carver recently. The sheriff was called to that village to take charge of an intoxicated man. The drunk was loaded into the back seat of the officer's catch, and the journey toward the county jail was begun. Meanwhile, the arrested man dropped a lighted cigarette onto the seat. Some time later, a passerby noticed clouds of smoke issuing from the sheriff's car, parked between the jail and the court house, where the prisoner was taken. Trende was notified, and efforts were made to extinguish the blaze. The fact that the fire was under the upholstering made it difficult, but efforts were finally successful.

Red River Valley History

Lemke's Background

While the theme of this article does not concern this locality directly, it is a pioneer story and the subject is not only topical but one of general and even commanding interest. For these reasons we believe the story has a place in this series. It concerns a candidate for the presidency of the United States, Congressman William Lemke of Fargo, N. D.

The unusual feature of the story is that if Mr. Lemke is elected president he will be the only chief executive of the United States who once lived in a cave, so far as the writer has been able to ascertain.

Recently while traveling in Towner county, North Dakota, seeking material for feature stories, the writer encountered a pioneer teacher at Hansboro. He was Charles Blackorby and a few minutes conversation brought out the fact that he once had been Bill Lemke's teacher. Not only that but, according to the former teacher, it was when Bill Lemke was his pupil that he experienced a great awakening and began in earnest his struggle for an education.

While Mr. Blackorby did not know much more than his ABCs at that time. Before we tell about the cave we shall sketch in a few facts about the school and the pupils.

"It was the Coolin district in the township of that name in Towner county", the Hansboro man said. "It was in the early 90's, I am not sure of the year. I had been hired by the board to teach for three months at a salary of $30 a month. There were only two families that sent children to school, the Lemkes and the James McCannas.

"I had been warned that the larger boys had thrown the teacher before me out of the building and would not let him back in. I think the fact that I was large and strong was a strong influence in their selection of me as the teacher. The first day of school they were on hand. There were Bill, Ben, Henry and Fred Lemke and Jim, John and Earl McCanna. There were four girls in the two families, all told, and I suppose there were two or three in school that day. But they were as quiet and ladylike as all girls usually are in school.

"I do not recall that Bill Lemke showed any signs of rebellion or rowdyism, although I had been told that he was as bad as the rest, but, for that matter, none of them exhibited any disposition to do anything out of the way. We got along fine, although the boys naturally, just had to be a little rough with each other once in a while.

"When the three-months' term ended the fathers of the two families hired me for another month and a half, paying my salary out of their own pockets. In the meantime the pupils had become remarkably studious. Bill Lemke was by far the most eager for knowledge. It was about this time that his life in a cave began. The Lemke home was a small, modest house and as the boys grew up, Bill must have been about 20 or 21 years old then, there was not room in the house for them, so each of the boys dug a cave in the coulie bank nearby and there they lived, like hermits.

"As I recall it, they not only lived in their caves in summer but even part of the winter at least. They seemed to be fairly comfortable, although such domiciles necessarily had their drawbacks. Bill would spend hours studying in his cave and often came to me for information or explanations of certain points and went back to continue his studies."

The arrangements seem to have been a marked success, for after the one and a half month term ended the district board re-hired Mr. Blackorby for eight months more, so that he taught 12½ months in a single "school year". It would seem that if at any time an interested nation seeks further information about Bill Lemke's school days, Mr. Blackorby is due for considerable publicity, for it seems certain that Bill Lemke's feet were planted on the highway of knowledge when he was his teacher.

The presidential candidate attended the Cando high school later and went from there to the University of North Dakota. Afterward he attended the Yale law school, receiving a diploma. He returned to North Dakota to become one of the state's leading attorneys and eventually became prominent in politics.

"I am confident," the former teacher said, "that Bill Lemke got his start in the career he chose during that year when I taught the Coolin district school. I do not say that I was responsible, but I am sure Bill began to give education serious consideration not long after the first term opened."

So we already have a good feature about Mr. Lemke's school days for use in the big dailies in the event he is elected president.

PLAYERS! LEARN WITH THE AMERICAN BOY

Boys and young men who want to improve their crawl stroke, their basket shooting, their hurdling, their tennis backhand, or their ball carrying, can enlist the aid of the nation's foremost coaches and players by subscribing to THE AMERICAN BOY magazine and following the sports interviews and fiction stories that appear each month.

For the coming year staff writers have gone to two of the greatest football teams in the country—Minnesota and Southern Methodist—for first hand tips on strategy, blocking, ball carrying, passing, and the fine points of line play. They have written the story of Bobbie Wilson, All-American halfback.

They have interviewed famous track coaches like Bernie Moore and Bob Simpson. Have gone to the University of Oklahoma to learn how college champions wrestle, to Notre Dame for the story of the building of a great basketball team. They have sought out famous baseball players, swimmers, tennis champions and All-American backs, to get their story of how to play the game.

AMERICAN BOY fiction is jammed with instructive background details telling how to play a better game. And the rest of the magazine is jammed with adventure, exploration, vocational help and articles vital to boys.

Ohio State University's track head, coach of the famous sprinter and low hurdler, Jesse Owens, and himself a former hurdling star, first learned to hurdle from articles in THE AMERICAN BOY. "I used to cut out hurdling pictures and duplicate them in front of a mirror. Then on the track I'd follow that form."

Today thousands of future champions are just as eagerly following THE AMERICAN BOY. Send your subscription to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Enclose with your name and address $1 for a year's subscription, $2 for three years, and add 60 cents if you want the subscription to go to a foreign address. On newsstands, 10 cents a copy.

WOOD FOUND IN WELL IS 12,000 YEARS OLD

Badger.—Diggers of a well at a new filling station at Badger found a piece of wood buried in the blue clay 13 feet below the surface—some 12,000 years old, if geologists are to be believed. The piece of wood was apparently the lower part of a small cedar tree. It was well preserved, but worn smooth on one side, as if by constant rubbing on some object. The sand ridge where Badger is located was once the shore line of Lake Agassiz, according to scientists. Trees and like things are found in the soil now when wells are dug which were embedded when the lakes existed about 12,000 years ago, according to geologists, and the piece of wood found recently must be approximately that old.

CAR OWNERS HERE ASKED TO AID IN U. S. ROAD SURVEY

Bureau of Public Roads Is Making a Planning Survey

More than half a million Minnesota automobile owners, including half of those in Pennington County will receive questionnaires by mail within the next ten days from the United States Bureau of Public Roads relative to their use of the highways in the past year.

The questionnaire is being sent out as part of the highway planning survey being conducted by the United States Bureau of Public Roads and the Minnesota Highway department. The questions asked relate to mileage driven in Minnesota and in other states, and to other phases of motor vehicle operation and ownership. Different questionnaires will be sent to passenger car owners and truck owners.

Highway planning surveys such as the one in progress in Minnesota are being conducted in most of the 48 states under direction of federal road authorities. The surveys are intended to aid the states in getting the most out of the public road funds by planning future highway expenditures in accordance with definite needs.

The state highway department asks the cooperation of citizens who receive the questionnaires, and the prompt return of the requested information.

STATE AWARDS $65,760 IN HIGHWAY CONTRACTS

Three road construction contracts aggregating $65,760, in Murray and Winona counties, have been awarded by N. W. Elsberg, commissioner of highways. The work includes the bituminous surfacing of more than six miles of Trunk Highway No. 59 in Murray county and two bridges south of Winona in Winona county, required because of the raising of the level of T. H. No. 61 due to the 9-foot Mississippi river channel improvement.

UNIVERSITY WILL START ON MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 28TH

State Institution Will Commence 67th Year of Service

The University of Minnesota will reopen for its 67th year of educational and cultural service to the people of Minnesota on Monday, September 28th. Members of the faculty have been asked to be on hand by September 15th to take part in the many advance duties of registration, advice, examination and the like through which the students must pass.

Registration of all new students for Freshman Week will take place Monday and Tuesday, September 21 and 22 and the various activities of Freshman Week, designed to familiarize the entering student with his own duties and with the University of Minnesota, will be carried on from the 23rd through Saturday the 26th.

Examinations for the removal of conditions are scheduled for September 21 through 25 and physical examinations for new students, over the same days. Registration day for the newly created Institute of Technology has been fixed on Friday, September 25. Actual classwork will start on September 28th and Extension Division classes will begin at the same time.

The principal novelty on the campus as the university's sixty-seventh year begins will be the Center for Continuation Study, a newly completed building wherein the university expects to conduct a new type of adult education, centering on the idea of bringing professional and vocational groups up to the moment in knowledge of their subjects. Further announcements of its plans will be made shortly by Dr. Harold Benjamin, its new director.

Dr. Lotus D. Coffman will be starting his seventeenth year as president of the University of Minnesota, a period in which the institution has made outstanding advancements on all fronts and has approximately doubled in size and gained even more in national stature and reputation.

Two of those who for many years have been prominent administrative heads at the university will be missing when the new year begins. Dean Elias P. Lyon of the Medical School and Dean Frederick J. Wulling of the College of Pharmacy both retired at the age limit last June.

The new Institute of Technology, combined administratively the College of Engineering and Architecture, School of Chemistry, and School of Mines and Metallurgy, will begin its second year this fall. It is under the direction of Dean Samuel C. Lind, formerly director of the School of Chemistry.

Two new laboratories, one for hydraulic engineering, constructed on Hennepin Island in the Mississippi river, and an expanded plant for engineering experimentation, situated in buildings near the campus acquired from an industrial company, will be added to the university's research facilities as the autumn term begins.

Elmer Haugen Condemns Reciprocal Tariff in Red Lake Falls Speech

Elmer A. Haugen of Pelican Rapids, Republican nominee for Congress in the Ninth District, condemned the Canadian reciprocal tariff before the newly organized Red Lake County Younger Republican Club at Plummer on Thursday night.

"The destruction of our South St. Paul livestock market," said Mr. Haugen, "has been apparent this summer. We have seen our American prices drop consistently as the Canadian imports increase. It is here in the Ninth District that these long lines of disinfected cattle cars loaded with competing cattle pass like ugly ghosts through the night. Never has our district been more completely "sold down the river"."

"The dairy farmer of the Ninth district is going to find that the butter market and cattle market have met with disaster as far as our southern market is concerned. Everywhere in the south our free trading southerners who are in control of our national Congress and our prominent southern free trader, Cordell Hull, are engaged in destroying the cotton industry and there has arisen like mushrooms, circularizing plants and packing houses. This market for our farmer is getting to be a thing of the past."

State Livestock Co-ops Increase Business in This State During Year

Increased business done by farmers' livestock cooperatives in Minnesota during the 1935-36 marketing season was $8,000,000 more than that of the 1934-35 season, according to the Farm Credit Administration of St. Paul.

This was due chiefly to the higher levels of livestock prices this year than during the preceding year.

The 235 associations reporting to the cooperative division of the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, showed that their 110,000 members in this state had marketed approximately $28,000,000 of livestock cooperatively during the period compared with $20,000,000 for the previous period. Many of the animals handled by terminal-market cooperatives came from points without the state.

More than one-half the farmers marketing their livestock through cooperatives are in the five states of Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, and Ohio.

Cooperatives sales agencies now handle half the livestock sold on the terminal market at South St. Paul, and cooperatives throughout the middle west have been consistently increased the percentage of livestock bought and sold during the last 8 years. In 1928 cooperatives sold 17 per cent of all animals sold at public stockyards, and this has increased to 21-8 per cent in 1934, the last year for which such figures are now available.

Cooperatives have increased their percentage of animals purchased from 6 per cent in 1928 to 13.8 per cent in 1934.

MINNESOTA HAS 116,000 MEMBERS IN DAIRY CO-OPS.

Leads All States in Membership and Dollar Volume, Says U. S. Agency

Minnesota with 116,000 members of dairy co-operative associations and sales of $86,500,000 leads all states in membership and dollar volume of co-operative dairy business, while Wisconsin has the largest number of reporting dairy cooperatives— some 702, according to a statement released by the co-operative division of the farm credit administration in Washington. The total number of dairymen marketing milk and cream through co-operative associations in the United States, is about 720,000 at present.

Sales of 2,270 dairy cooperatives reporting from 45 states, amounted to $520,000,000 during the recent season, while the figure for reporting associations in 1934-35 was $440,000,000, it was stated.

The gain was said to be the largest for any year since the depression. Officials said that part of this increase was due to the higher price level on dairy products, adding, however, "that the figures indicate that in a number of states dairymen are delivering larger quantities of milk and cream to their co-operative associations".

In the United States, it was pointed out, more farmers sell dairy products cooperatively than any other agricultural or livestock commodity, with more than 35 per cent of the creamery butter produced in this country being manufactured by co-operative associations, while about one-fifth of the cheese is also produced by the co-operative cheese factories.

State 4-H Workers to Observe 'Safety Month'

Minnesota 4-H club members and leaders are being urged by T. A. Erickson, University Farm, St. Paul, state club leader, to redouble their efforts in making the state accident free during the month of September, designated as "safety month."

Special emphasis is being placed on the club safety activities during September. Shortly before his death, the late Gov. Floyd B. Olson, by proclamation declared September to be "safety month." By issuing this proclamation, every citizen was called upon to help in avoiding accidents not only during September but all other months of the year as well so that Minnesota should be as free of accidents as possible. In asking his club workers to increase their efforts particularly during the next month, Mr. Erickson is also urging that safety activities and efforts of club members be continued to decrease the load of accidents which mar everyday life.

Colonel F. W. Matson, president of the Minnesota safety council, in order to give special recognition to club safety work, has provided a silver trophy to be awarded to the county which makes the best record in 4-H safety activities this year.

BOY BITES WEASEL TO OPEN ANIMAL'S JAWS

Red Wing.—Ray Billy, an inmate of the state training school at Red Wing went the "dog bite man—man bite dog" newspaper interpretation of what is news one better. A weasel bit Billy, and Billy bit the weasel. It happened when the boy attempted to capture the little animal and grabbed it about the torso. The weasel immediately sank its incisors into one of Billy's fingers and refused to let go. Unable to loosen the animal's grip, Billy retaliated by biting the weasel until the animal finally fell into a dead stupor, after which it was easy to pry open its jaws and pull the teeth out of Billys' finger. And they talk about our ancestor's being hardy pioneers!

One-Time Resident of Pennington Passes in Grand Forks Sept. 1st

Funeral services were held last Thursday afternoon at the Hanson-Anderson Mortuary in Grand Forks and burial was made in Memorial Cemetery for Andrew Brovold, 94 year old pioneer of North Dakota and Minnesota who died Tuesday, September 1 at his home, 1423 Fourth Ave. No. in Grand Forks. Rev. O. T. Ness of Grand Forks officiated.

Mr. Brovold, christened Osbjorn Osbpornson Brovold, was born March 23, 1842 at Inservik, Hardanger, Norway. He died at the age of 94 years after a venturesome and pioneering life in several continents and over the seven seas. Until last winter he had been in good health.

In the seventies Mr. Brovold came to the United States on the first of several trips. He decided to remain here and went to Chicago, later to Council Bluffs, Iowa, and then to Bismarck, N. D. and worked on river boats. In 1886 he went to Portland, N. D. where he operated a business until about 1897 when he homesteaded in Polk County in Johnson Township near Wanke.

A few years later he left this place to his son, Jacob Brovold, prominent Johnson Township farmer who died several years ago, and homesteaded near Rhoda in Pennington County where he farmed for 14 years. He then moved to Crookston with Mrs. Brovold and resided here at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Anna Hagen, for several years. They later moved to Grand Forks to reside until this time. Mrs. Brovold died in July, eight years ago, at the age of 87.

Rabies Declared by State Physicians to be Constant Menace

The fact that it has been 20 years since anybody died of rabies in Minnesota is likely to make people careless about the seriousness of this ever present menace.

A bulletin on the subject issued by members of the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association today calls attention to the fact that there has been an epidemic of rabies among dogs in Chicago this summer and that such an epidemic may break out in Minnesota or anywhere else at any time.

Rabies is not necessarily confined to the hot dry months, either, according to the doctors. It spreads more rapidly during these months because infected dogs circulate more freely. The disease is always fatal once it develops either in dogs or in human beings.

That is why it never pays to neglect a dog bite. The original treatment developed 50 years ago by Pasteur is still used with slight modifications and it can be administered by any physician. The proper procedure is to have the wound cauterized, in any case, and the dog placed under observation. If the dog shows any symptoms of the disease the Pasteur treatment can be started immediately. It is effective in 99 cases out of a 100.

Ten people died a horrible death from rabies in Ohio in the last 12 years. All of these cases were investigated and it was discovered that either the Pasteur treatment was never given at all or it was given after the infection had developed and then it is always too late.

COP SAVES EASTERNERS FROM BLOODY REDSKINS

Detroit Lakes. They stood popeyed with excitement on the streets of Detroit Lakes, "frontier town"— a man, his wife and three children, traveling through Minnesota from the East, who had read too many Deadwood Dick tales and had not traveled enough. As they were standing in the door of a cafe glancing apprehensively southward, a police officer walked by, and the head of the family hailed him. "We can't go down there," he said in a tremulous voice. "Why not?" asked the officer. "See those two Indian bucks on the corner?" pointing to two Indians leaning on the wall of a building. "We don't dare walk past them." The officer thought he was being "taken for a ride." But one look at the frightened faces of the entire family and he knew they were deadly serious. —they were very much afraid that the Indians might pull tomahawks and that they might have to return East minus their scalps. The officer walked down to their car with them, past the dangerous Redskins, and the family leaped into their Massachusetts licensed plate car with relieved faces. They had eluded the "Indian uprising."

GOODRIDGE

Schools to Reopen Monday

Regular class work will commence in the Goodridge schools next Monday, Sep. 14, Supt. T. A. Dierud announces. Plans for the school year are practically complete. Bus routes have been somewhat reorganized and a new route will be added going north.

Owing to the recent resignations of teachers, three vacancies remain to be filled, two in high school and one in the elementary school. As usual the high school will offer a general accredited academic course; non-resident pupils are cordially welcomed to attend the Goodridge school. Enrollments and assignments will be taken care of on the opening day, Sept. 14. High school text books will be the same as before except in some few instances where changes in text may be necessary owing to the fact that such text might be to much out of date. Adjustments in a high school pupil's course of studies will be made whenever necessary as far as possible.

Work is progressing nicely on the W. P. A. School-Community Auditorium. We hope for an early completion so that the school and community may have a maximum use of it during the coming school year.

Brewster.— Following a loud crash of lightning an thunder early on a recent morning, Supt. L. J. Brande of Brewster awoke to find that electric lights in the living room of his home had been turned on and the radio was playing. Brande had turned off both lights and radio before retiring, and is positive that neither were on just before the crash. Exactly how the lightning could have worked to turn on the electrical switches is very much of a mystery, but apparently that is exactly what happened. Which adds another incident to some of the strange freaks caused by electrical storms.

M. JOHNSON IS SUMMONED BY DEATH SUNDAY

Former United States Senator Dies in Hospital at Litchfield

LEADER IN LIBERAL MOVEMENT IN STATE

Was Candidate for Governor in June Primaries This Year

Minnesota this week had lost one of its most colorful political figures with the death of Magnus Johnson, 64, Kimball, Minn., dirt-farmer who served two years in the U. S. senate and one term in the house of representatives.

Johnson died of pneumonia at a hospital in Litchfield Sunday following a three-weeks illness, his second in less than a year. His widow and six sons and daughters were at his bedside at the end.

The Swedish-American immigrant, a one time Wisconsin lumberjack and a leader in the liberal movement in Minnesota, was stricken with the fatal illness Aug. 23, the day after his former Farmer-Labor chief, Gov. Floyd B. Olson, died at a Rochester, Minn., hospital of a stomach ailment. Johnson had tried to visit Olson shortly before the latter's death, but was denied admission to his hospital room due to the governor's serious condition.

Born at Varmland, Sweden, Sept. 19, 1871, Johnson worked as a sailor and a glass-blower before coming to this country when he was 19. He became interested in the labor movement in politics while in Sweden, and carried that interest with him to America.

When the Nonpartisan league became a factor in Minnesota politics, in 1916, Johnson joined the movement and was elected to the senate, where he served four years. With the growth of the Farmer-Labor party he continued his allegiance to the liberals, and it was as a member of that party that he was elected to serve out the unexpired term of the late Senator Knute Nelson in 1923.

While in Washington he attained nationwide prominence through his milking contest with the then secretary of agriculture Henry C. Wallace, in which he was defeated; and his wood-chopping contest with the same man, which he won. He played marbles in front of the capital and made innumerable speeches in his picturesque Swedish-American talk. His "By golly" became a capital byword.

On the serious side, one of his major accomplishments while in the senate was that of obtaining a survey of butter imports and protective tariff against those imports in the interest of the American farmers whom he consistently championed.

He was defeated for reelection to the senate by the late Thomas D. Schall, but went back to Washington as a representative in 1932,

600 CARS GIVEN BRAKE TEST HERE LAST THURSDAY

Highway Patrolmen Find 96 Cars With Defective Equipment

A squad of nine members of the Minnesota highway patrol stationed in various towns in Northern Minnesota assembled in this city last Thursday to check brakes and lights on locally owned automobiles. A total of 600 cars were subjected to a brake test during the afternoon, while lights on 209 cars were checked in the evening.

In the brake test 96 cars were found to have defective equipment and 42 arrest tickets were issued, the recipients each being fined $2 in addition to $1 costs. Of the cars tested in the evening, 86 were found to have satisfactory lights, while 115 motorists were ordered to have their lights adjusted.

In making the brake test the patrolmen used a device which they mounted on the running board of each car. When the brakes were applied a charge of glycerin in the machine was splashed against the forward wall of the tester in such a way as to punch a card showing the quickness of the stop.

Rau, manager of the local office of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, was present to ask for permission to lay 8,000 feet of additional telephone cable in alleys and along boulevards in the city. WARNS PUBLIC OF DELINQUENT TAX DEADLINE

Long-Delinquent Lands Will Revert to State Oct. 8, Says Senstad

TAXES MAY BE PAID IN TEN INSTALLMENTS

Sale of Forfeited Lands to Take Place During the Coming Winter

County Auditor A. M. Senstad in a statement today calls attention to the fact that real estate on which taxes are delinquent for the years 1926 to 1929 will revert to the state October 8 unless the delinquency is disposed of before that date. He also reminds the public that advantage may still be taken of paying the delinquent levies in ten annual installments.

Mr. Senstad's statement follows:

"Attention of property owners having delinquent real estate taxes for the years 1926-1927-1928-1929, is again called to the fact that unless these taxes are paid prior to October 8, 1936 their property will forfeit to the state on that date. There is still time for property owners who have such delinquent taxes and who cannot pay the full amount at this time to take advantage of Chapter 72-Laws of the Special Session 1935-36 whereby they may pay down one-tenth of the original tax and have the balance spread over nine more annual payments with 4% interest on the unpaid balance. Under this law property that is delinquent for 1933 or any prior year may be placed on the installment plan up to November 1st, 1937. However if the property is delinquent for either 1926-1927-1928-1929 such property will forfeit to the State October 8, 1936, and after that date it will be too late to make use of the installment delinquent tax law.

"There have been numerous compromise delinquent tax settlements made in this county with the county board and the Minnesota tax commission, especially on property that has been burdened with heavy special assessments. All applications of this kind that have come before the county board, up to and including the last meeting, have been approved by the Minnesota tax commission and are now in the county auditor's office for payment. Such approved applications cannot be placed under the ten year installment law; but can

HIGH WIND CAUSES DAMAGE IN TWO AREAS IN COUNTY

Storm Monday Afternoon Demolishes Barn and Silo Near Hazel

A storm late Monday afternoon that brought a heavy downpour of rain to the Thief River Falls vicinity caused considerable damage by wind in the Hazel and Goodridge communities and brought hail that damaged late flax and sweet clover fields southwest of Grygla.

Covering a narrow strip west and south of Hazel, the wind demolished a large barn on the Oscar Borgie farm a half-mile west of the village, and also damaged a pump house and uprooted large trees. A silo on the Clarence Roese farm south of Hazel was blown over, and the roof was blown off a barn on the Morgan Vaughan farm in the Goodridge vicinity. A number of telegraph poles along the railroad track at Hazel were blown over, but service was not seriously affected.

Rain fell frequently in this vicinity during the past week, showers being recorded late Friday afternoon, Sunday night and Monday morning and afternoon. The first white frost of the season arrived Wednesday morning.

TAX LEVY FOR SCHOOLS CUT 1 MILL FOR 1937

Maintenance Levy Is Raised As Result of Prorating of State Aid

E. M. BENNES RESIGNS FROM POST ON BOARD

Dr. A. E. Jacobson Is Named to Succeed Him as Member

Adoption of a tax levy of 38.5 mills for the Thief River Falls school district 18 for the ensuing year followed a thorough discussion of the budget and school finances at the September meeting of the board of education Monday evening. The rate compares with 39.5 mills for the current year.

E. M. Bennes, a member of the board for nearly twelve years and its president for nine years, tendered his resignation at the meeting, giving as his reason the advice of his physician to curtail his outside activities. In accepting his resignation President B. O. Norby of the board expressed the appreciation of the other members of his long years of faithful and energetic service.

To succeed Mr. Bennes the board appointed Dr. A. E. Jacobson, long active in civic affairs, particularly in connection with affairs of the park board. His term will expire in July, 1937. Dr. Jacobson qualified for his new post at the meeting.

The board completed the personnel of the faculty by appointing Miss Evelyn M. Augur of Minneapolis to the position of part-time kindergarten teacher in the Knox school. Miss Augur is a graduate of Miss Wood's school in Minneapolis and attended the summer session of Columbia university in New York this year.

The tax levy of 38.5 mills for school purposes includes 34.5 mills for maintenance compared to 30 mills for the current year; three mills for bonds and interest compared to 8.5 mills this year; and the regular one-mill tax. The increase in the maintenance levy, Supt. Morris Bye pointed out, was made necessary by the fact that state aid for the current year is prorated at 68% per cent while a smaller total of maturing bonds made possible a substantial cut in the levy for bonds and interest.

The budget as adopted for the coming year includes $98,814 for current expense, $3,300 for capital outlay, $7,375 for debt service and $600 for book deposit refunds.

In commenting on the operation of the state aid law Mr. Bye said, "If we received all the state aid in accordance with the provisions of the law the school district would be in good shape, but this year all the aids except the high school tuition and teacher training will be prorated at approximately 68% per cent. This means a loss of $12,000 to the district. Because of the prorating of the state aid we will not get sufficient revenue in the general fund from a 30-mill levy".

FURTHER DETAILS OF AUTO SHOW ARE DISCUSSED BY C. C.

O. C. Paulson Says Legion Post Wants to Sponsor Event

Further details of the automobile show and fall celebration scheduled to be held in November were discussed at the luncheon of the Civic and Commerce association last Thursday. Walter Jung, vice president, presided in the absence of W. L. Carlisle, president.

O. C. Paulson stated that the American Legion post would like to sponsor the auto show, as it has done in the case of similar events in the spring since 1927. Proceeds, he said, would go to the support of the enclosed skating rink project. Other speakers said the cooperation of the Legion post would be welcomed in carrying out details of the celebration as in past years.

Tentative arrangements were made to hold a joint meeting of the Civic and Commerce association with Legion officials October 15 when State Commander Andreen and other officers come to this city for a district conference.

Extension Specialist Says Potatoes Remain Economical Purchase

With potatoes selling at 5 cents per pound, Minnesota housewives, wondering if other foods will be more economical, are advised by Miss Inez M. Hobart, extension nutrition specialist, University Farm, St. Paul, that potatoes remain an economical purchase when the protective elements they contain are considered.

Miss Hobart sets up a comparison of potatoes with four other foods, macaroni at 14 cents per pound, rice at 8 cents, and white and whole wheat bread at 10 cents per pound. The same amount of money would purchase more energy in the form of rice and macaroni, but potatoes contain calcium, iron and vitamins which offset other advantages of those foods. All four of the other foods exceed potatoes in calories. However, potatoes exceed rice in calcium, both rice and macaroni in iron, and all four foods in vitamins. Potatoes contain 130 units of vitamin B-G and 50 units of C. Neither rice nor macaroni contain these vitamins. B-G is present in white bread, and whole wheat bread is noted as a good source of this vitamin.

Purchasers of potatoes may save money if they buy them by the bushel instead of the pound, states Miss Hobart. Potatoes have been selling at about $1.80 per bushel and 2 cents per pound can be saved by purchasing them by the bushel lot. A survey of consumer purchases in Minneapolis shows that only 2 per cent of the consumers purchase potatoes by the bushel.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Many of the cities are trying to lessen the evils of the sale of liquor without hurting it too much.

Minneapolis has passed an ordinance which obliges drunken drivers to spend from 10 to 90 days in jail. Fines do not seem to lessen drunken driving. Will a jail sentence do it?

Duluth has seen the evils of the barmaid and has prohibited them. Women may not stand at the bar for their drinks, in Duluth. They must go way back and sit down.

Brainerd has passed ordinances banning music and dancing in liquor stores, raised the license fee and barred women from serving and being served at the bar.

Deaths from auto accidents are steadily mounting, many of them caused by drunken drivers or those who have been drinking. Minneapolis' auto deaths up to July 15 are 44 from January 1, 1936. 120 were arrested for intoxication after the celebration of our nation's independence day, July 4, in the city of Minneapolis and 3 deaths resulted over the 4th; a woman was sentenced for 15 days in the workhouse for drunken driving, and a mother abandoned her baby while drunk and was sentenced to 10 days, recorded July 7, and so the trouble and degradation pile up from day to day, because of drink. How long, oh Lord, how long will people be fooled by continuing the liquor traffic?

"Circumstantial" Evidence

"Circumstantial," as the most elementary Latin student knows, comes from two words, "circum"—"around," and "stando"—from the verb meaning "to stand." Thus "circumstantial evidence" comprises the minor facts standing around the main fact of the crime. In itself it is not proof. The Scotch call it "argumentative evidence," and that tells the whole story. From a multitude of facts that "stand around" or surround a crime, the footprint in the mud, the telltale hair, the bullet, the manner of the crime's commission, may be argued the guilt or innocence of the accused.

The Lightest Wood

The lightest wood obtainable is white balsa, native to South America, Central America and West Indies. There is the female tree only. The male tree, like the red balsa, is twice as heavy. White balsa is less than half as heavy as cork, the lightest weight of any known wood.

"Conny-catching" was the word used in Shakespeare's day for all kinds of swindling.

Tall Tales

As told to FRANK E. HAGAR and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Extended Palm

A GREATER number of extended palms can be found in the state of Florida than in all of France.

One of them, a royal palm, grows in front of the sixth green of the De Leon Springs golf course, its foliage frequently catching balls pitched toward the green.

That happened to John H. Fisher of Chicago the first time he stepped on the De Leon Springs links to try for his usual 78. The ball lodged in the tree and only the gift of a 50-cent dollar persuaded the colored caddie to retrieve it.

Climbing to the top of the tree the caddie gave one vigorous shake and Fisher's ball and 378 other golf balls dropped. It was the first time the royal palm had been shaken.

The golfer was astonished to discover that thirteen of the balls had his name printed on them.

"It was my initial visit to Florida, all right, but that was no reason my entire name should have been printed on the balls," Fisher said later. "I didn't discover why until four months afterwards.

"I play the Tam o'Shanter course at Chicago. On the fifth tee I invariably slice my drive, frequently losing the ball. Well, I began to analyze my shots off that tee, employing a compass and other research equipment.

"And I discovered a most interesting thing — every one of my sliced shots off that fifth tee moved in a curving line directly toward De Leon Springs from Chicago."

The Homing Pigeon

The most remarkable breed of pigeon developed by man is the homing or racing pigeon. This variety was originated about 150 years ago by crossing and intercrossing the Carrier, Runt, Barb, Antwerp and Dragoon. As its name implies, the homing pigeon always returns to the loft it was born or brought up in, having a natural instinct and sense of direction that is unparalleled. This species of pigeon, however, must be trained as soon as it is able to fly, in order to bring out those inherent qualities, just as a young colt of racing blood must be taught and shown the way.

Dice Long in Use

There seems to have been no period of history and no nation in which some form of dice has not been used. They are pictured on early Egyptian monuments. Some excavated at Thebes are almost identical with the ones in use today. Their use is attested by laws regulating the games played with them in ancient Greece and Rome as well as in much later European countries. The invention of dice is attributed to Palamedes, who lived about 1244 B. C., but the use of cubes with numbered sides for gambling purposes is probably much older.

Capital News Review

By A. I. Harris

United States Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, will deliver his keynote address in the armory of his home town, Appleton, at 8 P. M. Monday, Sept. 21. The address will be broadcast over radio stations KSTP, St. Paul-Minneapolis; WTCN, St. Paul-Minneapolis; WEBC, Duluth-Superior; WMFG, Hibbing, WROC, Rochester; WNAX, Yankton, S. D., and WDAY, Fargo, N. D. The talk will go on the air at 8 P. M.

A special train will carry Twin Cities persons to Appleton, stopping at virtually every town enroute to pick up passengers. More than 300 reservations already have been received for the special train, which will travel over the Milwaukee road carrying 15 coaches. Virtually all Farmer-Labor candidates in the November election will be among the special train's passengers for the occasion.

Following the keynote, Senator Benson will begin an intensive state-wide speaking tour which will occupy him for the remainder of the campaign.

The conference of progressive leaders called by Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin in Chicago over the week-end is of tremendous importance to the future of the liberal movement of America.

In addition to defining the proper stand of progressives towards the present presidential political situation, the conference has a far-flung objective for the future—to bring together the progressives for united action.

With fascism threatening this country through the reactionary channels, America is in danger of a form of government foreign to our soil. Fascism does violence to the history and tradition of America; it repudiates the Pilgrim fathers, Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln. The history of Europe of very recent years already tells its lesson, and that is that democracy must be prepared to meet this menace. To rest content in the belief that the Middle Ages are gone forever never to return may be fatal.

For that reason, the Chicago conference might well become, with Labor's Nonpartisan League and other groups, the means of sparing America from the blight of fascism.

Senator George Lommen of Eveleth, speaking over the radio in Minneapolis this week, declared that records in the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture show that Iowa with a sales tax pays a higher tax per acre than Minnesota. The average acreage tax in Iowa is $85; in Minnesota it is 59c. He also showed how two large insurance companies would save $466,900 a year and $463,620 a year respectively.

Paul Rasmussen, State Director of Personnel and Budget Commissioner, reveals that state expenditures under Republican rule are responsible for the majority of debts which the state must now pay. The largest single item in the list of debts is the $60,000,000 of the rural credit bureau acquired under a Republican rule. Approximately $21,000,000 of this may be lost because the Republicans loaned too much money to their banker friends instead of to the farmers in order to liquidate their frozen assets.

Out of a total indebtedness of $124,345,683.93, $110,944,769.93 is self-liquidating. In other words, more than 90 per cent of the state's debt will pay for itself without any additional real property taxation. A good portion of the state's debt is in highway bonds, and these were matched by Federal funds, so that the state got two miles of paved road for the price of one.

A comparison of state expenditures under Republican and Farmer Labor administrations reveal that the only year in the last four bienniums that could rightly be called an economy one was the biennium of 1933 when the Farmer Labor Party came closest to being in power. In that year it had partial control of the legislature. And in that year state expenditures for all departments were less than in any other year.

Growing With Your Child

Materials For Imitative and Dramatic Play

As early as the second year, many children begin to take delight in imaginative play. While they do not need a great many toys in order to be able to carry out such play, they do need some variety, or materials that can be used in a variety of ways. Thus a truck will serve while a boy is playing farmer, coalman or grocer. Playthings should be selected with the idea in mind, "Does this fit in with other things the child already has, and will it stimulate their use? Also, is it of only temporary interest, or has it long-lasting values?"

Dramatic and imitative play will depend much on what the child has had an opportunity to observe and take part in. One of the reasons why even young children should not have too monotonous a routine is because their play can easily become stereotyped and stale. If new sights and happenings do not give them new ideas to inject into it. A visit to farm or circus will motivate all kinds of animal play, so a stock of life-like animals, horses, cows, pigs, etc., to play farm with, and lions, tigers, etc., for playing zoo or circus will be used over and over. Blocks will be used in connection with these, for barns, fences, stations, stores, and so on.

Small, stout trucks, airplanes, boats, plows, tractors and engines form the basis for much group play in the sand pile, or solitary play if a child must be confined to bed, where, like Robert Louis Stevenson, he can make his boats go in fleets, "all up and down among the sheets."

Housekeeping play will keep little girls—and boys too—busy by the hour if they are furnished with equipment that is durable and large enough to be practical. The doll bed should be large and stout enough for the young mistress to be able to sit on it, the dishes and pans should be unbreakable (for the smaller children) and of a size to make tea parties possible. Washing equipment is now made so attractive that it should give any little girl a pleasurable reaction toward tubs, ironing boards and such-like utensils. Dolls should be selected with reference to their wearing and life-like qualities.

Children love to have a corner or some partly enclosed space in which they can carry on housekeeping play. Low folding screens, or wall-board partitions with brackets to keep them standing upright, and holes cut for doors and windows will be cherished by girls and boys alike, when Dolly is sick and the doctor comes, or when guests are coming to "call" ceremoniously.

Left over odds and ends of household materials should be carefully saved, for they represent quite as important a part of a child's equipment for imaginative play as bought things. Cartons, boxes, spools, cans, extra rolls of wall paper, cellophane, corrugated paper, ribbons and tinsel, small and large sacks, small wheels, curtain rods and advertising samples are only a few of the great number of things that can be salvaged and put away for use at the proper moment.

If no one room can be given to children as a play room, it is essential that play space be set aside somewhere. Provision should be made for putting away toys, in order that habits of neatness and order may at least have a chance to develop. In the child's room, the lower space in the clothes closet may be fitted with shelves, or open shelves with simple hangings may be built in. Down stairs, lower drawers or buffet or book case may be set aside for the child's use. It is well to have some space designated as the children's in each room; a drawer in the library table, a low shelf in the kitchen, hooks and rack in the bathroom, etc.

The Longest Fence

There are long series of fences in Texas, but what is believed to be the longest fence in the world, built at one time is the barbed wire fence built by the Italian government on the border of Libya. It extends from the sea 110 miles to Jarabub in the desert. The posts are set in concrete.

Absolute Music

Absolute music is pure, abstract musical composition which is, or endeavors to be, wholly self-sufficient, not being associated with ideas or objects. It is considered by many musicians the highest type of music. The term is used in contrast to program music.

Drones Are Male Bees

The drones are the male bees, big noisy fellows but absolutely dependent upon their sisters for their living. They perform none of the routine work of the colony, nor are they capable of feeding themselves; they beg their food from the workers. The only reason for their existence is to fecundate the young queens and thus insure the continuity of the race. In the fall when field supplies are running low the drones are driven from the hives and left to die of hunger and exposure, not being equipped with a sting they are unable to defend themselves against their ambitious sisters.

Uses for Bamboo

Bamboo has been used for almost every article of furniture. It has supplied man with penholders, masts for ships, cages for birds and animals, sunblinds, walking sticks, and a hundred other things—even drainpipes. Natives use its leaves for making clothes and thatching roofs. Seeds from the bamboo can be cooked and eaten like rice, or fermented and made into beer.

HEALTH SURVEY IS UNDER WAY IN COUNTY SCHOOLS

Work Here Is Financed by Annual Christmas Seal Sale

A health survey of the rural school children of Pennington County is being conducted under the auspices of the Pennington county Public Health association. Miss Mabel Johnson, Christmas Seal nurse of the Minnesota Public Health association, began the survey Monday.

The purpose of the survey is to fill out health record cards of school children for permanent county files and also to discover boys and girls who have unsuspected physical defects or who are not physically up to standard. Slips will be sent home to parents of children in need of special attention.

Education in health is an important factor of the survey and Miss Johnson will place special stress on the importance of proper health habits and the prompt correction of defects which if neglected may retard the child's growth and progress in school. She will also discuss the importance of protective measures against preventable disease such as vaccination for small pox, immunization for diphtheria, and the tuberculin test to seek out early infection from tuberculosis. This survey is made possible through the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

While in Pennington county, Miss Johnson will also assist in organization work for the orthopedic clinic to be conducted in Thief River Falls October 3 as part of the state social security program conducted by the division of crippled children's services, state board of control, with the Minnesota Public Health association co-operating.

Gases Under Pressure

Gases, as well as solids, do strange things under high pressure. For example, hydrogen gas flows freely through a steel plate two inches thick when under a pressure of 800,000 pounds to the square inch.—K. O. Pfeiffer, Portland, Ore., in Collier's Weekly.

Flax Important in Ohio

At one time in Ohio's history flax was one of the most important crops. In 1860, for example, the state produced about 80,000,000 pounds of the fiber and had 90 flax mills in operation.

School Lunch Should Fit Needs of Active Children

With thousands of Minnesota school boys and girls back at their desks, school lunch committees are again pooling ideas and planning the hot dish which makes the school lunch worthwhile.

Miss Inez M. Hobart, extension nutrition specialist, University Farm, St. Paul, says the best way to assure good nutrition is to plan the noon lunch according to the food needs of an active child, and that nourishing lunches may be planned around one hot dish. Sandwiches, milk, raw fruit and sometimes cookies may supplement this hot main dish.

Some of the hot dishes which have proved successful for school lunches are creamed vegetables, meat and vegetable stews, soups rich in vegetables, milk, or both, beans and other legumes eggs prepared in some simple way, and cheese in white sauce or with tomatoes.

If lunches are planned a week in advance, main dishes can be chosen that will include the various kinds of food the children need. For example, the menus for the week may include an egg dish, a meat dish, a fish dish, a soup rich in milk, and a dish using or made up of beans or some other dried legume. Two of the recipes each week may well inlude tomatoes.

A convenient way to provide raw vegetables for school lunches is in sandwiches. Finely chopped raw carrots, cabbage, lettuce, or celery may be lightly salted and mixed with a little mild salad dressing for sandwich filling. Lettuce may be kept crisp by wrapping it separately in oil paper. Then it can be added to the sandwich at lunch time.

SHERIFF PUTS PROVERBIAL HOOKS INTO CEREMONY

St. Cloud.—Instead of the soft strains of Lohengrin with an outlook for a peaceful married life, 25 year old Matt Lezen sits singing the bars of—the Prisoner's Song with an outlook for a stretch in the Stearns county jail. For young Matt was arrested by Sheriff Art McIntee the day before his wedding while selling stolen grain at the Ervin Mill in St. Cloud. The unobliging sheriff also found veal and chickens in his possession which had been "borrowed" for the wedding breakfast. The arrest cleared up numerous petty thefts of grain and chickens during the past, the groom having operated in this vicinity for the past four years.

Social Distinctions

There are social distinctions in all countries, and among the poor as among the rich.

FARM BUSINESS WILL BE STUDIED AT N. W. SCHOOL

Course Includes Review by Dowell of Recent Farm Legislation

The business side of farming and home making will be emphasized in courses to be offered at the Northwest school during the coming school year. One course in farm marketing will be presented throughout the year by Superintendent A. A. Dowell. This course will include a review of recent farm legislation together with analysis of problems confronting the farmer in the marketing of his products.

Work in farm management and comparative agriculture will be presented by Prof. R. S. Dunham, agronomist. Prof E. R. Clark will offer a course in farm accounts, which includes practical farm records for the farmers of this region. Rural economics and rural sociology will be offered by Prof. R. J. Christgau, while courses in typewriting, office training, and bookkeeping will be given under the direction of Miss Fae Hughbanks.

In the home economics section, Miss Betta Bede will have charge of the work in house planning, household accounts, and home managements.

It is felt that the increasing complexity of social relationships has mutiplied problems relating to the business side of farming; consequently, courses dealing with these complex problems are of utmost importance.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FOR TEN YEAR OLD BOY

Sleepy Eye.—Ten year old Dennis Reinharts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Reinharts of Sigel township miraculously escaped a terrible death last week when his head became caught and crushed between the wall of a shed and a large truck, which was being backed into the shed by his father. The lad's skull was not fractured altho he sustained an ugly gash, some eight inches long, across the top of his head, over both ears. The wound required 30 stitches. Dennis was cleaning up in the shed when his father drove up, and without noticing his son backed the truck into the building. Reinharts says he heard a loud crack, as though a board had been broken. He was horrified to find the boy's head caught, between the truck and the shed wall. Altho seriously injured, Dennis was unconscious only for a short time, having fainted from the terrible shock. He was hurried to the Loretto hospital where X-rays were taken that revealed no broken skull bones, and was able to leave the hospital in a few hours.

HEALTH SURVEY IS UNDER WAY IN COUNTY SCHOOLS

Work Here Is Financed by Annual Christmas Seal Sale

A health survey of the rural school children of Pennington County is being conducted under the auspices of the Pennington county Public Health association. Miss Mabel Johnson, Christmas Seal nurse of the Minnesota Public Health association, began the survey Monday.

The purpose of the survey is to fill out health record cards of school children for permanent county files and also to discover boys and girls who have unsuspected physical defects or who are not physically up to standard. Slips will be sent home to parents of children in need of special attention.

Education in health is an important factor of the survey and Miss Johnson will place special stress on the importance of proper health habits and the prompt correction of defects which if neglected may retard the child's growth and progress in school. She will also discuss the importance of protective measures against preventable disease such as vaccination for small pox, immunization for diphtheria, and the tuberculin test to seek out early infection from tuberculosis. This survey is made possible through the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

While in Pennington county, Miss Johnson will also assist in organization work for the orthopedic clinic to be conducted in Thief River Falls October 3 as part of the state social security program conducted by the division of crippled children's services, state board of control, with the Minnesota Public Health association co-operating.

Gases Under Pressure

Gases, as well as solids, do strange things under high pressure. For example, hydrogen gas flows freely through a steel plate two inches thick when under a pressure of 300,000 pounds to the square inch.—K. O. Pfeiffer, Portland, Ore., in Collier's Weekly.

Flax Important in Ohio

At one time in Ohio's history flax was one of the most important crops. In 1800, for example, the state produced about 80,000,000 pounds of the fiber and had 00 flax mills in operation.

School Lunch Should Fit Needs of Active Children

With thousands of Minnesota school boys and girls back at their desks, school lunch committees are again pooling ideas and planning the hot dish which makes the school lunch worthwhile.

Miss Inez M. Hobart, extension nutrition specialist, University Farm, St. Paul, says the best way to assure good nutrition is to plan the noon lunch according to the food needs of an active child, and that nourishing lunches may be planned around one hot dish. Sandwiches, milk, raw fruit and sometimes cookies may supplement this hot main dish.

Some of the hot dishes which have proved successful for school lunches are creamed vegetables, meat and vegetable stews, soups rich in vegetables, milk, or both, beans and other legumes eggs prepared in some simple way, and cheese in white sauce or with tomatoes.

If lunches are planned a week in advance, main dishes can be chosen that will include the various kinds of food the children need. For example, the menus for the week may include an egg dish, a meat dish, a fish dish, a soup rich in milk, and a dish using or made up of beans or some other dried legume. Two of the recipes each week may well inlude tomatoes.

A convenient way to provide raw vegetables for school lunches is in sandwiches. Finely chopped raw carrots, cabbage, lettuce, or celery may be lightly salted and mixed with a little mild salad dressing for sandwich filling. Lettuce may be kept crisp by wrapping it separately in oil paper. Then it can be added to the sandwich at lunch time.

SHERIFF PUTS PROVERBIAL HOOKS INTO CEREMONY

St. Cloud.—Instead of the soft strains of Lohengrin with an outlook for a peaceful married life, 25 year old Matt Lezen sits singing the bars of the Prisoner's Song with an outlook for a stretch in the Stearns county jail. For young Matt was arrested by Sheriff Art McIntee the day before his wedding while selling stolen grain at the Ervin Mill in St. Cloud. The unobliging sheriff also found veal and chickens in his possession which had been "borrowed" for the wedding breakfast. The arrest cleared up numerous petty thefts of grain and chickens during the past, the groom having operated in this vicinity for the past four years.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FOR TEN-YEAR OLD BOY

Sleepy Eye.—Ten year old Dennis Reinharts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Reinharts of Sigel township miraculously escaped a terrible death last week when his head became caught and crushed between the wall of a shed and a large truck, which was being backed into the shed by his father. The lad's skull was not fractured altho he sustained an ugly gash, some eight inches long, across the top of his head, over both ears. The wound required 30 stitches. Dennis was cleaning up in the shed when his father drove up, and without noticing his son backed the truck into the building. Reinharts says he heard a loud crack, as though a board had been broken. He was horrified to find the boy's head caught, between the truck and the shed wall. Altho seriously injured, Dennis, was unconscious only for a short time, having fainted from the terrible shock. He was hurried to the Lerette hospital where X-rays were taken that revealed no broken skull bones, and was able to leave the hospital in a few hours.

Portuguese First in Canton

The Portuguese were among the first foreigners to arrive in 1511, but they had been preceded by the Arabs. Canton was the first Chinese city to trade with Europe. It has always been an open-minded and progressive city. The Cantonese, more than any other Chinese, are inclined to travel. Nearly all the Chinese in America, Europe, the Netherlands, East Indies, Siam, South America, and Africa are Cantonese.

THE CITY IS SOLVENT

An increase of more than eight thousand dollars in the earnings of the light plant during the first seven months of its operation this year represents an increase of nearly fourteen per cent over the earnings for the same period last year. This substantial gain gives assurance that the city's revenue from light and power will be well up to the total of last year in spite of the rate reductions effective the last four months of the year. Net collections should come close to the hundred thousand dollar mark and leave the city in a strong financial condition in spite of the present heavy expense for various relief projects.

At the present time the total bonded debt of the city is $261,000. Of this total the water department owes $30,000; the auditorium $17,000; the light plant $139,000; the skating ring $15,000, and paving $60,000. Considering the assets behind these obligations, the indebtedness is not great. During the past twelve years more than $400,000 has been paid out for improvements to the power plant and distributing system alone. The original paving debt was $225,000. The Riverside Avenue paving was a cash deal as was the new auditorium, the auditorium indebtedness being a carryover from the old building. Many other improvements have been paid for out of cash balances. Which is quite a remarkable record in itself, and more remarkable when the financial condition of the school district is considered, the school district, tapping practically the same tax sources, having reduced its debt $200,000 during this same period.

At the rate we have been paying off in the past, both the city and the school district will have retired all present obligations in another six years. There may be new obligations to meet by that time. A growing community has many expenditures forced upon it. But it is comforting to know that our ability to pay will increase with our needs as we grow and it is certainly encouraging to realize that we will be able to face those future needs with all past obligations well in hand.

President Roosevelt has promised that no new taxes will be imposed after election. But before the last election he assured us that there would be no reductions in the tariff on farm products. He stated most emphatically that there was not a single farm product tariff schedule that was too high. And he promised, too, that if he were elected government costs would be reduced twenty-five per cent. So now that we have President Roosevelt's word that there will be no increase in taxes we may feel practically assured that there will be a big increase.

Night football will be introduced to Thief River Falls Friday evening which will give many local fans, unable to witness afternoon games, an opportunity to see the high school griders in action. Football is steadily increasing in popularity and night football should do much to stimulate interest in the game locally. In the past, basketball has been the principal source of revenue for the high school athletic department. If the results of night football come up to expectations, the department's financial problems should be less difficult in the future.

Martin Nelson's keynote address, delivered at St. Cloud Saturday night, was a masterful presentation of the issues confronting the voters in the coming state election. Placing necessary and proper emphasis on the state's bad financial condition, the depletion of cash reserves and the greatly increased debt, he offered no easy solution to the problem of paying the high cost of past wastefulness and inefficiency. Record high taxes are inevitable. He did, however, promise to reduce the cost of state government. And he did promise to re-establish law and order. These being two things that Minnesota is badly in need of, it would not be at all surprising if the voters decide next November that Minnesota needs Martin Nelson.

Military organizations have an effective, though inexpensive, method of rewarding good service among their members. Service stripes, wound stripes and medals of various kinds are distributed with appropriate ceremonies among the deserving. Experience has proven that such toys have a real meaning in the life of a soldier and do much good in maintaining that high standard of morale that is so necessary in any military organization. There are times when we wonder if there isn't a need for something of this kind in civilian life. For instance in a community like this there are many citizens who give generously of their time in various public capacities. E. M. Bennes, who resigned from the school board after twelve years of good service, is a case in point. Such service deserves more recognition than it receives. On the library board and various other public agencies are members who rate distinguished service chevrons and perhaps a few wound stripes. Of course it is an idle thought and nothing will come of it. And perhaps it is just as well. It is sometimes difficult to distinguish between the deserving and the undeserving. But there are times when we do wonder about it.

A large number of automobile drivers paid fines last week as a result of the brake and light tests conducted by the state highway patrol. On one out of every six cars the brakes were found to be defective. On only eighty-six cars out of two hundred were the headlights properly adjusted. The purpose of the tests was, of course, to call to the attention of the driving public the need for constant attention to brakes and lights. They are important factors in safety. A car that has inadequate brakes or that has lights out of adjustment is a menace on the highway. And while it is unfortunate that a few must pay a penalty for a fault that is so widespread, if the fines imposed last week will result in greater caution and care by a larger number of motorists, then the sacrifice was well worth while and those who paid may be given credit for having contributed to an especially worth while cause.

A rather one-sided victory for the Republicans in the state of Maine does not settle the national election. But the Republican victory in Maine does have value as an election barometer to the extent that it indicates a definite trend. And the trend indicated is decidedly encouraging to the Republicans.

During the two years of 1934 and 1935 our country paid to foreigners nearly three and a half billion dollars for gold and silver. And we paid them premium prices—nearly double the actual value for silver. And what did the foreigners do with this money that Uncle Sam handed to them on a platter? No, they didn't buy American food products to the benefit of the American farmer. And they didn't buy our manufactured goods to give employment to American labor. Most of what they received for their silver and gold was invested in American securities which they bought at bargain prices and on which they will make another handsome profit. Considering these transactions, and the liberal concessions given to the foreigners in all of the so-called reciprocal trade treaties, it really isn't to be wondered at that other countries have made more progress toward recovery than we have. If the rest of the world isn't enjoying prosperity it isn't the fault of the Roosevelt administration.

GETTING BY WITH LESS AND LESS

(Worthington Globe)

We have never taken much stock in all this political talk about preserving the American system and hanging on to our sacred American way of life. On the lips of politicians such phrases are likely to lose their significance, descending to cant expressions that can mean anything and everything.

The more we observe the growth of the whole New Deal philosophy, however, the more we feel that there is something not only un-American, but backward about the whole business.

Have the attempts on the part of the government to regulate and to level blundered along to the point where a wet blanket is thrown over all personal initiative? Are we reaching the point where, under the cloak of loose social justice talk, we are glorifying the lazy, making hard work a disgrace, and substituting jealousy for ambition?

POLITICS AT SOLDIERS' HOME

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

The two clear facts which emerge from the heat of the dispute are that practical politics has invaded the administration of the Soldiers' Home and that neglect, slackness and otherwise deplorable conditions exist in the institution. The two evils are undoubtedly related to each other and in all probability represent a logical sequence of cause and effect. This result the people of Minnesota most positively do not relish. It will seem shocking to most persons that custody of an institution created and supported by them for the care of veterans should go the way of all politics.

It is illuminating to learn that there are 135 administrative employes at the home to care for about 500 veterans living there, or better than one employe to every four veterans. That certainly should be enough. Almost it would appear that the institution is a refuge for the job holders rather than a home for veterans, and operated for the relief of hard pressed politicians rather than for heroes. Even as things go in politics, 135 parts of patronage to 500 parts of performance is amazing. It helps explain where the tax dollar goes. It is not the care of the disabled veterans that costs so much, but the care of political fences.

THE NATIONAL BUDGET

(Long Prairie Leader)

Wednesday of last week, the administration published its budget for 1937, showing that notwithstanding government revenues will be the greatest in the nation's history, the spending will be such that a deficit of more than two billion dollars must be provided by new bond issues.

This is a dismal if not alarming prospect. It means that the deficit in the fourth year of the Roosevelt administration will be greater than the entire cost of running the government 30 years ago. According to the budget itself, the spending in 1937 will be six hundred million dollars more than it was the first year of the present administration. The total deficit for the four years is given at almost fourteen billion dollars, that is, the government has spent that much more than it took in, making the total government debt $34,185,000,000. It was $20,000,000,000, when Mr. Roosevelt took charge, the amount being the balance on the war debt.

It is true that the government has been faced with new needs the past four years, but it is also true that the revenues of the government have been the largest in history. The deficits have not been due to reduction in income but to increased spending, and the spending has increased from year to year, not decreased. The facts and figures of the administration's own budget indict it for extravagance and profligacy. It will take generations to pay the bills and in the meantime the payment will be reflected in high taxes and increased costs of living. Can the country stand four more years of the same kind of management?

In Russia, where "human rights" are supposed to be so much superior to "property rights," a woman was sentenced to death for stealing chocolate in a chocolate factory where she was working. In America, where the agitators tell us "property rights" are superior to "human rights," the woman would have probably lost her job, and that would have been the end of the incident. In Russia property is sacred, because it is all owned by the state.—Morris Tribune.

News and Comment

By R. W. Hitchcock

Martin A. Nelson, in his keynote speech at St. Cloud, as a part of his discussion of taxation, gave the following simple, illuminating, non-partisan analysis of the financial condition of Minnesota:

"Minnesota has reached a crisis in its financial affairs. So varied and complex has the problem become that its solution must transcend party lines. It behooves each and everyone of us—property owner and renter alike—everyone who pays taxes directly or indirectly—to face the issue without prejudice and to consider the facts as they are, not as we would like them to be.

"Here are the facts, fresh off the record:

"On July 1, 1931 there was an 8 million dollar surplus in the state revenue fund. Today there is a 7 million dollar deficit. In five years time Minnesota has spent 15 million dollars more than it has received.

"These expenditures do not include a dollar spent for emergency relief, nor do they include any part of an increase of 39 million dollars in the funded debt of the state. In other words, the state finances are worse off by 54 million dollars than they were five years ago,—an amount equal to the total tax revenues of the state government for the fiscal year of 1936.

"At the same time the state tax rate has gone ever higher until Minnesota now has the highest per capita state property tax levied in the country.

"What are we going to do about it? Is it not time that we came to a halt and began to go the other way?

"The incoming administration, no matter which party wins, will be confronted with the inescapable necessity of providing for the 7 million dollar deficit left it by its predecessor. It must do this in the face of increased annual payments on outstanding debts. It must do it in spite of financing old age pensions, which will require at least 4 million dollars more than was levied for this purpose this year. It must do it, also, in spite of having to provide for some degree of future relief.

"Finally, if the people approve the Constitutional amendment forbidding the legislature to levy upon property for state purposes, between 12 and 15 million dollars must be provided by the incoming administration from some other source.

"This is the picture. It is not a pretty picture. But it is a picture that every Minnesota citizen must face; it is a situation with which the next Minnesota administration must deal."

Contrast this plain, straightforward statement of the situation with the tricky tactics of farmer-labor speakers, who are going about the state declaring that the state debt situation has been misrepresented because Minnesota has a permanent school fund of $70,000,000, a fund which is steadily growing.

Is this a raid upon the permanent school fund of the state that the farmer-labor leaders are proposing?

It is at least a suggestion that the Minnesota permanent school fund can be raided to pay the debts of the state. It is a most amazing suggestion. It would seem that the farmer-labor leaders will grasp at any straw and will stoop to any duplicity to excuse the maladministration of the last six years and to escape the just responsibility for their acts.

Fortunately farmer-labor cannot lay its hands upon the funds which have wisely been reserved for the public schools of the state. The State Constitution provides that the state school fund "shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished."

The permanent school fund of Minnesota is an asset set apart for the children of the state. It can never be used for any other purpose. It can never be made an offset to any debt of the state. Neither farmer-labor, nor anyone else, can ever lay hands upon it to pay for obligations incurred by the state.

If Martin Nelson's statement errs in any particular, it is in understatement. The statement speaks of the 7 million dollar deficit in the state revenue fund. Seven million is the book deficit; the actual deficit is much greater, several millions greater; the actual deficit, when the next administration takes charge in January 1937 will be close to 10 million dollars. The book deficit is almost always less than the actual deficit. For instance, the book deficit of 7 million dollars in September does not take into account $3,100,000 due the State University from the state revenue fund or $4,536,000 due the public schools. What would the deficit be if these payments were made? Tax receipts, it is true, will be coming in during the next four months, but expenses will at the same time be rapidly eating them up.

In 1930 farmer-labor alleged that the Christianson administration was maintaining 10,000 employees upon the state payrolls. In 1936 Paul Rasmussen, farmer-labor member of the Big Three, gave out the information that the number of state employees in January of this year was 15,619.

Any denial that state expenses have gone up is futile, as a single illustration should prove. No employer, public or private, can take on 1,200 new permanent employees and more than 4,000 so-called temporary employees without increasing expenses. Even at the low average of $25 per week, the payroll must go up $130,000 per week, or nearly 7 million dollars per year. Mathematically it is impossible to escape the consequence of such an increase.

The administration now drawing to a close has not recommended a single economy in the conduct of the state's business. In the lexicon of the farmer-labor platform of 1936 there is no such word as economy. The farmer-labor administration has not undertaken reductions of any consequence at any time during the 6 years of its incumbency. It has indulged in a spending spree to the end that more money spent has meant more people on the payroll, and more people has meant a bigger and better political machine with which to perpetuate the party in power.

We must face these facts. They can no longer be ignored. To permit our fiscal affairs to continue as they have for six years is to invite financial disaster.

CUSTOMERS 'SPRINT' INTO TWO BENSON STORES

Benson.—"This is shocking," is probably what several customers in two Benson business places muttered to themselves as they stepped in lively fashion thru the entrances. And it was all because of what local electricians jokingly refer to as a "short circle". During a downpour of a week ago an electrical connection to a sign on one store front formed a short circuit with the iron front entrance plates on that store and those on the drug store. As the customers placed one foot on the wet cement steps and the other on the iron they felt sharp shocks until an employe in one of the stores discovered the cause and cut the wire. It was believed that at least one Benson resident, Pat Loran, could have easily qualified for the Olympics broad jump when he entered one of the places.

In Memoriam

In memory of our wife and mother.

One year has passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will,
Within our hearts she liveth still.
We think of her in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But still within our aching hearts
Her memory we keep.

Stupid Children Are Frequently Defective in Hearing, Say Medics

Many hard of hearing children have been unjustly branded in the minds of both teachers and parents as mentally deficient. This observation appears in a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical Association's Committee on Public Health Education issued today.

It is based upon painstaking studies made with the aid of the audiometer on the children of a Missouri public school. The children with hearing defects were picked out by means of it and given careful intelligence tests. Nearly all of them rated far below the normal. Some of them were behavior problems; some of them were labeled "plain stupid."

These same children were given the best possible medical aid to improve their hearing and they were taught lip reading to make up for whatever irremedial defects that might remain.

The results were astonishing. In ordinary circumstances the average child's intelligence rating remains stationary throughout the child's years in school. But for these children the rating went up to normal and above normal for approximately half of them in from two to three years' instruction in lip reading. All of them showed marked improvement in behavior and the great majority did much better work in school.

It is obvious, according to the bulletin, that many children are rated stupid who simply have not heard enough of what goes on about them to be able to answer the ordinary questions that normal children do. They are likely to be "repeaters" in school, misfits and behavior problems out of school if they are not discovered early enough, either to correct the trouble or to teach them lip reading at an early stage.

Dam at the Red Lake Outlet Is Again Open

The dam at the Red lake outlet was opened late last week after being closed for several weeks while a large crew of men was engaged in cutting weeds and clearing away other obstacles that impeded the flow of water in the Red Lake river channel. Alderman H. W. Kinghorn and Ole Legvold, superintendent of the water and light department, journeyed to the Indian agency to make arrangements for the reopening. It is expected that two to three weeks will elapse before the flow of water reaches the river pool in this city.

ELMER BENSON TO GIVE KEYNOTE AT APPLETON MONDAY

Address Will be Broadcast Over WDAY and Other Stations

A crowd of 15,000 people will gather at Appleton next Monday, Sept. 21 to hear the keynote address of Senator Elmer A. Benson in his campaign for the governorship, it was indicated early this week as the number of automobile caravans from all parts of the state were listed at Senator Benson's headquarters in St. Paul, and as reservations for rail transportation mounted. Milwaukee railroad officials announced the probability that the "Elect Benson" special train would run at least three sections with ticket sales and reservations for the train pointing toward the 1,500 mark.

The first section of the special train, carrying Senator Benson, Governor Petersen, all of the nominees on the Farmer-Labor state ticket and other men prominent in Minnesota public life, with 600 enthusiastic supporters will leave St. Paul at 10:45 a. m.

Those residents of the state who are unable to come to Appleton for the event will have an opportunity to hear the keynote address by Senator Benson over any one of eight radio stations that reach all portions of the state. In the radio hook-up are KSTP, St. Paul; WDGY and WTCN, Minneapolis; KROC, Rochester; WEBC, Duluth-Superior; WMFG, Hibbing; WDAY, Fargo and WNAX, Yankton. The broadcast will be on the air from 8 to 8:45 o'clock.

RECORD HEAT WAVE HATCHES GOLF BALL

Hopkins.—Numerous things were hatched as Minnesota residents sweltered under 107.8 temperature recently. Eggs were hatched by the heat of the sun. Plots were hatched to kidnap the weather man and send him to south Africa. But Chester Nelson has a story that bids fair to be the pay-off: In his golf bag, standing in the rear of Nelson's Shoe Store, a golf-ball was hatched by the heat a few weeks back. Breaking through the ball's tough side as though it had exploded the inside spheroid of rubber jumped halfway out of its shell. The "hatched" ball is on display at Hopkins.

Officers of the organization include: Dr. A. A. Dowell, president; Stuart McLeod, Thief River Falls, first vice president; Walter Johnson, New York Mills, second vice president; C. M. Peak, Crookston, Secretary; and O. O. Heggeness, Detroit Lakes, treasurer.

Workman's Protective League Plans Shindig Next Monday Evening

Twenty minute speeches by Judge M. A. Brattland and H. O. Chommie, humorous readings and musical numbers will feature a "shindig" being staged by the Workmen's Protective League at their hall in the basement of the Union State bank buildings on Monday evening.

The last feature of the program is to be an I. W. W. Auction, the committee in charge of arrangements stated. Asked what an I. W. W. auction is, the chairman looked enigmatic and said that it is worth attending. Some articles of special merit and value are to be sold for what they will bring, however, he stated.

The "Shindig" is to begin at 8:00 o'clock, the chairman stated and all members of the league, their wives and friends are invited to attend. A lunch will be served after the program. Admission is free.

Touchball League Will be Organized in City, Marvin Benson States

Touchball, a popular fall sport, will be played here this fall by local young men, Marvin Benson of the local National Youth's Administration said today. The sport has rapidly grown in popularity in colleges, universities, and high schools the last few years. Touchball is the leading fall intramural sport at the University of Minnesota where the fraternities have several touchball leagues; at the end of the season eliminations are held and the All-U champions are determined. An all-star team is selected from the outstanding players. Touchball and football are very similar except in the former, the opponent is touched instead of tackled. A touchball league of six or eight teams will be formed, depending on how many players sign up. All young men wishing to play should get in touch with Mr. Benson at the local NYA office in the basement of the Auditorium.

B. J. Shaw Race Horse Overcomes '13' Jinx at Minnesota State Fair

The number 13 has no jinx for High Peter, race horse owned by B. J. Shaw of this city, it developed last week at the Minnesota state fair where the local horse, trained by Bennie Schue of Grand Forks, won a substantial share of the purse. Despite the fact that High Peter occupied the thirteenth position in the thirteenth race, he placed second in one heat, his owner receiving a prize check the last two figures of which were thirteen. Since his appearance at the Pennington county fair in July, High Peter has been entered in seven races at other fairs, winning four of them and placing second in three. The horse will shortly complete the season at fairs in this state and Iowa.

F. L. CANDIDATES SEE NO HOPE FOR WILLIAM LEMKE

Three Aspirants for State Office Endorse Pres. Roosevelt

Convinced that Congressman William Lemke "hasn't a chance to be elected president," Farmer-Labor candidates for three offices were back in the state Saturday pledged to combine their own campaigns with efforts in behalf of President Roosevelt.

Senator Elmer A. Benson, candidate for governor; Governor Hjalmar Petersen, candidate for railroad and warehouse commissioner, and Congressman Paul J. Kvale, candidate for re-election in the seventh district, attended the progressive conference in Chicago which declared for Roosevelt. Other Farmer-Laborites, notably Senator Henrik Shipstead and Congressman Ernest Lundeen, the latter a candidate for United States senator stayed away from the conference.

Benson said it was "a fine meeting," that the important business is the defeat of Governor Landon, that "everyone agreed Lemke hasn't a chance."

600,000 Fish Licenses Issued for 1936 Season

More than 600,000 fishing licenses, the largest number in the history of the division of game and fish, were sent to state auditors this year, for sale, A. C. Hanson, director, announced last week. Approximately 90,000 nonresident fishing licenses were requested by county auditors in anticipation of an unusually heavy tourist trade. In 1935 74,010 nonresident licenses were sold. This year, 527,000 individual fishing licenses were sent out; 493,325 were sold last year.

MOUSE, CAT, OR CHICKEN? WHAT IS IT?

Montevideo. — Folks in town were rather astounded recently when a farmer north of Montevideo brought in a combination mouse, cat and chicken. Don't laugh, that's exactly what the strange animal looked like. At first glance it appeared to be just an ordinary baby chick covered with yellow down, but on closer inspection it was revealed to have long soft hair instead of down and the head and feet were those of a mouse. Everybody was satisfied with this explanation until the little fellow amazed them by washing himself with his tongue like a cat. Maybe all this sounds impossible, but seeing is believing; and after some of the freakish weather we've seen this year, we're ready to believe anything.

GOVERNOR LANDON TO SPEAK SEPT. 24 IN MINNEAPOLIS

Candidate for Presidency to Give Address in Auditorium

Governor Alfred M. Landon, Republican nominee for President, will speak at the Minneapolis auditorium September 24, Roy E. Dunn, Pelican Rapids, Republican national committeeman, announced on his return to Minneapolis from national headquarters in Chicago.

Governor Landon's appearance in Minneapolis makes September a banner month for Republicans, as Colonel Frank Knox, nominee for vice-president, spoke at Cokato and at the St. Paul auditorium Wednesday, and Martin A. Nelson, gubernatorial candidate is to give his keynote address at St. Cloud the 12th.

Arrangements for bringing Governor Landon to Minneapolis were completed by Thomas M. McCabe, Duluth, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, and Mr. Dunn.

Governor Landon will make several speeches in Minnesota from the rear platform of his train on his way to Minneapolis, but the places at which he will stop have not yet been decided.

Head of Snapping Turtle

The head of the snapping turtle is unusually large, and the eyes, although small, have extraordinary keen sight. The head cannot be completely withdrawn, as is the case with many other tortoises. Neither can the tail be drawn under the shell, but it can be partly protected by folding it against the shell.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. E. [illegible]

Historical Booklet

We have at hand a souviner historical booklet of Thief River Falls. It is not complete and the page giving the date is missing, but a letter published in the booklet indicates that the year was 1908. We present here a few paragraphs dealing with pioneers honored at that time:

"In 1880 M. C. Burns filed on land adjoining section 33 which was subsequently sold, the proceeds being invested in city property from which he now derives a competency. With one exception, namely, Jesse LaBree, Mr. Burns enjoys the distinction of living longer in the city than anyone else. Of Mr. Burns' early days, of his marriage to Miss Nellie Powers and of the excellent family resulting from the union, a mention must suffice. Of his sterling character as a citizen we need not speak, being too well known to require extended notice.

"Jesse LaBree came here as a boy, grew to man's estate and achieved an enviable record as a business man.

"C. H. Porter, in many respects an ideal pioneer, arrived in 1883. He should have been named "Handy Andy", as the following record well show. He became in turn laborer, drayman, express messenger, mail carrier, house mover and butcher, with farming as a side issue. Strange to say, he made money. His character is well established.

"Col. C. A. Robbecke was born in Germany, emigrated to this county, became a soldier in the regular army where he served for five years, opened the first restaurant in Crookston, in which town he married Miss Louise Meyer, removed to St. Hilaire and there built a hotel, after which he entered a homstead adjoining section 33 and removed his hotel from St. Hilaire to Thief River Falls. In the latter town he has lived acquiring fame as a landlord and a thrifty citizen and raising a large and respected family.

"A different type of man, but equally well known, is A. W. Dolton, a Civil war veteran, who on account of weakness brought on by wounds and exposure, has been unable to do more than earn an honest living. His reputation as a brave soldier and a true patriot is secure.

"Other soldiers of the Civil war who have aided in building up the community are S. T. Johnson and Frank Tilton. The former opened the first barber shop in the city while he dispensed justice as a justice of the peace. He is now county commissioner. The latter has been custodian of the cemetery ever since that institution became a necessity."

We think it was especially appropriate that a barber became a county commissioner, for, as a rule, barbers are sincerely interested in the public welfare. Perhaps it is because they hear so much about public affairs, from many angles and have opportunity to discuss them with patrons qualified to give authoritative opinions. Most barbers we have known have expressed opinions of their own, usually very sensible and practical, in our opinion.

Incidentally, we remind readers that many important facts of local history are incorporated in these paragraphs. For instance, we have learned the identity of the first hotel keeper and the first barber in Thief River Falls. Continuing we read:

"As a merchant, postmaster and member of the school board, Hans Nelson has been well and favorably known since his arrival here in 1888.

"J. W. Walker who succively held the offices of village and city treasurer until 1907, dates his residence in the community back to 1883, but a year ago, on account of failing health, was compelled to remove to the pine woods.

"The record would be incomplete without mention of John N. Whitman, soldier, hotel keeper, citizen whose reminscences of the Civil war were realistic and interesting. He is gone and his place shall know him no more.

"A familiar figure upon our streets is Peter Newman, who still, after a lapse of 40 years, retains his soldierly bearing. Two highly esteemed settlers of the early days who tarried for a while and then departed are Henry Williams and, Frank Richter. Two mill-wrights, Messrs. Jacklin and Wendt, came in the early days. Jacklin, however, left in 1893, while Wendt died in 1897 from pneumonia, leaving a wife and large family.

"Herbert Holzknecht enjoys the distinction of being the first white man married in Thief River Falls, Miss Nellie Johnson being the happy bride. The wedding was "pulled off" with becoming eclat befitting so auspicious an event.

"The first wheat grown on the townsite was shocked by Gilbert Haavi. The first Fourth of July celebration was observed in 1882. The first white children born in the city were Jonas LaBree and Frank H. Kratka."

We shall reserve more paragraphs for next week. We believe [illegible] of major facts encountered warrant reproduction of the data assembled presumably 28 years ago.

BUILD NEEDED SIDEWALKS AND OTHER PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS
WORK relief projects must be found. The best ones are those which result in permanent community benefits.
Many blocks of new sidewalks are urgently needed—will have to be built soon anyway to extend present walks or replace old, wornout, dangerous walks.
Why not build these needed walks with relief labor! Hundreds of other cities have found this type of project ideal.
Curb and gutter construction, drainage structures, park improvements, swimming pools, salvaging old streets—these are only a few among hundreds of beneficial concrete improvements that create maximum work.
If your town needs new walks or other concrete improvements, see your councilmen or your local federal relief agency. Urge your town officials to file application for W. P. A. funds soon. Prompt action is needed if project is to be approved and work done this year.
Write or wire for literature and timely facts on specific types of projects using concrete.

PARTICIPANTS IN PARADE WEIGH 40 LBS. TO ONE TON

Grand Rapids—One of the interesting features at the county fair was the live stock parade. It was nearly half a mile long, and took some time to pass before the grand stand. Leading the parade was Chas. Seedorf of Deer River, displaying the grand champion pure bred stallion. This horse weighed about a ton, and was a handsome specimen of horse flesh. The animals in the parade graduated down in size from horses to cattle, and ended up with goats. The smallest animal in the parade was a Tonenberg goat kid, led by a boy from Warba, and this animal could not have weighed more than 30 pounds, a marked contrast to the animal at the head of the parade.

Inbreeding

Inbreeding is not invariably harmful. Many breeds of cattle, horses, sheep and dogs, and several species of plants and parasites, have been closely inbred and have shown no signs of degeneration. One experiment of albino rats, in which brothers and sisters were mated for 50 generations, actually improved the stock, increasing the average weight, fertility and life span of each individual.—Collier's Weekly.

A box office at a theatre takes in more paid admissions when people are ushered in and out again in quick order. Ushering foods into the stores and out again, quickly as your Food Chain does, means that it rings up more sales on the cash register, and, can therefore afford to take less profit out of each sale. This is something every woman applauds.

PROPERTY OWNERS IN OTHER STATES GET TAX RELIEF

State Property Levy Is 140 Per Cent Higher Than Six Years Ago

While the state tax levy on homes, farms and other general property keeps going up in Minnesota, huge sums have been cut off of the property tax in other states, the Minnesota Federation for Tax Reform pointed out in a communication received here today urging local citizens to keep up their fight for relief from the property tax burden.

The state tax levy on general property being paid this year in Minnesota is 140 per cent more than the levy in 1930, Constant Larson of Alexandria, president of the federation, said, and another big increase is expected next year. The fight for relief for general property promises to be one of the big issues of the campaign and the coming session of the legislature. The last session of the legislature passed a bill which would have taken about $20,000,000 off of the general property tax in Minnesota, but it was vetoed by the Governor and did not go into effect.

A proposed amendment to the state constitution, designated as Amendment No. 2, will be voted on in November which would abolish the tax on property for state operating expenses. This would make a cut of about 10 mills on the basis of the current levy. It would effect a reduction of about 25 per cent in the taxes in the average township and make proportionate savings in the towns and cities.

KNOCK, KNOCK, WHO'S THERE? RUMBLE SEAT TELLS

Red Wing.—A worker from the Red Wing dam chose the rumble seat of a car to take a snooze on the island road but when he awoke early in the morning he found the door of the seat had been closed and automatically locked itself. Late the previous night the worker jumped into the seat where he fell asleep. The owner of the car closed the door to the rumble, evidently unaware that there was anyone in the seat. About five o'clock in the morning the cries of the worker awoke the owner of the car who had parked it near his home. After quite a search the man was found pinned in the rumble seat.

Minnesota Leads in the Elimination of Railroad Crossings

Statistics of the United States Bureau of public roads show Minnesota leading all other states in the number of railway grade crossings eliminated with special federal works program funds.

The current issue of Public Roads, which is published by the federal roads bureau, shows that as of August 1 the Minnesota highway department had completed more railway grade crossing separations and had installed more crossing signals than the highway department of any other state. This record was made notwithstanding the fact that Minnesota was allotted less than half as much money for this work as some of the other states.

In number of crossing eliminations under construction August 1 but not completed, Minnesota ranks fourth, while in number of crossing signal systems under construction it leads all other states.

"Eventually, the states receiving larger allotments will of course complete a larger program than Minnesota," commented N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. "However, the federal statistics show that Minnesota's highway department has handled the grade crossing work with commendable dispatch."

Forestry Division Will Plant 10 Million Trees

The state division of forestry will begin planting 10,000,000 pine and spruce seedlings within the next two weeks if weather conditions remain favorable, director Grover M. Conzet announced last week. The bulk of the seedlings will be planted in burnt over and cut over areas in Hubbard, Beltrami, Koochiching, Itasca, St. Louis, Carlton, Cook, Lake of the Woods, and Clearwater counties. The planting will be done largely by CCC enrollees and will require approximately a month.

STATE AWARDS SIX HIGHWAY CONTRACTS

Award of six highway construction jobs costing $161,849 has been announced by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. MARTIN A. NELSON PLEDGES ECONOMY IN KEYNOTE TALK

Republican Candidate for Governor Speaks at St. Cloud

Charging that the farmer-labor party during the past six years has given Minnesota the worst administration in its history and has brought the name of the state into disrepute all over the nation, Martin A. Nelson, republican candidate for governor, in his keynote speech at St. Cloud last Saturday urged voters of Minnesota to put an end to waste and extravagance in government and restore the good name of the state, electing the republican ticket at the November election.

The St. Cloud meeting attended by delegations from many parts of the state marked the official opening of the republican state campaign and outlined the principal lines of attack which the G. O. P. will follow in their campaign this fall.

Stating that in five years time Minnesota has spent 15 million dollars more than it has received, Mr. Nelson drew a graphic picture of the problems confronting the people of this state in putting Minnesota's financial affairs in order. No candidate for governor, Nelson said, could honestly bind himself to a course of action on state financial matters at this time.

"I shall leave myself free to act as the emergency shall dictate," Nelson said. "I shall leave myself free to oppose and I shall oppose any inequitable tax measure. I shall leave myself free to approve, and I shall approve, any equitable tax measure that may be necessary to take the state out of the red, to put it on a sound financial footing, to pay for the waste and extravagance, the partisan pilferings of the last six years and to carry out the sound, progressive undertakings demanded by the people."

Launching a bitter attack against the present state administration and stating that the farmer-labor party was responsible for a 174 per cent increase in Minnesota's tax bill, Mr. Nelson said that racketeers and political experimenters have betrayed the hopes of thousands of liberal minded citizens of this state who believed the false promises of farmer-labor leaders.

"The thousands of republicans who left the republican party in 1930 have been sadly disillusioned," Nelson stated, "and are today returning to the party which has accomplished so much for Minnesota in the past, the party which is today fired with new zeal for public service, the party which the people of Minnesota can depend upon for integrity of service upon a sound and common sense basis. All that is worthwhile in the promises of 1930 is today to be secured from the republican party whose platform of 1936 is the most constructively liberal one that Minnesota has ever known. Six years have taught us that the hopes of 1930 can be realized today only in the republican party."

REPUBLICANS OF N. W. AREA RALLY FRIDAY

Elmer A. Haugen and Two Polk County Men Deliver Addresses

Evidence of a rejuvenated Republican party in this section of Minnesota was supplied Friday evening at the Evelyn hotel by a dinner meeting attended by more than 100 persons, including delegations from Marshall, Red Lake and Polk counties.

At the meeting, over which Theodore Quale, chairman of the county Republican committee presided as chairman, a Pennington county unit of the Associated Republican Clubs of Minnesota was organized with Elmer Berg as president; Dr. J. N. Nesse, vice president; Paul Lundgren, secretary; and Miss Effie Hamry, treasurer. The official staff will be completed by appointment of a vice president in each precinct.

As its first activity the club will sponsor the appearance in this city next Tuesday, September 29, of Oscar Youngdahl, Republican candidate for attorney general. The group will also complete arrangements for a meeting at the Thief River Falls Auditorium October 13 to be addressed by Theodore Christianson and Arthur E. Nelson, respectively Republican candidates for United States senator and for lieutenant governor.

At Friday's meeting Dick Mabey, president of the local unit of the Young Republican league, introduced Lowell Grady of Crookston, who spoke in behalf of the state organization, pointing out the necessity of organizing the young voters as a means of ridding the state of its inefficient administration of recent years.

Citing a notable rise in Republican sentiment since four years ago, State Senator Alfred Solstad of Fisher declared that the party must be fair and not afraid to consider new proposals. He stated that the biggest fight is that for the governorship, and he lauded Martin Nelson for his upright character and integrity. He closed by condemning the spoils system in state politics.

Elmer A. Haugen, Republican candidate for congress from the Ninth district, attacked the present national administration for its tremendous spending program, which he said would necessitate higher federal taxes for the next two generations of American citizens. The reciprocal tariff, Mr. Haugen declared, is an un-American piece of legislation which adversely affects the Ninth district thru making possible heavy imports of cattle from Canada, as well as imports of cream, butter and eggs. He closed his address by calling attention to the encouraging outcome of the Maine election last week.

The meeting was opened with an invocation by Rev. R. M. Fjelstad, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church. Community singing was led by Mrs. E. T. Chillstrom of Warren, accompanied on the piano by Harold F. Harrison, who also presented a group of piano solos. Greetings were extended in behalf of Marshall county Republicans by Oscar R. Knutson of Warren, and in behalf of the Polk county delegation by Joseph Linster of Crookston. The gathering more than filled the main dining room of the Evelyn hotel, which was decorated for the occasion with large portraits of Republican candidates in the state and national elections.

200 ATTEND RIVER VALLEY POLITICAL MEETING TUESDAY

Berve, Lundgren, Chommie and C. Bouvette of Hallock Are Speakers

An audience of 200 persons at a forum meeting in the River Valley tent Tuesday evening heard arguments in behalf of and against the various political parties active in the fall campaign. While the meeting was projected as an educational one, some of the speakers devoted more time to attacking their opponents than to expounding the merits of their own parties.

H. O. Berve spoke for the Farmer-Labor party, which he said represents the interests of the common man, and he asked his hearers to vote a straight ticket. H. O. Chommie of this city and Clifford Bouvette of Hallock represented the Democratic party, Mr. Bouvette declaring that the day of individualism is past and promising that Democrats will support the Farmer-Labor state ticket.

Paul Lundgren, the final speaker, who represented the Republican party, took exception to the talks of the preceding speakers, saying that they had failed to set forth what their parties stand for. He vigorously defended individualism and the capitalistic system. The meeting did not close until after 12 o'clock.

ELMER A. BENSON GIVES TAX STAND IN APPLETON TALK

Would Increase Present Levies Except on Farms and Homes

An increase in taxes on business, industry and incomes, to offset reductions in levies on homes and farms, was demanded Monday night in Appleton by Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, in his keynote address formally opening his party's campaign.

Admitting the home owner and farmer "today bear a tax burden altogether too heavy and unjust", Senator Benson said, if he is elected, he will submit a proposal to "shift the burden of taxes from those who are economically oppressed to those who possess the means to pay."

"I propose," he said, "to bring about tax relief for the home owner and farmer through an increase in inheritance estate and gift taxes; an increase in income taxes in the upper brackets; an increase in the tax on monies and credits; an increase in the gross earnings taxes on railroads and corporations; a corporate excess tax, and an increase in iron ore taxes."

BELL COMPANY TO OPEN $22,000 PROJECT HERE

Telephone Company Will Lay Total of Five Miles of Added Cable

TO MEET INCREASED DEMAND FOR SERVICE

Exchange Shows Biggest Increase in District This Year

The Northwestern Bell Telephone company early in October will institute a $22,000 expansion program in Thief River Falls, S. T. Vaill, manager of the St. Cloud district, announced while in the city Wednesday. Included in the project will be the laying of a total of five miles of cable, including 2,000 feet underground, most of this to be installed on the east side of the river.

The additional facilities, Mr. Vaill said, are made necessary by a marked increase in the demand for telephone service in recent years. In 1936, he added, the increase in calls for service in Thief River Falls exceeded that of all other communities in the St. Cloud district, which embraces more than half of the state.

Two crews of men will be engaged on the project, which also includes the laying of a submarine cable under Red Lake river. Cables will also be laid under the Knox school grounds and underground in the Tindolph park section.

Manager A. J. Rau of the local exchange stated that the system now serves 1,192 patrons in Thief River Falls, the highest number to date, an increase having been recorded in every year as far back as 1929, with the exception of 1932 when there was a net loss of 84 connections. The increase by years follows: 1929, one; 1930, 20; 1931, 23; 1933, 40; 1934, 39; 1935, 45; and 1936 to date, 62.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Horace Mann and Beverage Alcohol

Horace Mann is a hero among teachers and friends of education throughout the world. At a time when schools were poor and people had little appreciation of their real importance, he urged good schools for all with such force and eloquence that he is honored as one of the nation's builders even as Franklin, Washington, and Lincoln. From the beginning of his career he was a vigorous and outspoken enemy of beverage alcohol. At a meeting of the Ohio State Teachers Association in Columbus in 1856 he was selected to draft a resolution. After pointing out the corrupting influence of intoxicating liquor on the home, on the legislatures, on the courts, and even on the churches, he continued: It is no extravagance to say that the sum-total of prudence, of wisdom, of comfort, of exemplary conduct, and of virtue, would have been today seven-fold what they are throughout the world but for the existence of intoxicating beverages among men; and that the sum-total of poverty, of wretchedness, of crime, and of sorrow would not be one-tenth part today what they now are but for the same prolific overflowing fountain of evil. Youth, health, strength, beauty, talent, genius, and all the susceptibilities of virtue in the human heart alike perish before it. No one can deny that intemperance carries ruin everywhere. It reduces the fertile farm to barenness. It suspends industry in the shop of the mechanic. It banishes skill from the cunning hand of the artisan and artist. It dashes to pieces the locomotive of the engineer. It sinks the ship of the mariner. It spreads sudden death over the solar splendors of genius. But nowhere is it so ruinous as in the school and college as upon the person and character of the student himself. Creator of evil and destroyer of good, it sends its votaries upon the career of life to suffer where they should have rejoiced to curse where they should have blessed.—Exchange.

DOES MINNESOTA GROW TALL CORN? YOU BET!

Fertile—Iowa may be the "tall corn state" but Minnesota, in addition to being one of the leaders among the agricultural states, including first in butter, is rapidly coming to the fore as a producer of corn. And Fertile is the first community in the state to claim top honors for the tallest Minnesota corn grown this year— and they might include Iowa. Johnny Rice, Fertile farmer, brought in a stalk of corn recently which measures 12 feet in length. It is a perfect specimen, and while this particular field does not consist entirely of 12-foot corn, the average would be between 8 and 9 feet, according to Rice. Can any Minnesota community beat this?

Where Foot Is Not 12 Inches

In certain parts of the world a foot differing slightly from the standard foot in the United States and Great Britain is still in use. Canada, in some localities, uses the french foot of 12.8 inches. In Amsterdam, the Netherlands, and in parts of South Africa, the old measure of 11.147 inches is used.

Female Elephants Preferred

The Indian elephant, which is much smaller than the African species, is the animal usually found with circuses; generally, too, they are females, because the male elephants have been found frequently to take dislikes to attendants, and craftily try to kill them. So many have been killed and injured in this way that for safety the females are kept.

Ducks, banded at Thief Lake last fall, scattered out over a large territory in their journey south, according to game warden Martin Nelson, who visited at the office this week. Bands have been returned from twenty-two states, most of them down the Mississippi valley. One blue wing teal, however, was shot in Cuba, a pin tail met a similar fate at Long Beach, California, and a red head was killed in North Carolina. As among human beings, there evidently is a wide difference of opinion among the ducks as to the merits of the various wintering grounds. It is nice to know, of course, that so many of them agree Minnesota is a fine place to spend the summers.

In one and the same speech, delivered at the fair grounds in St. Paul Sunday, Father Coughlin urged the voters to drive the pinks and reds out of Washington and send Lundeen down there to represent Minnesota in the Senate. We'll bet a new hat that even Lundeen himself got a chuckle out of that one.

It is a curious thing that while unemployment is decreasing, the number of people on relief is continuing to increase. Some of the administration spokesmen have attempted to explain just why this is. Campaign manager Farley, however, is silent on the subject.

As long as the masses of the people can be kidded into believing the high cost of public waste and extravagance can be charged up to the rich alone there isn't going to be much of a protest from the rank and file. But wowie what a groan there will be when the rank and file finally discover that what Roosevelt said about taxes four years ago is really true—that taxes, in the nature of things, must be paid by the sweat of those who labor.

If those who clamor for a solution of our economic troubles by performing tricks with our money could point to one single example of successful money magic they would strengthen their cause a great deal. Russia has been pointed out to us as a country that is not dominated by greedy money changers. But Russia certainly hasn't tried to bring about a more abundant life by flooding the country with paper money. Even in Russia they are smart enough to know that it just can't be done that way. In Russia they realize that the way to have more is to produce more, and that the way to produce more is to work more. Efficiency is encouraged. Thrift is encouraged. It would be a fine thing, in a country like ours, if we could set aside a reservation that would serve as a laboratory for political and economical experiments. Within the confines of this reservation the theorists could be given a free hand. We could even afford to give them plenty of money and goods to work with. Then they could experiment with one idea at a time as they do in an industrial laboratory. As new ideas proved themselves to be good ideas they could be adopted for general use. Of course our so called reformers wouldn't co-operate in such a scheme. Most of them are like a boy with a clock—unable to build a clock of their own but absolutely certain that they can improve on the clock that someone else has built. And they always want to experiment on the best clock in the house. But it would be interesting to watch a million or two of our most dissatisfied citizens try to work out a perfect civilization among themselves. Our guess is that they would have to import a few workers to do the chores or they all would starve.

KEEP TRAVELLING
(Duluth Publicity)

Summer journeys will soon be over, but mental pilgrimages are always possible, says the Bridgeport, Conn., Post.

Few of us, perhaps, realize that the greatest roamers have been mind-travelers. Emerson disliked leaving his peaceful Concord, where he could sit under his own trees yet journey to the far ends of the earth.

Kant, the philosopher and scientist, never stepped foot out of the tiny village in which he had been born. Yet he was master of the manners, customs, arts, sciences, religion and philosophies of the peoples of the known world. And there in Konigsberg—he studied and disclosed the two most wonderful things in the universe, to him,—the starry heavens above and the moral law within.

In this day and age it is easier than ever to remain at home and still wander in imagination to the far ends of the earth. Whether history is being made in European capitals, or its grim lessons ignored in Spain, we can be there almost instanter to read, see, hear and learn.

Imagination is a great gift of the gods, and not the least of its wonders are the various magic carpets by which man travels the world over every morning and night without leaving his neighborhood.

Summer journeys will soon be over, it is true, but mental pilgrimages are still possible. Keep traveling.

FASCISM IN GREECE
(Winnipeg Tribune)

Since Premier Metaxas of Greece made himself dictator and suspended parliamentary government, very little news has come out of that country. This is not, however, a case of no news being good news. It means simply that the weapon by which all dictators—whether Fascist or Communist—keep themselves in power has been put to use in Greece.

From foreign correspondents we learn that Premier-Dictator Metaxas has set up a rigid censorship of all forms of communication, telephones, telegraphs, newspapers and magazines. As in Italy or Germany, the press is told not only what it must not print but also what it must print.

What can have happened to the descendants of that enlightened Greece of 2,000 years ago? How can they be so unfaithful to the traditions of the past? A nation politically weak, numerically small materially poor, they lit a torch of intellectual freedom that illuminated the whole world. All the Western world's science, literature and art began with this single small nation. We still use words which they invented; we still think in channels which they were the first to discover; our whole system of democracy moves in a course which they set for mankind five centuries before Jesus. As one writer has put it: "To the Hebrews we owe our idea of one God. To the Romans we owe our idea of sanitary science. To the Greeks we owe nearly everything else." It passes comprehension that these people who once bred a Solon could now tolerate the petty edicts of a Metaxas. Where is the glory that was Greece?

NOT ENOUGH RICH TO SOAK

Attacking the stand taken by politicians who make glowing promises of a huge cut in taxes on homes and farms merely by increasing income taxes on the rich, the Citizens' Tax Relief Association in an analysis of state income tax returns discloses that there are few rich left in Minnesota for the tax gatherers to soak.

The analysis showed on the basis of the most recent tabulation that there were only 5,635 persons in Minnesota with an annual income over $5,000, or less than 1 per cent of the 800,000 or more gainfully employed in Minnesota, and that if the state took all their income it would not go far toward eliminating the property tax.

"It sounds good to the voters to say that we can solve all our tax problems merely by increasing the income tax in the upper brackets," John F. Scott, president of the association, said in reporting the study. "The plain truth of the matter is that there are not enough rich to soak. An income tax is a desirable feature of our tax system, but we must be realistic in seeking relief for our property owners and not try to do something which cannot be done.

"The tax returns which the income tax department received last year, covering 1934 incomes showed only 5,635 persons in Minnesota with a net income over $5,000 and only 1,275 of this number had an income over $10,000. Many have been under a misapprehension as to the number of persons with big incomes and the amount of those incomes.

"The 5,635 persons with an income over $5,000 had a taxable total of $14,400,000. Their exemptions were about $10,000,000, so that the total income was only about $24,400,000. That is only about 2.5 per cent of the income of the people of Minnesota. It is estimated that the people of Minnesota had an income of about $1,100,000,000 in 1934.

"The point about it all is that the big money is not in the higher brackets. The great bulk of the income of our people is in the lower and middle brackets. Most of the income is that earned by persons of ordinary means, and persons who talk about revising our tax system should keep that in mind.

"We can't get money out of the air. In readjusting our tax system, whether through the income tax or other methods, we must adopt a plan that will spread the tax base over larger numbers. Our tax system if it is to raise the money needed for government without injustice to property owners, must reach the great bulk of our citizens who have earnings and are able to pay a share of the cost. Moreover, we must cut expenses and eliminate some of the extravagances that have crept into our state government in recent years. The cost of government has increased out of all proportion to the income of our citizens."

Only about 36,000 persons and 1,650 firms paid a state income tax last year. The returns this year are better.

A GOVERNMENT OF LAWS
(Northfield News)

There is a famous phrase in the constitution of the commonwealth of Massachusetts that has become a vital American principle. It promises ". . . . a government of laws and not of men."

The issue expressed in that phrase—"a government of laws and not of men"—is very much alive in the world today despite centuries of struggle to free men from the caprice and whim of personal rulers. One need but glance upon the world scene to see how this principle, which epitomizes America's ideals of government, has been abrogated in those countries whose traditions of freedom are even younger than ours.

The world menace at the present time is that of dictatorships, whose very essence is government by personal will. To be sure the purposes of dictatorships are lofty, in word or fact, but they all are inevitably predicated upon a sacrifice of human happiness and decency and self-respect.

In America, liberty has been "confirmed in law," but even here we have seen the demand for action and the growth of bureaucratic methods lead to a steady encroachment upon those balances and checks of power which were wisely stipulated by the founders of "a government of laws and not of men." Unfortunately, our thinking as a nation is too often colored by the circumstances of the moment. Right now we want action to conquer a depression, but there is a grave danger in this if in our common demand for action we think less of "government by law" and welcome "government by men."

The security and justice we seek will be but feeble and transitory indeed if we fail to make them part of our heritage of just laws conforming to the orderly process of democratic government which have been achieved only after centuries of struggle and sacrifice.

THE TROTSKY-STALIN FEUD
(Chicago News)

Between Stalin, the opportunist, and Trotsky, the doctrinaire, there is, certainly, theoretical difference. Both want Communism. But whereas Trotsky thinks the world revolution is the most important thing, and puts that first, Stalin thinks Communism in Russia is the most important thing. For all of Stalin, the world revolution can wait, and wait indefinitely. Nor is he averse meanwhile, to cooperating in various ways with certain capitalist nations.

But this dispute over world revolution can hardly explain the ferocity of the Trotsky-Stalin feud. Its causes run deeper. Power is a heady and habit-forming drug. At Lenin's death, a decade ago, Trotsky, Kamenev, Zinoviev and other old-time Bolshevik leaders would each no doubt have liked to rule. But Stalin, in some manner, had laid hold of the party machinery. Despite their opposition, Stalin won. That was hard to forgive. It was never forgiven. Silently, intensely, the feud went on. Stalin won the second round, and Trotsky was exiled. He won the third round, and Kamenev and Zinoviev were jailed. Now it is the fourth round. Kamenev and Zinoviev are dead. Trotsky, even in exile, lives in terror. Stalin has won again.

So this is the gentle democracy under Socialism toward which Communism is supposed by its admirers to have been leading Russia! Only by murderous intrigue can a difference of doctrine express itself. Even to think as Trotsky thinks is treason. Stalin, like Mussolini and Hitler, is always right. To disagree is to disappear.

FARMING WILL REVIVE
(Grand Rapids Herald-Review)

Farming is on its way to the recognition which it deserves. Out of a constructive consideration of its problems will come greater stability and satisfaction. The nation will some day recognize that its own prosperity rests upon the stability of the agricultural areas. Agriculture partakes of the fruits of better business, more prosperous industry and better times. These are the days to get back to the land.

DYNAMITE IGNITED FROM SPARKS FROM GRINDSTONE

Luverne—The two and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer was badly burned when a small amount of dynamite, kept in a tin can in a shed on their farm near Luverne, exploded after being ignited by sparks from a grindstone on which Meyer was sharpening an axe. The baby and three brothers and sisters were sitting on the ground near the shed watching their father. A spark flew into the tin can and ignited the dynamite. The baby was burned by flames which accompanied the explosion. None of the other children were injured. The dynamite was placed in the shed after its use two years ago, and Meyer had forgotten it. The baby's burns are not believed to be serious.

News and Comment
By R. W. Hitchcock

Martin Nelson has recently made strong, constructive statements as to recovery and relief.

At St. Cloud September 12th he said:

"Minnesota must continue to discharge that obligation (relief) in full measure . . . The republican party proposes that relief funds shall go to those who need relief . . . Relief must be entrusted to local authorities in the largest measure possible, so that it may be prompt, adequate, effective."

"The republican party proposes to cure the necessity for relief as rapidly as possible by promoting to the utmost industrial revival and recovery."

"My solemn pledge to you is that the state government shall live within its means . . . no other thing can so take men and women off the relief rolls . . . Nothing else can so profit the producer . . . increase labor's purchasing power . . . cut the cost of living."

Over the radio September 18th he said:

"If $3 is appropriated for relief, the republican party of Minnesota wants the men and women, the little children, who need that relief to have the whole $3. The republican party proposes to put an end to giving 2 of those 3 dollars to waste and extravagance in the administration of relief."

"Business and industry must pay. It must pay all that the traffic can bear . . . But government which does not encourage business and industry is the foe of the worker . . . Industrial revival means more and more jobs, it means thinning the ranks of the unemployed, it means the more abundant life, it means more substance and more contentment for everybody . . . It sights the end of charity and the establishment of every man as an independent citizen on his own."

SURVEY CREWS TO CHECK EVERY MILE OF ROAD IN STATE

Work Sponsored by Highway Department and U. S. Road Bureau

Forty engineers have been assigned by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and the Minnesota highway department to drive over every mile of rural highway in the state together information for the statewide highway planning survey now being conducted jointly by the two organizations.

This means that the men will have to cover approximately 115,000 miles of township, county and state roads. December 1 has been set as the completion date for their work. Each engineer drives an automobile, and is accompanied by a chainman. As they proceed slowly over the various roads, they record the width, condition and type of surface of the roadway and the location of all bridges, large culverts and other road structures. They also check mileages and note on maps the location of schools, churches, dwellings, creameries, quarries, gravel pits and all such places which are served by a particular road. Continual stops must be made for the taking of measurements and the making of structure inspections.

The accurate taking and recording of this information requires time and on an average each crew of two men covers about 40 miles a day. Each car carries two square yellow flags, one in front and one behind, as a caution to passing traffic.

The crews are now working in northern Minnesota. Within a few weeks they will gradually move into the southern half of the state.

Some Persons Prone to Accidents, State Medical Group Finds

There are individuals who can be called "accident-prones" according to today's bulletin from the public health education committee of the Minnesota State Medical association.

An accident-prone is a person who has repeated accidents in defiance of all efforts to prevent them. Studies in industrial plants have shown that 16 per cent of the individuals employed were contributing about 66 per cent of the accidents. Some bus and truck companies, as noted in a previous bulletin from the committee, have sorted out their accident repeater drivers and eliminated them, with the result that their accident rate has gone down to an astonishingly low minimum.

A medical examination of the accident-prones in one industry showed that they fall into three classes: one, the individual who is handicapped by some physical defect; two, the individual who is on a job that is not suitable to him; three, the individual who is an accident-prone simply because he cannot be educated to be careful.

Those in the first group can be helped in many cases; so can those in the second group. Those in the third group have their counterpart in the man who is chronically heedless; he is the kind of man who walks through the stream of traffic reading his newspaper. Sometimes this group simply has to be removed or disciplined.

There are too many accident-prones driving automobiles, according to the doctors. With adequate examinations and tests these people can be discovered; their defects remedied and the stubborn accident-prones who simply cannot learn to be careful can be deprived of their licenses to drive a car.

Jackson—Dorman Lehman has been rather perturbed the past week as to the motive of the strangers who drove up to his place in a truck on a recent night and deposited four young calves in his pasture. The Lehman family, living near Jackson, heard a truck go by during the night, but paid no special attention. The next morning Lehman discovered the four new additions to his herd of cattle. Lehman carried an ad in the Jackson paper, stating that if the calves were stolen from some other farmer, the owner could have his property by calling at the Lehman farm and paying the costs of keeping and advertising.

HOBO EXPECTS HARD WINTER FOR SWEETIE

Hanley Falls—A thoughtful hobo passed through Hanley Falls recently. He was apparently thinking about the approaching cold winter weather and a wife at home somewhere that will be needing some winter clothes. Mrs. Joe Erickson decided it would be a good time to hang out her winter clothes for a fall airing. Children of the neighborhood discovered a tramp helping himself to dress, a winter coat, and other wearing apparel, stuffing them into a bag he was carrying. They promptly ran to tell Mrs. Erickson, who in turn called her husband and the village marshall. The two men immediately checked on all freight cars and looked over the hobo "jungles" without results. Returning home with the expectation of buying his wife a new winter outfit, Erickson found the bundle of clothing dumped on the north side of the house—the only place in town they had failed to cover.

OCTOBER 4 TO 10 DESIGNATED FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Fires Annually Destroy a Half-Billion Dollars in Property

The week of October 4 to 10 has been set aside as Fire Prevention Week. Fires take 10,000 lives and destroy a half million dollars worth of property in the average year in the United States, and it is most appropriate that a week of Special effort be devoted to lessening this terrific toll.

Education against hazards in handling fire should help to lessen the toll of life and property, but the only permanent solution is to build with materials that will not burn. Some real progress has been made in this line in recent years. Fireproof construction is becoming almost the universal rule in large business buildings, urban schools, theatres and other places where human beings congregate.

The greatest loss of life by fire, however, occurs in dwelling places, and here also some progress is being made, though slowly. The fireproof home is still rare, but the new homes use more fire-resistant materials than was the rule a generation ago. Recent developments have made concrete walls, floors and partitions practical and economical. Chimneys are made more substantial. Fire-resistant roofs are replacing inflammable shingles. Many old houses are being overcoated with stucco, which, besides being fire-resistant, makes them warmer and more attractive.

We cannot rebuild all our structures at once, but if the trend towards firesafe construction continues, we should see a very substantial reduction in our fire losses within a decade or two.

Minneapolis Bridge Co. Awarded Contract for Bridge in E. G. Forks

The Minneapolis Bridge company of Minneapolis was awarded the contract Saturday for the construction of the new bridge across the Red Lake river at Washington avenue in East Grand Forks.

The company's bid was $104,120, of which $99,920 was for the bridge proper and $4,200 for the necessary fill. Work on construction of the bridge is to be begun within one week and the entire structure will be completed by June 1, 1937.

The Minneapolis Bridge company was the lowest of six bidders on the bridge projects. The bridge proper will be 512 feet long, with an additional 500 feet of fill, 300 at one end and 200 at the other end of the bridge. The present span, which has been condemned and will be torn down, is 985 feet long.

CITY PROFITS BY JAIL FIRE

Two Harbors.—The city of Two Harbors is $1 richer, but somewhat sadder and wiser for having lived up to its name and harbored Morris Peterson in its bastile. Arrested for intoxication, Peterson became irate in his cell and set fire to the mattress. The smoke became so stifling that the occupant of the next cell broke a window and screamed for help. Police arrived and found Peterson with a blanket wrapped about his head, apparently suffocated. Dragging him into the open, they called an ambulance. But Peterson suddenly became very much alive, and being outside the jail, attempted to escape. Recaptured, he was taken back to jail and the next morning fined $12. The mattress cost the city $8, its cover $3, so the city is $1 ahead.

Telephone Poles to be Cut in Red Lake Region

A former Bemidji timber man, Thomas J. Welsh, recently received a contract from the Joslyn Manufacturing & Supply Co. whereby he will furnish between 10,000 and 15,000 cedar telephone poles from 20 feet and 5 inches and up to that concern says the Bemidji Sentinel. Oscar Thyren, Kelliher, representative of the company, said the poles will be taken from an area north of lower Red Lake and then be trucked to Thief River Falls where they will be shipped to distributing points maintained by the Joslyn company. Cutting is now under way and completion of the job is expected to take until next spring.

CENSUS REPORTS 10,716 COWS ARE MILKED IN COUNTY

More Than Five Million Gallons of Milk Produced Locally in 1934

The number of dairy cows milked on farms in Pennington county in 1934 totaled 10,716, a substantial increase over the 8,559 milked in 1929, according to a special report of the 1935 federal farm census released this week by the bureau of the census. Milk production increased from 4,310,652 gallons in 1929 to 5,238,476 gallons in 1934. A total of 1,129 farms were checked by the enumerators.

The report states that the production of milk on all farms in the state in 1934 aggregated 761,130,000 gallons, the three leading counties being Ottertail, Stearns and Freeborn. The number of cows milked in 1934 was 1,717,623, an increase of 201,856 or 18 per cent over 1929.

A total of 154,314 pounds of butter was churned on 750 Pennington county farms in 1934, compared to 126,133 pounds in 1929.

Marshall county reported 21,799 cows milked on 2,637 farms in 1934, compared to 17,175 cows on 2,317 farms in 1929. In Red Lake county the number of cows milked increased from 7,032 to 8,644 during the five-year period, while the number of farms reporting increased from 814 to 900. Roseau county is shown to have had 17,251 cows in 1934 and 12,947 in 1929.

Plans Announced for Drouth Seed Buying Under Federal Setup

Arrangements for purchase by the federal government of adapted varieties of seed wheat, oats, flax and barley in Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota, have been announced by J. W. Tapp, chairman of the United States Department of Agriculture drouth committee. The seed will be made available to farmers in these states for planting next spring.

The purchases will be made by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, through cooperation of the Farm Credit Administration. Facilities of dealers and of country and terminal elevators will be used, at points which will facilitate distribution to the drouth area.

Purchases will be made only after samples, submitted in accordance with instructions to be issued, have been approved in Minneapolis by federal and state agronomists. Holders of seed grains meeting the varietal and other requirements will be given an opportunity to submit samples as a basis for purchase.

The plan for making high quality seed grain available at reasonable prices to farmers whose crops were destroyed by drouth will make possible more rapid recovery from the effects of this year's crop failure, it is pointed out by Mr. Tapp.

TRAIN PICKS UP CAR, DRIVER DISLIKES RIDE

Detroit Lakes—Fun's fun, but Bert Omundson of Detroit Lakes thought the engineer whose train pushed his auto half a mile down the tracks recently was carrying things too far. Bert thinks he can take a joke as well as anybody, but when a passenger train started to shove his new car half way over the railroad system, he felt it high time to take matters into his own hands. The odd mishap occurred about 6 a. m. in the morning. A heavy fog prevented Omundson from seeing the oncoming train until the last minute. Attempting to avert the collision he swerved his auto, but the engine caught the machine up on its cow-catcher and went chugging on down the tracks. Bert stood it for a while, and then clambered out the front window of his car, up the cow-catcher to the catwalk of the engine and then to the cab, where he told the engineer in plain language how to run the train. The engineer asserted he was not aware that the train had struck anything.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT DUE TO HOUSEHOLD ECONOMY

Fairfax—A peculiar accident which might be said to be due to "household economy" nearly cost the life of N. L. Myers, Fairfax, recently. Mrs. Myers had put a quantity of surplus bread dough into a mason jar, sealed it, and set it in the refrigerator. When ready to use it, she took the jar out, but being unable to open it, asked her husband to turn the cover. Myers was working at the jar when the fermenting dough exploded, cracking the bottle, and cutting a deep gash in his hand. Several stitches were required to close the wound, which might perhaps have been in a more vulnerable part of his body. Effect: No more dough to be "saved" in the Myers household.

FRANK W. MURPHY CRITICIZES KNOX ADDRESS IN STATE

Takes Exception to Agriculture Stand in Radio Address

In a speech bristling with caustic comment, Frank W. Murphy of Wheaton, chairman, of the Roosevelt All Party Committee, broadcast reply Saturday night to statements made by Republican Vice Presidential Candidate Frank Knox who recently toured Minnesota. Quoting from Colonel Knox's Cokato address "I am not much of a farmer; I never inherited a farm, but I am interested in farm problems," Mr. Murphy said:

"Quite true. He has no understanding of the farmer's problems. All his adult years have been devoted to publishing city newspapers. There is no record of his championing the cause of farmers during the depression days of 40-cent wheat, 2-cent hogs, 3-cent steers and 6-cent eggs. Not being a farmer, not having gone through the slough of starvation prices for farm produce, not having struggled to meet taxes and interest on farm mortgages, he gives to farmers of Minnesota with glib tongue this formula for farm relief. Listen to his words:

"The solution of the farmers' problems does not lie in tricks performed by magicians down in Washington. Give the farmer a chance and he will work out his own problems.

"So, my friends on Minnesota farms, under the Knox method you will have to raise yourself by your own bootstraps, left unassisted to work out your own salvation. This is precisely what Republican leaders said before when we battled in Washington for relief. Now we have handed out again the meaningless platitudes, soap bubbles of buncum, soporific words to lull the innocent, phrases empty of meat and void of content. Colonel Knox forewarns us that all the farmer need expect from a Republican administration is neglect, indifference and an opportunity to tug at his own bootstraps."

HOLD BUILDING BEE FOR WAR BUDDY

Grand Rapids—Harold Kjellen formerly of Nashwauk, disabled World War veteran, bought river lots in Grand Rapids with his bonus money, together with the materials for a house. Realizing that it would be a slow process for Kjellen to build his own house while physically handicapped, his buddies of the Veterans of Foreign War posts of Nashwauk and Grand Rapids held a building bee on a recent Sunday. Taking their lunch with them, the group put in a full day, turning out a nice carpenter's job and providing Kjellen with a warm home before cold weather begins.

BOY FINDS SKUNK AND SKUNK FINDS BOY

Wheaton—Wayne Gaulrapp, 10 years old, found a skunk. The skunk with his range finder found Dwayne. Dwayne's clothes are buried deep in the ground and Dwayne's skin has been scrubbed and scrubbed but the memory lingers on. Dwayne was out in the pasture one day last week riding a pony at the home of his grandfather, George Gaulrapp, Sr. The pony came to the house without the boy so the grandfather went to look for the little rider. Soon he heard the boy call: "Grandpa bring a club for I have got a skunk cornered."

Sure enough, he had the skunk cornered, but he probably will be a little careful how he catches another one.

FIRST ASSEMBLY PROGRAM GIVEN BY MR. OVERING

An Hour of Impersonating Mystifying Tricks, Art Entertain Audience

The first in the series of assembly programs given during the school year was presented at the municipal auditorium Friday afternoon, September 18.

The very amusing and mystifying entertainment was provided by Mr. Merton Overing. Mr. Overing is skilled in many different fields including hand tricks, impersonations, and making beautiful landscapes out of bits of colored cloth. He opened the program by performing several very mystifying tricks with billiard balls, and colored scarfs. By simply mumbling a few magic words such as roast beef, roast chicken, and others Mr. Overing made the billiard ball completely disappear into thin air and then found it hidden in various parts of his clothing. Another very mystifying trick was done by using two bowls of rice. After changing the quantity of rice in several ways Mr. Overing finally changed the rice into a bowl of water. Besides these tricks the audience was further confused when Mr. Overing did several incredible things with colored scarfs.

Next, Mr. Overing gave several impersonations including an old war veteran telling a tall story about duck hunting, and others of Bert Williams speaking in his own peculiar way. Later on Mr. Overing also gave impersonations of an old man reading the village paper, meanwhile imparting several very good bits of philosophy about life in general; and an impersonation of Elmer, the country boy in New York. These impersonations were all very amusing and were greatly appreciated by the audience.

The last item on the program was one of the most interesting. By placing bits of various colored cloth on a canvas, Mr. Overing made some very beautiful landscape scenes illustrating several well known poems. The landscapes included a beautiful authentic California scene illustrating the poem "America For Me" and a picture of a house and surroundings illustrating "The House by the Side of the Road". Other scenes were a peaceful fishing village, a beautiful northland scene picturing the snow and ice.

As a whole the program was very interesting and amusing. We wish to thank Mr. Overing for his very good entertainment and we hope we will continue to have as fine programs during the entire year as this first program proved to be.

Also, a ring committee must be appointed by the officers to submit the rings to the class for their approval. At a class meeting held in the assembly Tuesday, Sept. 22, the following Junior officers were elected:

PEP FEST IS HELD FRIDAY

Meeting Held Prior to Evening Grid Battle

At eleven fifteen last Friday the pupils all filed up to the assembly for the first pep-fest of the 1936-37 school term. The meeting was opened by Mr. Claffy who urged that more season football tickets should be sold to students because their price was in the reach for all. Coach Lee, who was then called upon, further pressed the idea put forth by Mr. Claffy, mainly that more enthusiasm should be shown and more tickets sold for the football games. The football players were then introduced to the assembly by Mr. Lee. Captain Milt Nesse made a short speech as to the effect that the football team would do their best and that we should do our best "to wear off some fat" by cheering for the team. A series of yells was then led by Lorraine Amundson, Mary Chommie, Yvonne Anderson and Lorraine Baken. At the conclusion of the pep fest, the students were dismissed, with the team passing out first.

T. R. F. TO MEET CROOKSTON FRIDAY ON PIRATES' FIELD

Traditional Rivals to Play Night Game at Crookston on September 24

Tomorrow evening the Prowlers will play their second game of the season when they meet the Crookston eleven on the latter's field. Last year the locals defeated Crookston 13 to 0 and whether history will repeat itself or not remains to be seen. Whichever the case may be when the Prowlers go out on the gridiron tomorrow night they will face a team playing its first game of the season.

Both the locals and Crookston lost a prospect by the ninth semester rule. This particular rule prohibits a player to take part in any inter-scholastic athletic contest for more than eight semesters. Spence, of Crookston, was ineligible because of this, and Hegland from the local squad. Some of the lettermen back again this year for Crookston will be Barnes, Wheelhouse, Mattson, and Panzer.

However, if the Prowlers can keep up the pace they set in the Red Lake Falls game they should be able to hold their own and probably a [illegible] more. A number of fans will be on hand to support the team.

The second team also has a game coming up. They are scheduled to play Fosston on Saturday afternoon, September 26 on the opponents field. A number of the boys from the second team showed up well in the game last Friday night and the locals should be capable of handling Fosston.

New Lights Installed On Lincoln High Field

A new experience was given to the people of Thief River Falls Friday when the first football game was played under lights. Only once before has any such lighting system been shown in Thief River, this one being at a night baseball game in 1935. Now local fans can boast a system of their very own.

Through the sponsorship of the Junior Civic and Commerce along with 50 dollar donations from Elks, the American Legion, and both Senior and Junior Civic & Commerce Clubs, this project was brought about. All funds over the 200 dollar donations will be paid by the JCC's but will be paid back by the school by paying fifty per cent of football profits each year to the Club until the amount is paid in full.

With lights on the Prowler gridiron, this District boasts three lighted fields the other two being at Crookston and East Grand Forks. The local system is composed of eight poles, four on each side of the field, with two 1500 watt bulbs on each pole. This gives a brilliant illumination of 24 thousand watts.

EUROPE

The United States has less than one-fourth the population of Europe, but it has nearly one and one-half times as many telephones. With only about one-eleventh of the world's population, the United States has more telephones and makes more telephone calls than all the rest of the world combined.

Such great and widespread use of telephone service in the United States is evidence of its great value and its low cost to telephone users.

Monday, Sept. 26, 1935 marked the beginning of new achievements for Lincoln High School. It was on that date, nearly a year ago, that certain people started working to get lights for the Prowler's football games. On that date the Prowlers lost a night football game to East Grand Forks by a score of twenty to seven. Now, on last Friday the Prowlers come back in night football by defeating Red Lake Falls by the decisive score of thirty-three to six. Thief River Falls can now boast as good a lighting system as there is in any of the surrounding towns. Therefore with these lights as an added encouragement and a good, hard fighting team as another, all students as well as the rest of the townspeople should see these games. A good crowd was on hand for the opening game but lets have a much better one there when the Prowlers play host to the Little Green Wave from East Grand Forks a week from tomorrow. Remember, your support for your team helps to win games.

For this fine improvement, the entire student body is deeply indebted to the Junior Civic and Commerce, the Elks, the Senior Civic and Commerce, and the American Legion. Each of these prominent local clubs advanced fifty dollars to the school to finance this project which was completed in record time. The cost of the lights over the original donation has been paid by the Junior Civic and Commerce. This additional cost will be paid back to the sponsor by returning fifty per cent of the football profits for each year until the amount is paid in full.

In closing remember not only students, but all townspeople come out to the games and show your appreciation for this fine project to these enterprizing local clubs.

Back Again

With memories of days gone by, school days started for over five hundred fifty pupils Monday, September 14th. This year should be a successful one for Lincoln High, probably more than any previous one. We are fortunate to have an exceptionally well fitted teaching staff which, together with a good program of assembly entertainment, excellent sport schedules and prospects of good teams, in debate as well as other athletic activities, school will offer many more good times than ever before. And as to be expected, it will also give you a chance to use up a good deal of vitality in hard studying.

RIGG ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR BAND

Fifth and Sixth Graders Urged to Take Lessons

Mr. Riggs, band instructor, and Mr. Bye have been visiting the pupils of the fifth and sixth, seventh and eighth grades in the local schools to persuade the pupils to get instruments for the board. They are doing this because it is best to teach children when they are young to play instruments so that as Senior band members graduate, the vacancies will be filled by new students who have a knowledge of the music and instruments.

On Thursday after school, Mr. Riggs demonstrated to about sixty seventh and eighth graders, the different instruments so they could choose the ones they preferred. He did the same on Friday for the fifth and sixth graders interested in the band.

Regular band practices are held on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday mornings from eight o'clock to eight-forty. At this time there are thirty members, but later in the year when some became accomplished on their instruments, Mr. Riggs hopes to have about fifty or sixty members.

PROWLERS DOWN RED LAKE FALLS FRIDAY EVENING

500 See Prowlers Down Red Lake Falls in First Night Contest

Night football made its debut in Thief River Falls, last Friday evening in a very successful manner as Captain Milt Nesse led the Prowlers to an impressive 33-6 victory over the courageous Red Lake Falls gridders.

Practice makes perfect, they say, and Coach Lee's team showed evidence of diligent practice, plus superb coaching, to a near capacity crowd, eager to witness the first night football game played on the Lincoln high school athletic field.

Milt Nesse gave the spectators a thrill by making a spectacular 76 yard run in the third quarter. He took the ball near his own goal line, and by evading one tackler after another, fought his way almost to the visitor's goal line where he was finally downed.

The game began with Adkins kicking off to Red Lake Falls, who failed to gain ground and were forced to punt. After a series of line bucks and end runs, the Prowlers scored with Milt Nesse carrying the ball. Adkins place kicked for the point after touchdown putting the Prowlers in the lead by a 7 to 0 score. Red Lake Falls found the Prowler forward wall invulnerable and attempted a punt but a Prowler back broke through and blocked the kick. "Bones" Stadum recovered for the Prowlers. Dicken handed the ball to Roger Wessling, who advanced the ball ten yards to their opponents four yard line. Hill drove through the center of the line for another score. The Prowlers then led 13 to 0. The try for extra point failed. Wessling halted an opposing aerial attack by intercepting a pass. After several plays, Nesse again went over giving the Prowlers a comfortable 19 to 0 lead. The try for extra point was too low.

During the second quarter, the Prowler lineup was considerably altered by substitutions. Lowell Nesse's sprint around end was nullified by a long penalty. Red Lake Falls obtained the ball on downs. The Prowlers apparently were caught in a lax moment as Martell went around end almost unmolested for Red Lake Falls first and only score. The Prowler line rushed in with renewed fury and blocked Keifenheim's attempted conversion for point after touchdown.

Early in the third quarter, Milt Nesse intercepted a pass near the opponent's twenty yard marker and blasted over for the fourth touchdown. Adkins added the extra point making the score 27 to 6. After the Prowlers received the kick-off, Milt Nesse made his admirable 76 yard run aided by sturdy interference. Nesse then tossed a short pass to Dicken who scored. M. Nesse plunged through a mass of tacklers for the extra point completing the scoring for the evening. The score being 33 to 6.

The visiting team came back in the last quarter with a "Never Say Die" spirit, desperately filling the air with passes. Several were completed, but the Prowler defense tightened and held their opponents at bay. M. Nesse's rifle-like pass went incomplete as the final gun sounded.

For the Red Lake Falls eleven, Keifenheim, the mighty mite, and Martell were outstanding in the backfield. The Ducharme brothers and Bernard Columbus played exceptionally well in the line.

Milt Nesse, the Prowler triple-threat ace, was easily the star of the game. Stadum, Nelson, Hanson and Adkins were stalwarts in the local's forward wall. The entire Prowler first eleven, however, merited praise for a commendable performance.

At the present time one hundred fifty-seven season student football tickets and one hundred forty-two adult season football tickets have been sold. The football tickets are still the same price and ten cents will be saved by buying a ticket if you plan on attending the remainder of the football games.

GYM GEMS

And all the lil' Gym-Josies just piled in, almost no end. I wasn't there, but I heard, ah yes, I only heard.

No need of morning set-up exercises, fair ones, just wait until swing-time—er—a—gym time.

Furthermore, no need to remind you all that the "Day of Reckoning" can never be put off. Weights and posture grades must be faced—right! To say nothing of elevating the chin, thumping the chest, and toeing the mark for "The 1936 Venus Contest." Don't look now but—do you remember last year? Find her an enumerate! You, Frosh, get her name and then find her.

I heard, too, that the G. A. A. board is not spending a dormant year, but plans to do things. What with the sprightly gang of Frosh, and all. Pray for continued fair weather. A "Bean L. Girl" Hike is coming up—for instance—on a Saturday.

And josies—any pep left over from gym is acceptable in support of a certain Football Team. So let's follow them through.

Yours for Pep, and lots of it! !!

Did you notice the new style in hair dressing among the sophomore girls? Kind of foxy although it seems to be catchy.

Railroad Jim
Says

Passengers in the smoking compartment on my train were arguing about why railroad business is picking up.

A factory owner said it was because of this new Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight. This is door-to-door service with no extra charge added to the freight bill.

A travelling salesman said it was because so many passenger and freight trains now run on faster schedules.

There was a school principal in the group and he said it was because train travel is so much cheaper for passengers. He said passenger fares are at the lowest point in history, with substantial reductions if you buy a round-trip ticket—and no more surcharge for riding in sleeping cars.

One man, a farmer, said he liked something he could depend on, that's why he was traveling by train.

Another man, a newspaper reporter, said people were in favor of railroad travel because it is by far the safest. He quoted a lot of statistics from a book called, "Live and Let Live."

A banker we all know by name said railroad tax payments mean a lot in this state.

F. L. SPEAKERS TALK AT RALLY IN CITY SUNDAY

Large Crowd Assembles in Heinze Grove Near City In Spite of Cold

ERNEST LUNDEEN IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Mrs. LeSueur, Lindsten, Day, Melby and Buckler Also on Program

A large gathering of Pennington county residents assembled in the Heinze grove south of the city Sunday afternoon for a Farmer-Labor rally addressed by candidates for state and national offices, the headliner being Ernest Lundeen, candidate for the United States senate. While the weather was uncomfortably cool for an outdoor rally, most of the crowd remained until the program, over which H. O. Berve presided as chairman, was completed.

Asserting that the battle in this campaign is between the Farmer-Labor party and big business, Mr. Lundeen stated that his objective would be security for all at home and neutrality in all affairs abroad. He said he would support the national administration insofar as its objectives coincide with those of the Farmer-Labor party. Declaring that William Randolph Hearst receives a salary of $500,000 a year and that no man should receive a bigger salary than the president of the United States, he said he favored a law to tax away all above that amount. He also reiterated his support of the Frazier-Lemke bill.

Gottfrid Lindsten, the party's candidate for lieutenant governor, said the interests of the farmers and workers are the same, citing as evidence the cooperation in political affairs between Thief River Falls railroad workers and tributary farmers. He closed with a plea for support of the entire state Farmer-Labor ticket.

Mrs. Marian LeSueur and Mrs. Charles Lundquist of the Farmer-Labor women's cavalcade also pleaded for support of the entire ticket, the former also dealing in her talk with "Seventy-five years of Republican Misrule". Other speakers were Congressman R. T. Buckler of Crookston, Representative J. O. Melby of Oklee and W. E. Day of Bagley, candidate for the state legislature. Bj. Bjornaraa supplied a poem in the Norwegian language.

OSCAR YOUNGDAHL ATTACKS RIVAL IN ADDRESS TUESDAY

Candidate for Attorney General Gives Talk in Auditorium

Vigorously defending the long-established American system of government as against recent innovations in this country and abroad, Oscar F. Youngdahl, Republican candidate for attorney general, addressed an audience in the Auditorium Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Pennington county Associated Republican club. Elmer Berg, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Mr. Youngdahl warned against demagogues and political agitators as a menace to freedom, and cited the mounting federal and state debts as a tremendous handicap to the rising generation, calling attention to the futile expenditure of huge sums of money under the Roosevelt administration.

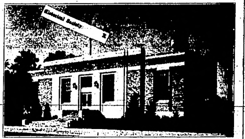
He accused his opponent, Attorney General Harry H. Peterson, of issuing legal opinions on a political basis, and charged him with having approved highway contracts later held illegal by the state supreme court. He also stated that Peterson authorized the sale of highway bonds without competitive bidding and that it was necessary to go to court to stop completion of the deal, with a resulting saving to taxpayers of $740,000.

Other speakers were Oscar R. Knutson, Warren attorney; President Fellman of the Red Lake county Young Republican club; Richard Mabey of the local club; and Lowell Grady, president of the Polk county club. Leroy Rupprecht, garbed in cowboy attire, entertained with a group of songs, accompanying himself on the guitar.

County Board Acts on Delinquent Tax Pleas

The Pennington county board met in special session at the court house Monday to dispose of an accumulation of requests for compromise of long-delinquent taxes before the property reverts to the state. All applications were acted on favorably.

Attractive Postoffice Property as It Looks Today



Above is reproduced a photograph of the Thief River Falls postoffice supplied by Postmaster Andrew Anderson, revealing the marked progress that has been made in beautifying the site since the building was occupied March 15. The fine appearance of the lawn, shrubbery and trees testifies to diligent work and liberal use of water during the past dry season by Ned Hanson, in charge of maintaining the building and grounds. The building, which is adequately serving the needs of the community, was completed early this year, and represents an investment, including the site, of approximately $60,000.

ROOSEVELT MEN VISIT THIS CITY LAST SATURDAY

Gallagher Speaks in Behalf of State and National Dem Tickets

Thomas Gallagher, Minneapolis attorney and Democratic candidate for attorney general, was a visitor in Thief River Falls on Saturday evening in charge of the Roosevelt-Garner caravan, which is touring the State on behalf of President Roosevelt and the Democratic ticket in Minnesota.

Mr. Gallagher was selected by the Democratic national committee of New York through its Chairman to conduct the caravan through Minnesota. The caravan consists of an automobile and trailer equipped with loud speakers, finished in white and chromium plate. The caravan will speak in every town and city in the state before the campaign is over.

"The people of Minnesota" Mr. Gallagher said, "must realize that it is the present administration which has sponsored legislation to bring about the restoration of prices for farm products. In Minnesota the prosperity of the state and of the various business enterprises in the state are directly dependent upon the prosperity of the farmers. If they are prosperous, the business man and merchant are also prosperous. The Democratic party is the party of the Middle West and Minnesota. It has kept the promises made in its 1932 platform to restore agriculture to its proper place. No other political party has ever kept the promises made to Agriculture. If we repudiate this administration, we are faced with the situation whereby it would be declared by the Republican party that it had received a mandate from the people to cease sponsoring legislation which in effect works out economic reforms for the farmers. The Republican party in power would immediately revert to its previous policy of enacting legislation directed toward favoring Eastern industrialists and manufacturers."

Also members of the caravan were Martin O. Brandon of Fergus Falls, Democratic candidate for congress from the Ninth district, Frank Donacek of Minneapolis, director of the Independent Voters League.

East Grand Forks to Meet Prowlers Friday

Lincoln School Overwhelms Crookston by 15 to 0 Score Friday

Scoring its second victory of the season against Crookston Friday evening by a more decisive margin than indicated by the 15-0 score, the Lincoln high school Prowler football team is counted on to register another win Friday evening when it meets the East Grand Forks eleven under floodlights on the Lincoln athletic field. Preparations are being made to accommodate a large crowd of fans.

With the attack in the Crookston game led by Captain Milton Nesse and Hill, the Prowlers piled up thirteen first downs by rushing compared to one for Crookston. Only once, in the final moments of the game, did Crookston threaten to score, and their effort was spoiled when Dicken intercepted a pass on his goal line and ran the distance of the field to score a touchdown.

The Prowlers counted first in the opening of the second half when Bud Nelson captured a fumbled punt behind his goal line and scored a safety for two points. Later the locals began a march from midfield with Nesse and Hill dividing the ball carrying duties, bringing the ball to the four-yard line from where Wessling plunged over the goal line. A kick for the extra point failed, while Adkins place kicked for the extra point after the final spectacular touchdown by Dicken.

A special feature of the game tomorrow evening will be a demonstration between the halves by the Thief River Falls Legion auxiliary drum corps under the direction of Mrs. Jeannette Wright, it was announced.

Safeguard Babies From Diphtheria, Is Warning of State Medical Group

Thanks to modern advances in medical science there are two horrible diseases that no modern babies need to suffer. One of these is the dread diphtheria that so frightened an earlier generation, according to a bulletin issued today by the public health education committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association. The other is smallpox.

Both are so dangerous and so likely to leave disfigurement or invalidism behind them, that any ordinary inconvenience should be counted as a trifling price to pay for protection.

Protection against them by means of immunization for diphtheria and vaccination for smallpox, have been found to be safe and effective in an overwhelming number of cases and physicians in this bulletin urge every parent to see that their babies have these protections.

"Vaccinating and immunizing school children is necessary if it has not been done before" says the bulletin. "For real protection, however, the children should be vaccinated and immunized long before they go to school."

The largest number of diphtheria deaths occurs in children under five years old, the doctors point out. It is the babies and the very young children who are in the greatest danger from nearly all infectious diseases.

Both immunization against diphtheria and vaccination against smallpox should be done during the first year of life.

Baudette.— As Herman Grangruth drove his truck to the Mike Culliton farm at Pitt he saw a big black bear going across the field in a direct line for the six-year-old daughter of the Cullitons. Fearing that the animal was about to attack the child, he speeded up and ran his truck between the bear and Betty Ann. The animal swerved and started across the field with Herman in pursuit in an effort to run it down with his truck. Betty Ann kept right on playing as though nothing had happened.

HOMESTEAD CUT BOOSTS LEVY ON OTHER PROPERTY

Further Exemptions Would Hit Tenants of Rented Property

Exemption of the first $4,000 of assessed value of a homestead from taxation, which has been proposed as a measure for legislative consideration, would increase property taxes of renters and owners of other non-homestead property in Minnesota an average of 18 per cent, the Minnesota Association of Commercial Organizations stated in a report made public here today analysing results that may be expected from the proposal.

Summarizing conclusions from an inquiry into various phases of the plan, F. H. Klemer of Faribault, president of the organization, said that it will reduce valuations so much that many local units of government will find it difficult if not impossible to finance their usual activities.

"Most of us are inclined to feel that if the government will reduce our taxes and increase the other fellow's taxes all our tax problems will be solved," Mr. Klemer said, "Any change that is made usually throws somebody else out of line, however.

"We have found from an examination of the tax records that exempting $4,000 of the value of a homestead from taxation will reduce assessed values of real estate in Minnesota $210,000,000, or 16.5 per cent. This will necessitate an increase of approximately 18 per cent in the taxes of other owners of real and personal property. The taxes paid by renters, owners of rented homes and farms and owners of real and personal property. The taxes paid by renters, owners of rented homes and farms and owners of commercial and all other non-homestead property will be increased by this percentage."

FROG HAS FIVE LEGS

Sauk Center.—A freak in animal anatomy occurred in a frog now on exhibit at Sauk Center. The specimen, the common green frog found at Sauk Lake, has five legs with the fifth an off shoot of the left fore leg. The extra appendage has five toes, in place of the usual four and is used actively by the frog. Both legs seem to be normal in detail and bone structure.

Marshall County Man Charged With Making False Pension Report

Charged with making false returns on his application for Old Age assistance, Jens Bjorkman, Strandquist, was placed under arrest Tuesday and at a preliminary hearing before Justice William Forsberg yesterday, was bound over to the district court with bond placed at $1,000, according to A. A. Trost, county attorney, says the Warren Sheaf.

The charges against Mr. Bjorkman are the first to be made in Marshall county under the Old Age assistance law provisions. Investigators in the office of Paul T. Steen, county old age assistance officer, have uncovered a considerable amount of personal property, alleged to belong to Mr. Bjorkman. There are other cases of similar nature pending.

It is contended by the authorities that Mr. Bjorkman had in his possession about $2,000 worth of personal property which he failed to disclose.

Black River Resident Passes Away Sept. 20; Funeral Held Thursday

Mrs. August Scholin, well-known resident of Black River community, died Sunday, September 20, at a Crookston hospital. She had undergone an operation a short time before, and was apparently convalescing when complications set in which caused her death.

Mrs. Scholin, nee Alvia Erickson, was born in Black River township, June 17, 1893, and was 43 years of age at the time of her death. She grew to womanhood in the community and was united in marriage to August Scholin on January 8, 1911. Her husband and four children, Leroy, Etna, Einar and Arlo survive her death. She is also survived by two brothers, Emil and Melcher Erickson of Black River.

Funeral services were conducted last Thursday by Rev. H. A. Larson, there being a brief service at the Scholin home and at the Black River church. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Mantorville.— Narrowly escaping death, a Milton township farmer, Cedric Benedix, fell a distance of 40 feet from the top of his silo. He was found at the bottom with his legs doubled under him, his head bruised and his back injured.

Preliminary Examinations at Local Postoffice October 17

To date authority to take the examinations has been given forty young men residing in the Ninth District. The tests are being conducted by the U. S. News and Comment

By R. W. Hitchcock

Two omissions in Banker Benson's keynote speak more loudly than all his words.

For six years the real purpose of farmer-labor, underlying all effort, has been twofold: (1) to fatten off of public office, (2) to break down the American system and to substitute for it a soviet autocracy wherein both government and the lives of men shall be dictated by politicians who can seize all power.

Even as Candidate Benson was multiplying words without knowledge in the effort to attain for two years more the first objective, farmer-labor propagandists were unremittingly continuing the effort to confuse their proposal for a political cooperative commonwealth with the great cooperative movement of which Minnesota has been the origin and the center in the United States.

The proposal for the abandonment of the American system and for the substitution of the Russian soviet system, under the name of a cooperative commonwealth, was emphatically rejected by the people of Minnesota in 1934. What they could not get openly in 1934, the farmer-labor leaders now seek to get by indirection.

The total silence of Candidate Benson as to the main purpose of farmer-labor leaders to establish a political cooperative commonwealth is understandable. All is lost, both the fleshpots of the present and the power visioned for the future, if farmer-labor cannot win a new lease of control on November 3rd.

So instead of dealing openly and fairly with the people, Candidate Benson deals deviously with them. He soothes them with soothsayings but carefully conceals from them the deadly purpose behind his persuasive drive for their votes.

The other peculiar omission in Banker Benson's keynote is less understandable.

The keynote opens with a paean of praise to the memory of Floyd B. Olson, "his spirit is here to inspire us . . . his courage to drive us onward . . . his wisdom to guide us." It closes with a fervid appeal to make farmer-labor votes a memorial to the lost leader. Throughout the keynote is a throbbing sympathy for the work, the purposes, the objectives of Floyd B. Olson.

What was the immediate objective of Floyd B. Olson? What was to be his main effort in the campaign he was about to make, a campaign which others must now carry on? Did Candidate Benson grasp from his dying hands the flaming torch of his purpose and carry on?

He did not. He cast down the torch; he stamped out its fire; he refused to carry on.

For a whole hour at the March convention of the farmer-labor party, Governor Olson detailed his plan for an amendment to the federal Constitution to require 7 out of 9 votes in the supreme court to declare an act of congress void. Eloquently the governor argued that only so can the "growing autocracy of the courts" be checked, fervently he declared that he would make this issue the issue upon which he would campaign for election to the United States senate.

Shortly thereafter Senator Benson, Governor Olson being then still living, introduced in the senate a bill to amend the constitution as the governor proposed. Now that the great governor is dead, however, his puppet turns his back upon the crusade of his master. Despite his throbbing zeal for the cause of the lost leader, he has, in his appeal for election to be chief executive of Minnesota, not one word for the purpose that was nearest and dearest to that leader's heart.

Riddle this to the people of Minnesota, if you can, Mr. Candidate Benson. Notwithstanding all your schooling in sophistry, you will find it somewhat difficult.

The complete omission by Candidate Benson in his keynote address of these two matters which have repeatedly been declared by farmer-labor leaders to be basic and fundamental as a matter of party policy is more significant than is the entire body of the address as made.

Striking evidence that communism has pretty well taken over the farmer-labor party in this campaign is given in the selection by the farmer-labor high command of Ernest Lundeen as the farmer-labor candidate for United States senator. Few men in the public eye are so thoroughly communistic in thought and action as Lundeen.

Would Russianize America—Ernest Lundeen was a member of a group calling themselves "The First American Rank and File Labor Delegation" which went to Russia to study Soviet conditions in 1929.

When the delegation returned, it issued a statement, which Lundeen signed. This statement concluded with the declaration that the Russian Soviet Union is destined "to become an irresistable example to the workers the world over."

The conclusion which the report of the delegation seeks to enforce is that America should follow in the footsteps of Russia and become a communist nation.

Tovarishi—Addressing a meeting of "Friends of the Soviet Union" in New York on February 25th, this year, Mr. Lundeen hailed the assemblage as "tovarishi", the communist salutation to "comrades."

Red Activity in Congress—Outside of voting on various roll calls, Mr. Lundeen's activities in congress appear to have been confined pretty much to the collection and publication of radical information and data. Both the collection and the publication of this data is done at the expense of the taxpayers. Mr. Lundeen is paid $10,000 per year and supplied with clerks at a cost of $5,000 per year in the collection of this material. Publication is through the medium of the Congressional Record.

Mr. Lundeen's methods are common, perhaps, in congress but are unique to the hinterland. At the end of the day, as the house is about to adjourn, with confusion prevailing and only a handful of members present, Congressman Lundeen will ask permission "to proceed for one minute." He will say a few words, which probably nobody hears, and will then ask permission to extend his remarks in the Record. A few days later his speech will appear in the Record, covering several pages.

In the 1936 session of congress, although Congressman Lundeen made no speeches, one of his speeches took up 30½ pages, another one 17½ pages, and all of them, each packed full of radical data, a total of 122½ pages. The cost of publication to the taxpayers, at $50 per page, amounted to $6,125.

Riding Two Horses—Before he was considered as a senatorial candidate, Lundeen made a speech generally regarded as an endorsement of Lemke for the presidency. After his nomination for the senate, Lundeen denied that he is committed to Lemke. He has not committed himself to Roosevelt. He is evidently trying to ride both horses.

Lundeen for Inflation—Lundeen supported and opposed New Deal legislation in the last congress in about equal measure. He voted for the Tennessee Valley act, national industrial recovery act, gold clause invalidation, securities exchange bill, holding company death sentence, New Deal income tax measure, cooperate tax bill and Guffey-Snyder bill. He voted against the economy act, the AAA, reciprocal trade, social security, banking bill, skeletonized recovery act, ship subsidy and soil conservation.

He has voted against most of the New Deal farm legislation. He has voted again and again for inflation.

TRANSIENT STEALS MONEY FROM CHURCH, GETS TERM

New Ulm—Not the extent but the nature of his crime was what sent Ralph Morgan, a transient, to a state penal institution for an indeterminate sentence. Morgan was arrested by Comfrey police on the charge of breaking into and stealing pennies from two oil stations in that village and brought to New Ulm for trial. Although he admitted the theft of nickles and dimes from a collection box in the Comfrey Catholic church, he persistently refused to admit breaking into the stations.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. E. Washing

More on Souvenir Booklet

We present here facts about the first school and other bits of school history as related in the souvenir booklet we have quoted. We do not make any claims for it as to accuracy where the statements conflict with other material on the school, but we accord them the courtesy of consideration as facts until proven wrong.

"The first school (in Thief River Falls) was taught by Miss Box in 1882, according to rumor, but the first school of which there is authentic record was in 1883, taught by Miss Ella Wallin. Other early teachers were Misses Bird, Page, Whaley, Ralph, Hancock, Link and Howes and Messrs. Vance and Morgan. But the one who left her impress upon the hundreds of pupils was Miss Wallin, who after a brief illness resumed the work of teaching until compelled by defective hearing to resign.

"The year 1884 was marked by the erection of the first school building, an unpretentious, one-roomed affair, but equipped with factory furniture. The year was marked by the arrival of Frank H. Kratka and by the erection of a most imposing three-story structure which, after some unusual vicissitudes of fortunes and much patient waiting, became in 1892 the Great Northern hotel. The first host was R. R. Pratt to whom belongs the honor of its erection.

"Mr. Kratka has always been one of the most ardent and earnest workers in the interests of Thief River Falls, never letting an opportunity pass to say or do a good thing for this city. He has held the office of president of the village and mayor of the city a number of times, has represented the city in many ways on important matters and no doubt has worked as hard, if not harder, than any other man in the state for the opening of the reservation. He is now postmaster of the city (1908).

"Two flouring mills came with the year 1888 and among the large number who came as settlers in that year an honored place must be given to Mr. Phillip Zeh and his wife who enjoy the distinction of having erected the first brick house in town. The year 1888 was further memorable for the building of the dam across the Red Lake river, an undertaking that redounds to the credit of the late Carl Kretzschmar and contributed in no small degree to the success of the town. A flour mill and a saw mill were built, a natural result of the erection of the dam. A flouring mill run by steam was erected by J. W. Howes. A steamboat built and owned by J. W. Howes and Christ Linde and named 'The Monitor' soon began to plow the waters of the Red Lake and Thief rivers.

"1904 saw the removal of the Indians to their diminished reservation and their departure was deeply regretted by the white population, as the intercourse between the two races had been peaceful and pleasant.

"In 1890 section 33 was included in the organization of the village and the first council meeting was held in May of that year, Carl Kretzschmar being elected president and Wm. G. Porter secretary.

"Before Thief River Falls was incorporated as a city the following men acted as village presidents: Carl Kretzschmar, 1890; F. H. Kratka, 1891; J. H. Sanders, 1892; F. H. Kratka, 1893; Jim Meehan, Jr., 1894; Carl Kretzschmar, 1895; Jim Meehan, Jr., 1896.

"A saw mill was begun by Patrick and James Meehan in 1891 which was in full operation in the following year. Nor was this all, for 1892 saw the river spanned by a noble steel bridge, the opening of the G. N. hotel, the arrival of the first railroad train, the opening of the first steamboat line between Thief River Falls and the agency and, last but not least, the building of the first church, the Methodist Episcopal. Freight rates prior to the opening of the railroad were $1.50 per hundredweight from St. Hilaire, a distance of only eight miles. Falk and Langseth had the largest general merchandise store. Evenson Bros. and Rasmus Oen dealt in hardware. These were supplemented in 1893 by O. P. Johnson, general merchandise and P. D. Berg, household furniture.

"The trade individualism of the day resulted in a war of contending interests in 1894, to remedy which the Business Men's Union was organized. A more serious controversy, however, arose about the same time over the proposition of Ray W. Jones to build a saw mill. The enterprise was at length abandoned after engendering widespread bitterness. The Meehan brothers continued business until 1900, when their property was sold to D. C. Winton and others, which firm, under the name of "The Thief River Falls Lumber Co." still runs the mill and contributes to the prosperity of the city."

While much of this material has been published, it will be noted that every paragraph contains new data, important facts missing from previous accounts. As many persons clip these articles, we believe it is better to make the facts available by quoting them than by paraphrasing. We plan to present other data from the souvenir album.

FAIRMONT MAN IN ALASKA FOR 38 YEARS, LIKES IT

Fairmont.— Thirty-eight years ago Fred Wolter of Fairmont joined a party of 26 Martin county men in the rush to the Klondike for gold. Of the sixteen who got into the gold country, he was the only one who remained. Mr. Walther, now living at Bethel on the Alaskan coast, has returned with his family to spend the winter. He says that Alaska is the only country to live in. "We never heard of hard times, never had a panic. All we need from the outside is a little coffee and sugar. All around us we have fish, moose, caribou, ducks, and all kinds of birds. That's all we need. It seldom gets colder than here, the there isn't much snow at Bethel. Sometimes there is two feet of snow on the ground, but winter rains appear periodically. In summer it hardly grows dark at all, while in winter the shortest days are about six hours."

GOVERNOR LANDON DEALS WITH FARM STATUS THURSDAY

Candidate for Presidency Addresses Big Throng in Minneapolis

Gov. Alf M. Landon pledged "protection of the American market for the American farmer" Thursday night in Minneapolis after telling a cheering Minnesota throng that New Deal reciprocal trade agreements have "sold the American farmer down the river."

"We have got to stop destroying the market of our farmers", the presidential nominee said, adding:

"The way to trade is to trade and let me tell you this—we Republicans are going to trade, not against, but in the interest of, American producers. In too many of the present agreements we are the fellow who got the blind horse."

The Kansan spoke to a crowd that overflowed the 10,000 seating capacity of the block-long city auditorium. More than 15 minutes before his appearance, police were forced to close the doors as the throng jammed horse-shoe galleries up to the rafters.

A five-minute standing ovation greeted his appearance on a broad stage decorated with sunflowers and red, white and blue draperies. Yellow squares of papers marked "Landon" fluttered down on the crowd.

Interrupted frequently by applause, Landon said he was opposed "to a policy of isolation," explaining:

"A healthy international trade is essential to world prosperity, and even more than this, world prosperity is good insuance against war." The candidate emphasized he was "not opposed to reciprocal trade agreements" but criticized the kind being made by the New Deal "because they are injurious to American citizens and offensive to American principles."

National Convention of American Legion Picks Kansas Man as Its Chief

The American Legion's fast-graying war veterans departed homeward Friday following the close of the national convention in Cleveland, Ohio, leaving their newly-elected national commander, Harry W. Colmery of Topeka, Kan., to promote their aims and ideals until the line forms next year on New York's Fifth Avenue.

A homogeneous mass for the Legion's eighteenth annual convention, but representing a wide diversity of political, economic and religious belief in private life, they heard Colmery conclude their convention yesterday with a declaration that the Legion should keep within the confines of its own program.

Said the stern-faced Kansas lawyer: "Our danger lies in our own apathy, coupled with the fact that we have a tendecy now and then to stick our nose into other people's business instead of keeping within the confines of the Legion program."

BIG SLASH MADE IN TAX LEVY ON ILLINOIS FARMS

Abolition of State Tax Levy Reduces Taxes $61 Per Farm

Emphasizing the advantage of eliminating the state property tax, officials of the Minnesota Federation for Tax Reform in a communication received here today pointed out that the average farmer in Illinois is escaping $61 in property taxes this year as a result of abolition of the state tax levy in that state.

Farm properties in Illinois would have to shoulder a state tax of something like $13,200,000 for expenditures of the state of Illinois this year if that state had not eliminated the tax on property and adopted a new plan for raising state revenue, the federation reported. That makes $61 for the average farmer.

The people of Minnesota are to vote on a proposed amendment to the state constitution, known as Amendment No. 2, at the general election on Nomevber 3 which will eliminate the state tax on property in Minnesota except for the one-mill road tax and possibly a small levy for debt incurred prior to January 1, 1937.

Adoption of the amendment will cut approximately $3,400,000 off of the taxes levied on the property of Minnesota farmers on the bases of the current levy, Constant Larson of Alexandria, president of the Minnesota Federation for Tax Reform, said in urging all farmers to get behind the amendment. This would mean a reduction of 18 per cent in property taxes in the average farm community, he said, and as much as 25 or 30 per cent in many communities. Property owners in cities and villages likewise would get a substantial cut.

Fall is the season when even the straw hats turn yellow.

CARELESS HIKERS COURT DEATH, SAYS HIGHWAY PATROL

Keep on Left Side of Road, Wear White at Night, Is Advice

Recent accidents on rural highways, especially in the evening hours and at night, emphasize anew the necessity for pedestrians walking on the left side of the road and wearing or carrying some white article of clothing, according to a statement by John P. Arnoldy, chief of the state highway patrol.

"Half of those killed and injured by automobiles are pedestrians", Chief Arnoldy said. "On our state highways pedestrians who walk on the road after dark are courting death, especially if they walk on the right hand side and wear dark clothing.

"Pedestrians should always walk on the shoulder of the highway instead of on the roadway itself. They should walk on the left side so they face approaching traffic and have a chance to get out of the way if a driver fails to see them. At night they should wear something white which will show up in front of headlights and make them visible to the motorists. A white coat, white pants or dress, or even a white handkerchief carried in the hand will help."

Farm and Implement News

It is not too early to prepare your car and truck for cold weather, especially to check the radiator and cooling system. Now is the time to add Prestone because even in warm weather it is better than plain water. It prevents rust and if a cold frosty night there is no danger of freezing damage to your car.

Then, too, a good heater in the car is a great satisfaction and comfort most any day or night this time of year and we are well prepared to give you this service.

TRACTOR INVESTMENT

Any farmer buys a tractor as an investment and every farmer that plans his tractor farming investment will make a success and there is still time this fall to make a profitable tractor investment by putting that tractor to work preparing fields for 1937 crops. There is other planning on tractor investments, which is mainly the kind of tractor you buy, a make of proven quality and with present and future service back of it, to which we claim there is none a better choice than a McCormick-Deering, any size for any size farm and every kind of farming.

CULTIVATION

Again we stress the importance of cultivation, just that kind of cultivating that a new No. 6 McCormick-Deering field cultivator will do. This is really a new machine that is so far ahead of anything ever manufactured before, we want every farmer to get acquainted with the New No. 6, and a free demonstration is yours for the asking and if it will not prove entirely satisfactory and more than you expect, it will cost you nothing for the demonstration. We have sold a great number of these machines and without exception, they claim outstanding satisfaction.

WIRE FENCING

We still have a small stock of our wire fencing and barb wire on hand at a close-out price:

CARS AND TRUCKS

It will only be a short time now and we will have the New LaFayette and Nash cars in stock. We have some new models of International Trucks, ½ ton and ¾ ton, very outstanding farm truck values.

We are going to cut the prices down to a rock bottom on all of our used trucks and cars in stock to close out and make room for new stock and winter storage, so we do invite you to look over our low priced cars and trucks.

CORRECT THE CAUSE

Even without opposition it is difficult to induce a majority of the voters of the state to approve a constitutional amendment. With organized opposition it is practically impossible. There is little likelihood, therefore, that the proposed amendment No. 2, which would exempt property from state taxes, will be adopted in the coming election. And if it fails to pass we will not feel badly.

Not that the idea behind the amendment is without merit. There is much to recommend it. Property taxes have approached the point of confiscation. Local units of government, under pressure from local taxpayers, have reduced expenditures and cut taxes. These local reductions, however, have been offset by state increases. The state levy for next year will exceed twenty mills. There is a real need for a curb on state expenditures.

But the state's financial problem is sufficiently difficult at the present time without removing entirely from its clutches real and personal property as a source of tax revenue. It is a problem made more difficult by the fact that it has become involved in a partisan controversy. Facts are being distorted to serve partisan ends. For instance most of the attack that is being made on Amendment No. 2 is based on downright falsehood. Which isn't important as far as amendment No. 2 is concerned, but decidedly important insofar as it is desirable that the people of Minnesota have a true picture of the entire tax problem.

New taxes will have to be adopted by the state of Minnesota to relieve the burden on property. The new taxes, whatever form they may take, will not be popular. And whatever form they may take, directly or indirectly they will greatly increase the number of taxpayers. Which in turn will increase the number of tax complainers. Which will increase the pressure on the politicians for economy and efficiency. Over a period of time the problem will be solved. But the solution, and economy and efficiency, will not come until the people of the state recognize the causes of the difficulty and apply the same pressure on state tax spenders that they have already applied on those who spend local tax money.

WE WILL DISCOVER OUR LOSS

With prices of farm products higher than they have been for several years it is rather difficult to convince the American farmer that the government's reciprocal trade treaties are detrimental to agriculture. Prices are advancing. And with advancing prices he is satisfied. The reason for the price advances does not concern him. And from this standpoint several years of drouth have given the Democrats an advantage politically in the farming communities.

A somewhat similar condition developed during the Wilson administration. Just as the bad effects of a low tariff were making themselves felt, the war in Europe sent prices up. In other words it is so long ago since our country experienced low tariffs under normal conditions that we no longer appreciate the value of tariff protection from the competition of countries operating on a lower standard of living.

Price depressing surpluses are, for the time being, exhausted. World commodity prices are therefore higher. Give this country a normal crop, however, and importations on the present scale would be ruinous. Continuation of the present tariff lowering policies and a return to normal crop conditions would impress upon us quite effectively that we had been robbed of some valuable concessions.

A CHANGE MAY BE IN ORDER.

Oscar F. Youngdahl, Republican candidate for Attorney General, made a favorable impression on those who heard him at the Auditorium Tuesday evening. As legal advisor of the state government, the Attorney General occupies an important office. That it is an office of great responsibility is evidenced by the many legal snags the present administration has encountered during five and a half years of government. The almost perfect zero score of the present administration before the Supreme Court indicates that one of its chief weaknesses was poor legal advice. Paving contractors were forced to return a third of a million dollars to the state because the Supreme Court ruled the administration could not limit bidders on state contracts. In another case the Court ruled the state could not sell its bonds without advertising for bids. Such violations of generally recognized good practices certainly would not have been attempted if the state had had a competent legal advisor. So, considering the record, it would seem that in this particular office the interests of the state will not suffer if the voters decide a change is desirable.

F. H. Shoemaker ran true to form in his appearance here Tuesday evening. His speech was a typical outburst of vituperation, directed chiefly at Republicans but including also Senator Shipstead and a few Democrats. Local police came in for a tongue lashing too and there certainly would have been no miscarriage of justice had they escorted him to the city limits, the south city limits, and deposited him where other garbage is disposed of. The argument started when police requested members of the audience to keep off the freshly planted post office lawn. Shoemaker insisted they had a right to stand there, it being their post office. Perhaps it is just as well the police yielded and let mob rule prevail for the time being. A damaged lawn is more easily repaired than broken heads and a demonstration of force, justifiable though it would be, might have done more harm than good.

LANDON AND KANSAS SCHOOLS

To those who wonder if there might be some truth in what they say about Governor Landon and the Kansas schools, William Allen White, a distinguished citizen of that state, has issued a statement covering the situation from the point of view of a Kansan. As Governor of Kansas, Landon has nothing to do, either directly or indirectly, with the fixing of salaries of school teachers. Salaries are determined by local school boards. As governor he backed what was known as the Rees co-operative school law, recommended by the state teachers' association, and which made it possible for two or more districts to co-operate with each other in maintaining schools. Rural districts took advantage of this law in order to provide better educational facilities at less expense. Naturally as schools consolidated some schools were closed. But no child was denied the opportunities of education as the Democratic propaganda machine would have us believe. According to Mr. White, Landon has been and still is being supported officially by the State Teachers' Association.

Another contribution to the welfare of the schools of Kansas that Mr. White credits to Landon is what is known as the Landon cash basis law, of which Mr. White says:

> The best piece of state school legislation in recent years is the Landon cash basis law. It requires boards of education to stop issuing time warrants.
>
> Before that law was passed many, a considerable number, sometimes a majority, of the Kansas boards of education were issuing time warrants to meet pay rolls.
>
> The school board in a prosperous western Kansas city which was booming ten years ago, issued cash warrants only about four months in the year. When taxes were distributed after the June period, these warrants would be taken up and cash warrants issued during July, August and September. Then the schools would go back to time warrant basis. When the taxes were distributed in January after the December tax period, the warrants again would be taken up and cash warrants issued for a month or two, when the schools would again be on the time warrant basis.
>
> These time warrants drew 6 per cent interest. The bankers liked them. But the cash basis law has destroyed that soft snap for the bankers. And now, when a taxpayer pays a dollar in Kansas school taxes, it all goes for schools. Whereas, before Landon's cash basis law came at least 4 per cent of every tax dollar went to pay interest on time warrants.
>
> Take another second class city in Kansas. It has a school budget of $200,000 and it had at one time outstanding time warrants amounting to $250,000, drawing 6 per cent interest. When the cash basis law came along, the board had to stop issuing the time warrants. They increased the levy but every dollar from the taxpayer's pocket went for schools and not to the bankers.
>
> Kansas school men had been protesting for years about the evils of this time warrant system in school finance. When the school code commission drew its report in 1927, the cash basis law was a major demand. No one paid heed to that demand until Landon came to the statehouse.
>
> Moreover, the Landon provisions, which put teeth in the Kansas budget law, required a definite educational budget submitted to the people before the taxes were levied by school boards. Under the budget law, high-pressured salesmen can't come along after the budget is adopted and out-talk school boards and principals to buy frills and gadgets. The board must stay inside of its budget, again demonstrating the fact that Kansas school taxes go for Kansas schools.
>
> Certainly Kansas gives no state aid for common schools. That has been a Kansas policy since Kansas came into statehood in 1861. Governors have tried time and again to get state aid. All Landon could get to help the common schools was the cash basis law and the budget law with teeth.
>
> But even though we do not give state aid to schools and even though we are the forty-eighth state in state school aid, nevertheless in Kansas, a rural state, the statistics show that more farmer boys and girls are attending high school than in any other American state.
> Moreover, census bureau figures show that Kansas has more college graduates in proportion to her population than any other American state. If anything seriously was wrong with the Kansas schools, these two distinctions would not come to Kansas. You can't have the highest percentage of boys and girls in high school and the highest percentage of college graduates in a population composed of 85 per cent of Americans with American-born parents unless you have good schools for everybody.

Even in our most prosperous days many of our people did not live well enough. How can it be said that we have over-production, when so many Americans are badly fed, badly clothed and badly housed? How dare we talk about over-production when the evil effects of these conditions run beyond the tragedy of stunted lives and challenge the welfare and the honor of the nation? We want every boy and girl to have a better chance in life than we had. We want a government in Washington that will safeguard for the younger generation the opportunity to develop, each in his own way, the American qualities of self-reliance, of honesty and of generosity. We must remember that academic freedom, political freedom, religious freedom, and freedom of opportunity are all bound together. Infringement upon one will soon lead to infringement upon the others. In fighting to maintain our freedom, we will make the greatest progress by fighting for the freedom of all.—Governor Landon.

FALSE TEETH GO OUT WITH ICE CREAM CONE

Litchfield—A Litchfield resident met with a peculiar and somewhat costly accident while returning home recently. He was eating an ice cream cone while driving early in the evening and a car approached him weaving back and forth across the road. The oncoming car suddenly took a dive toward the Litchfield driver, who was forced to use both hands to avoid going into the ditch. In making the turn he threw his cone of ice cream and his upper set of false teeth went with it. Although he soon retraced his route he was not able to locate the missing $50.00 worth of dentistry.

Capital News Review

By A. I. Harris

For the first time in its history, the Minnesota Federation of Labor at its state convention at Cloquet last week endorsed candidates for public office. The full state ticket of the Farmer-Labor Party was endorsed by name, the only party which received endorsement for state office. Endorsement also was given to President Roosevelt.

This was labor's answer to the preposterous claims of Martin A. Nelson and other Republican spokesmen that this party of reaction was the friend of labor. It was labor's answer to its foes who profess to believe in the rights of collective bargaining but who constitute the only political party in America today which represents a barrier to labor attaining the right of collective bargaining.

Our esteemed contemporary, Mr. R. W. Hitchcock, Republican propagandist, has been making some rather preposterous and fantastic claims of friendship displayed by the Republican Party to labor. He has cited 14 labor bills introduced in the 1933 session which he says were passed by the Republican-controlled Senate and "killed" by the liberal-controlled House.

The burden of his argument is that the Republican Senate was far more generous in passing labor legislation than was the House, under more or less liberal control through a union of Farmer-Laborites and Democrats. Hence, he says, the Republicans and not the Farmer-Laborites are the friends of labor.

Naturally, our curiosity was aroused and we looked into this situation. What did we find?

In not a single instance was one of the labor bills introduced in either the Senate or the House by a Republican. In the Senate the bills met the opposition of all the Republican leaders.

Let us take one of the bills, Senate file No. 742 and House file No. 818. This bill provided for paying the highest rate of wages on public works. It was passed in the Senate by a vote of 38 to 27, the liberals in that body winning the support of the more moderate Republicans. Among those who voted against the bill were the following Republican leaders: Rockne, Lightner, Bonniwell, Sullivan, Weber and others.

In the House this same bill passed by a vote of 90 to 10 with Roy Dunn, Republican House leader and now national Republican committeeman voting against it.

The same story is repeated in all the other 13 bills. The vote was virtually the same as on this one.

Mr. Hitchcock says that the House killed the bills which the Senate voted. What happened was that the Senate bills and the House bills differed slightly in phraseology and wording and hence the Senate bills were substituted for the House bills. Therefore, Mr. Hitchcock's fictitious contentions that the House "killed" these bills.

This is the kind of stuff they are using to fool the voters? Incidentally, it presents a type of specious argument which a scribe of Mr. Hitchcock's standing should not resort to. It does his profession no good.

In some counties the local administrative bodies for old age assistance have been in doubt as to just how medical and hospital assistance might be provided for, if needed, in the monthly budget of a recipient.

In other instances it has been assumed that no local relief provisions could be made for such medical care or services to an old age assistance recipient who was not receiving the maximum grant of $30.00 per month.

The state Attorney-General's office has given a recent opinion upon these points which will clear the matter up for the old age assistance county agencies and the local relief authorities.

The Attorney-General holds that an old age assistance grant may properly include items for medical, dental, surgical or hospital assistance or nursing. It is also held that local relief agencies may grant such care, where needed, to any old age assistance recipient, regardless of the amount he or she may be receiving monthly from this source.

Trucks Must Carry 3 Flares, Patrol Warns

Officers of the state highway patrol have ordered a general tightening up of enforcement of flare laws affecting motor trucks, according to a highway department bulletin. Trucks and buses using trunk highways are required to carry as standard equipment three flares and three red flags, according to John P. Arnoldy, chief of the highway patrol. The only exception to this rule is that trucks carrying gasoline or other inflammable material need have only two flares. Either electric or oil burning flares of approved type may be used. The flares must be set out if a truck is left standing on a trunk highway after dark, while the flags are for daytime warnings.

DOG SAVES HIS MASTER'S LIFE

Jordan—"Peggy", the dog belonging to Henry Stecher of Jordan, saved her master's life when Mr. Stecher was struck by a bull and thrown six feet in the air and against the side of the barn, suffering painful bruises. "Peggy" went after the bull, diverted its attention from her injured master, thereby preventing the enraged animal from trampling the man.

STEINER

A few friends and relatives gathered at the I. Russell home Sunday afternoon and tendered Mrs. K. Russell and little daughter Betty with a double birthday party. The guests of honor received some nice gifts, and also were presented with a purse of money. A delicious lunch was served late in the afternoon. Everybody had a very enjoyable time.

Steiner school started last week with the enrollment of two new pupils. They are Norma Jean and Robert Virgeth of Kansas, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgeth moved here recently and are at present living at the A. Koglin home. —The Steiner community will hold their meeting Friday evening at Steiner hall.

Dinner guests at the R. Ruprecht home Monday were Mr. and Mrs. D. McFerran and little daughter Mureen, and Nick Sopiwnik of Hallock. —George Sook and Ernest Zingleman arrived from North Dakota last week, with a car load of horses. They are stopping a few days at the D. Dowacter home. —Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnson of Duluth are visiting a few days with friends and relatives around Steiner. Mrs. Johnson is S. Waring's daughter. —The Y. P. aid which was held at the Skomedahl home Sunday was well attended.

Redwood Falls.—Two meat markets at Redwood Falls felt the depredations of a petty check forger last week. Purchasing a dollars worth of goods at Schmid market, a short, medium complexioned middle-aged stranger paid with a $3.00 check on the Wabasso bank. When the check bounced a protest was mailed to "Charlie Smith", the signature the man had written. In answer, a frightened young chap hurried into town to assure inquirers that though his name was Charlie Smith and his residence Wabasso, he was not the forger, and Mr. Schmid agreed that he was not. A few days later a man of the same description as the first "Charlie Smith" pulled his same stunt at another market, except that he spelled the name "Charley" and made the check on the Redwood Falls bank.

School Notes Sept. 26, 1936

A special meeting of the senior class was called Friday afternoon. Roy Hayden's resignation as class president was accepted. He held this office last year.—The motion was made that the vice president, June Norby, be promoted to the office. The motion was carried by a unanimous vote.—Julia Mack was elected to fill the vice president's office.—Kenneth Bruggeman who last Friday returned from the hospital has had many visits from his school mates who wish to have him return to school as soon as possible.—Saturday Mr. Jaspers and Stanley Karlstad cleaned out the dressing room and sorted equipment in anticipation of the opening of the fall basket ball practice.

The camera craft club has completed a practice project. This consisted of the technique of picture arrangement and mounting according to accepted rules in common practice. Two pictures were also taken of groups in the club. Data on light conditions, background, time, and kind of film and camera were recorded to facilitate constructive criticism of the exposure after the film has been developed. — The Plummer Parent-Teachers' Association met in regular session September 24th at the school house. The association in its business session approved the minutes and the financial statement of last year. The election of officers took comparatively little time. Mrs. Jack Pahlen was elected president for the coming year by a majority of one vote. The vice president, Mrs. James Gilbertson, the secretary, Julius Adrian, and the treasurer, Mr. Kenneth Grimsrud were "railroaded" into office by instructing the secretary to cast a unanimous ballot.

The entertainment part of the program followed. The first number consisted of a group of songs by the fifth and sixth grades under the direction of Mr. Jaspers. Mr. Jaspers is very ably continuing the music work begun by Miss Koed. The songs were very well received. — Helen Gilbert, who toured the eastern part of the United States this summer, gave a most interesting talk on the national capital. She spoke informally from notes and interspersed her talk with personal comments. Helen is to be complimented and congratulated on her ability to appear before a group and do so well.—The other talk of the evening was given by Miss Burke. She spoke on Alaska. Roy Hayden played two violin solos. Roy has been studying the violin at the MacPhail Conservatory of Music and has improved greatly in the last year. It is a pleasure to hear him. Any community which has young people with talent who are as willing to help and who are as dependable as Roy, is fortunate.—Carol Hovland made a "hit" as the lazy farmer who didn't want 'lectricity, rural electrification or no rural electrification.' Carol should have a small repertoire of selections so that she is in a position to respond to encores demanded by her audience.—Lunch was served in the school lunch room by the teachers after the program. This lunch consisted of light and dark sandwiches, cookies, jello, pickles and coffee. The Plummer P. T. A. meets every fourth Thursday of the month. All are cordially invited to its meetings.

Mrs. Pahlen, Mrs. Ripple, Mr. Ohnstad, and Mr. Adrian as delegates of the Plummer P. T. A. attended the evening session of the district meeting of the Minn. P. T. A. at St. Hilaire on Friday evening.—Plans are under way for a bigger and better school carnival. This undoubtedly will be held on the 30th of October. Watch for it.

NORDEN

Mr. and Mrs. William Gilbertson and daughter and Mrs. Bert Dyrdal spent Saturday and Sunday at Audubon, where they visited with friends.—Miss Alma Rust spent a few days at the Rev. E. L. Tungseth home in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Sorenson, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sorenson and Wendel and Sam Sorenson were visitors at the Henry Sorenson home at St. Hilaire Sunday.

Edward Johnson spent Sunday at the University Hospital in Minneapolis with his son Lyal who is receiving medical attention there.

The 4-H Club will meet Friday evening at the Gopher Mound school house at 8 o'clock, Oct. 2. Those entertaining are: Thelma Skaar, Wanda Hanson and Eleanor Hanson. There will also be a mystery box. Come and get your number and be the winner. Everybody welcome.

Naming Tulane University

Tulane university, in New Orleans, is named for Paul Tulane, a merchant and philanthropist, who donated New Orleans property and over a million dollars for purposes of education.

SMILEY

A very successful club meeting was held by the Smiley Club members at their regular monthly meeting Friday evening. The Junior Civic and Commerce association of Thief River Falls were out to present an entire program which consisted of numerous selections by the little German band; songs by the Land O'Lakes quartet; community singing, led by Harold Harrison; a talk by Chester Myrom president of the association; a clear chalk talk by Clarence Vevea; piano selections by Harold Harrison. F. H. SHOEMAKER SUPPORTS FARMER-LABOR ASPIRANTS

Former Congressman Makes Street Address in City Tuesday

Speaking in his usual unrestrained fashion, former Congressman F. H. Shoemaker, picturesque figure in state politics, Tuesday evening addressed an audience from a sound truck at the postoffice corner, advocating support of the entire Farmer-Labor state ticket in the November election.

Opposing the election to the presidency of Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate for the office, Shoemaker charged the Kansas governor with having stolen the privilege of getting an education from the youth of his state. He also took occasion to criticize Senator Henrik Shipstead, accusing him of responsibility for derogatory stories about the late Governor Olson published in the Chicago Tribune.

He argued against the adoption of Amendment No. 2 to eliminate the state levy on real property. The speaker was evidently confused as to the authorship of the amendment, ascribing it to Oscar Youngdahl, Republican candidate for attorney general, whereas it was written by State Representative W. H. Youngquist.

LOCAL GRIDDERS BEAT CROOKSTON FRIDAY, 15 - 0

Hard Fought Battle Ends in Victory for Invaders

Last Friday evening the Prowlers gained their second victory of the season when they defeated the Crookston eleven 15 to 0. Crookston kicked off to the locals and Bud Nelson received on his own thirty yard line carrying it up to the forty-five. On three off-side penalties the ball was advanced to Crookston's forty-five. Then with the aid of plungers, passes, and penalties the Prowlers gained a first down on the opponents' ten yard stripe. But here they failed to go farther and lost the ball on downs. Crookston punted and the pigskin was run back to the twenty-five yard line, then after advancing ten yards they again lost their possession of the ball on downs. Crookston punted for the second time but once more the ball came to rest twenty-five yards from the goal. This time the Prowlers lost the ball on a fumble and the first quarter was over with no score for either team although the locals were within the opponent's fifteen yard line three times.

The second period opened with Crookston punting out of danger to the middle of the field. The Prowlers tried a pass but it was intercepted. After failing to gain in three attempts, Crookston again punted. The locals took possession of the ball on their own twenty-five. They carried the ball deep into foreign territory and then lost the ball on downs as the first half ended, with still no score. During the first half Crookston gained seven yards and lost ten by scrimmage while the Prowlers gained one hundred nineteen and lost twenty.

Crookston chose to kick off the locals taking the kick on their own thirty. After engaging in a punting duel Crookston kicked over the goal giving the Prowlers the ball on their own twenty. Nesse ran twenty yards around end as the third quarter closed with the score still 0 to 0. With the ball resting on the thirty-five yard line Nesse had to punt. The ball went over Crookston's goal and Bud Nelson tackled him before he had a chance to run making a safety. The score now stood at 2 to 0 with the locals out in front. Crookston kicked off from their twenty. —The Prowlers took it on the fifty and started a march down the field which Crookston could not stop. With the ball on the three yard stripe Roger Wessling crashed through for the first touchdown of the game. The extra point failed and the score was 8 to 0. The Prowlers kicked off to the twenty. Crookston punted back to the forty-five. Milt Nesse made twenty-six yards on a fake punt but on the next play the locals fumbled and Crookston recovered on the thirty. By penalties and passes they got first down on the locals fiveyard stripe. Again they tried a pass but it was intercepted on the goal line by Selmer Dicken who ran back under interference one hundred yards for the second touchdown. Adkins kicked for the extra point making the score 15 to 0. With fifteen seconds to go the Prowlers kicked off and on the play Jack Adkins was knocked out. Although he temporarily lost his memory there was no serious injury. The game ended with the final score of 15 to 0 Bud Nelson will be out for approximately two weeks because of a hip injury.

"PROWLERETTE'S CORNER"

The first group of candidates for the Venus pedestal have been selected—and "what's more, they've got arms"! Rumor has it that an "A" posture was found, when heretofore, even an "A" was rare. Who says the age of discovery has passed? The following "jewles" are under observation for further elimination next week: Monday-Thursday-1st period—Mae Anderson, Ruth Eliason, Alice Geske, Gladys Johnson, Frances Stenberg and Dagney Tungseth; 2nd period—Gladys Brevick, Mary Chommie, Elaine Douglas, Rachel Hanson, Wanda Ann Hanson; 3rd period—Yvonne Anderson, Joyce Bennes, Ira Groslie, Doris Hostvet, Lorraine Lecheit and Joyce Olson; Tuesday-Friday classes—1st period—Margaret Dowacter, Myrtle Fimrite, Delores Froseth, Arlene Jalle, Mae Moline, and Phyliss Olson; 2nd period—Vivian Bornholt, Jean Lee, Mary Mayer-Oakes, Ellen Olson, Enid Olson, Joyce Paquin, Evelyn Tungseth, Jeannette Tweit and Frances Westlen; 3rd period—Ellen Dalos, Anna Hanson, Eldora Hogenson, Dorothy Holthusen, Leona Kraemer, Norma Noel, and Arline Prestabak.

Which of these girls will be "Venus"? Will she compare with last year's? Time and elimination will tell!

"A good place to get automobile parts is at a railroad crossing.

FEATURES

Well, here we are back again. The other day in Social Coach Lee claimed he felt a bit uncomfortable wearing a tie and having his hair combed. I imagine he is used to being dressed up by this time and the rest of us are more or less back into the usual routine of school. But believe it or not I haven't heard any complaint! ...

We are going to miss the seniors a lot. Speaking of seniors reminds me of some of the things I have heard about some of them but never dared say anything about when they were here. Now I'll do a bit of meowing on the sly.

Of course we all remember Art. N. Well, when he started school his mother sent a note with him which read: "Please do not push Art too hard for so much of his brain is intellect that he ought to be held back a good deal, or he will run to intellect entirely and I do not desire it. So please hold him back so as to keep his intellect from getting bigger than his body and ruining him for life." You see what happened to Art!

Violet A. has always believed in having a good time and this proves it! When asked how old she was she said, "Countin' by years I'm only ten; but countin' by the fun I've had I'm most a hundred." So you see there is no limit to Vi's fun.

Mr. Montague told the Eng. IV class that men possessed a trait women did not and that trait was to think before acting. This trait certainly showed up in Malcolm M. at an early age. When he was ten years old two men passed him who were looking for a horse. They asked him if he had seen it. He went away after awhile came back leading the horse. "How did you find him so quickly?" they asked. "I went over there and sat on the fence and thought where I would go if I were a horse. And I did and he had!"

Alice Ann S. has always gone after things with an aim to "do them up brown," even at the early age of three. One day at the dinner table she sat in her high-chair, turning about in her fingers a small ear of corn from which she had been nibbling a row at a time. Suddenly she burst into tears.

"What is the matter dear?" her mother asked.

"I've lost my place," she sobbed.

Then the one which is so characteristic of James N. When he broke a plate and went to his mother and said: "Mother I did it, and I'm sorry. And I hope this will be the end of the matter."

So much for the seniors, they were a swell bunch and I hope the class of '37 can live up to them. Here's to them, wherever they may be!

No one can say that Coach Lee doesn't furnish his share of the entertainment at the football games, but this one is on the coach's son "Pepper".

It seems as though "Pepper" was putting on an act all by himself in front of the bleachers. Some young kid, presumably a freshman, piped up with "Say, who did we come to see tonight—the coach's team or the coach's kid?"

Times certainly do change. A few years ago the freshman were so scared, for the first few weeks at least, that they just stood and stared at the upper classmen. Now the freshman push everyone else around as well as tell them a thing or two—Just plain smart-alecks but pretty soon they'll get taken down a notch or two!

You've got to hand it to Warren for attending the out of town games! And besides being complimented for their enthusiasm, their presence was appreciated by several members of the weaker sex.

Rumors have it that a certain sophomore girl is sporting a handsome new ring and on her engagement finger at that. Rumors also have it that Jerome S. was the gentleman in the case.

Thieves Punished in China

Theft in China is a very serious business, indeed. On the same day that a clerk was sentenced to life imprisonment for stealing $600, a public official—who embezzled $90 of public funds—was executed by strangulation.

PROWLERS WILL MEET E. G. FORKS

Third Game of Season to be Played Here

The Prowlers will endeavor to extend their consecutive string of victories to three when they tangle with the invading Little Green Wave of East Grand Forks under the floodlights at Lincoln field tomorrow evening.

Coach "Chalky" Reed's gridders have not enjoyed any such success as the Prowlers have been endowed with thus far this season but have always managed to put up a stubborn battle against the Prowlers, and this year should be no exception. East Grand Forks bowed to a strong Fargo eleven 7 to 0 and were trounced 34 to 0 by the Bemidji Lumberjacks in their first two encounters. The Little Green Wave had the misfortune to lose Orville Sorenson, hefty veteran fullback, who suffered a broken leg in the Bemidji contest. Three other East Side players were injured and probably will not see service against the Prowlers.

The Little Green Wave will take the field, striving for their season's first victory, and to repeat last year's 20 to 7 triumph over the locals.

Members of the East Grand Forks team are Hollarn, Don Peterson, Lavern Patterson, and Olger Larson, ends; "Hooch" Norman, Kermit Bundin, Bob Lealos, and Loran Johnson, tackles; Russ Grindo, Bob Crumley and Don Baker, guards; Eugene Johnston and Wallace Worden, centers; and Bob Gardner, Don Hiney, Pershing Raymond, Jack Borry and Orville Sorenson, who will be out of football for the season.

As the game will be an evening attraction, the visitors are assured of considerable backing by ardent fans so it behooves all local football fans to attend this game to help put the Prowlers on top.

REPORTER INTERVIEWS NEW TEACHERS

Name: Ronald Riggs.
Nickname: Ron.
Home Address: St. Cloud.
College or University attended: University of Minnesota.
Extra Curricular Activities taken: Band.

What did you major in? Economics.

What subjects do you teach? American history and band.

What are your hobbies? Golf, bowling, and music.

How did you feel when you were introduced to L. H. S. students at the opening assembly? I felt glad to meet them.

What do you think of the spirit of L. H. S. students? Well, I'd say that the students are congenial, and well-behaved.

What do you think are the outstanding characteristics of L. H. S. students? This school has a better attitude toward discipline and more respect for teachers than others in which I have taught.

Do you think more studies should be included in the high school curriculum? I'd like to see a course in the rudiments of music. Then we could give credit toward graduation for band. Do you believe in giving much home work? No. (A teacher after our own hearts.)

What do you think of the public address system? Terrible, so far, but it's a good idea.

What do you think of Thief River Falls? I like it very much.

Is this your first year of teaching? No. I've taught three years but have organized school bands for four years.

What is your advice to L. H. S. students? Try to make as much of yourself as possible. Habits formed in youth are very often permanent.

"WIND-CHILL"

We hear that Milt N. played such a good game of football last Friday at Crookston because a Certain Somebody was in the stands. (It's a relation.)

Our "Sympathy" goes to the Junior girls having to leave Crookston so early Friday night.

Wonder why Mr. Claffy locked himself in his office last week.

Cheer up, one and all, there's only fourteen weeks until Christmas vacation (seventy days to you technical people.)

Our old pal and classmate, Glenn Matson played a bang-up game Friday too. Was it for a local belle, Glenn?

TEACHER'S TRAINING

The students in the teachers training department elected their officers last week. The following students were elected: President, Rebecca Paquin; vice president, Anne Hermanson; secretary, Iris Ayers; treasurer, Alice Ann Severson.

The students went on a field trip in connection with their study of environment last Friday, the object of the trip being "Identification of Trees and Flowers."

DUES

Now, with class elections over, the annual struggle to wrest the class dues from the class members is on. Each year this absolutely necessary task seems to grow more and more difficult.

The Senior Class especially is asked to be prompt in paying their dues. They have several projects ahead of them which need financing, the most prominent of which is for the making of a bigger and better Prowler. In past years the graduating classes have not entirely failed but have missed their goal, which was to put out a large Prowler. The fault for this often laid in the fact that they were not able to collect more than half of their class dues.

As was mentioned before, the Seniors want to edit a good annual this year and expect to do so with the aid of the other three classes. So, not only upper class men, but lower class men as well, pay your dues and support your class.

PEP

Can you imagine a large stadium, in which a critical football game is being played, without rooters for the home team? That is how the first local game of the season impressed students and townspeople.

There were the players fighting hard to win for you. There were cheer leaders fighting nearly as hard to drag, pull, and in every other possible way trying to get a sound above a whisper out of the soundless local fans. There were plenty of people to give this vocal support but the result—silence.

The opposing team brought a handful of fans along with them and, although theirs was the losing team, they cheered, yelled and screeched so hard that they practically drove their team over for the one touchdown they did get.

Why can't our fans do this? Because they refuse to show enthusiasm at pep fests where they have a chance to bring the roof down with their emotions. Lets have a different story at the next game, as well as tearing down the ceiling with yells at the next pep fest!

—D. O.

MUSIC NOTES

The high school chorus this year will be under the joint supervision of Mr. Harrison and Miss Springen. Miss Springen has charge of the girls in the chorus and Mr. Harrison has charge of the boys glee club.

This Friday at the pep fest the chorus will sing the school song arranged by Miss Springen and Mr. Harrison into four parts, soprano, alto, tenor and bass. It is hoped that in this way the entire student body will learn the song as arranged for four parts so decide before Friday which part you prefer to sing.

Next week the chorus will begin work on material for the annual Christmas program. Many new selections will be learned this year in addition to the traditional Christmas numbers.

Selection of smaller groups from the chorus will also be made soon. Trios, quartets, mixed quartets, sextets, and other groups will be organized. All members of the chorus will be given a chance to try for these special groups and Miss Springen and Mr. Harrison will select those whose voices best blended together.

New books just off the press have been ordered for the boys' glee club. This book is "Basic Songs for Male Voices" by Bridgeman. New music to study will make glee club more interesting for the boys.

Miss Springen and Mr. Harrison hope to have a very successful chorus this year. With the many new members, new books, and hard work they should be able to accomplish this purpose.

Mr. Riggs, for the past 2 weeks has been concerned mostly with starting a beginner's band. Up to Thursday afternoon fifty-four boys and girls from the fifth to eighth grades had made definite arrangements for instruments. He expects fifteen or twenty more to sign up, and then will have a beginners band of approximately seventy pupils. The young members will start taking lessons next week.

The Lincoln High School pupils were invited to enter and those who have entered are the following: Wessley Westphal-cornet; Floyd Melby, Thombone; Wyllis Wright, Snare Drum; and Thomas Carlyle and Charles Gustafson, Clarinets. The total number of Lincoln High band members is now thirty-five.

Power to Impeach

To impeach a public officer is to bring accusations of crime or misdemeanor against him and call him to account before a competent tribunal. Article I, Section 2 of the Constitution gives the house of representatives the sole power of impeachment and Article I, Section 3 gives the senate the sole power to try all impeachments. Andrew Johnson was the only President to be impeached by the house of representatives; he was tried before the senate but acquitted as less than two-thirds found him guilty.

School Pupils Writing on Tuberculosis Fight

School boys and girls throughout Minnesota will turn newspaper reporter this fall and write about the fight against tuberculosis. To mark the thirtieth anniversary of the tuberculosis Christmas Seal, schools have been asked by the Minnesota Public Health Association to prepare special school newspapers commemorating the event.

The object is to provide a creative activity that will lead pupils to investigate health problems and to understand the Christmas Seal as an agency that helps to keep them healthy.

The paper may be as elaborate or as simple as the pupils' age and ability and the school equipment permits. It may be one issue of an already established school newspaper, space in the hometown newspaper or a sheet of wrapping paper with stories and pictures clipped and pasted. Various plans for the project have already been sent to all schools in the state. The project is endorsed by both the Minnesota department of education and the Minnesota Editorial Association.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Milk Bars Increasing

Reports concerning the popularity of milk bars are increasing. According to a Sidney newspaper, milk bars are doing a thriving trade within the area of that metropolis in Australia. Sales reach 100,000 gallons of milk a week. One bar had 18,000 weekly customers, of whom 95 per cent were men.

An Australian has carried the idea to London where he has opened a chain of milk bars on Fleet Street. The adventurer, Mr. Hugh D. M'Intosh, says in relating his experiences:

"I was told I was just a crazy optimist—when I chose Fleet Street for my first milk bar, but I was right. We are open day and night and reporters, subeditors and printers practically overwhelmed us. We are serving more than 12,000 customers every week and last week our takings were 20 pounds more than the previous week.

When I told a well-known press peer that my first milk bar would be in Fleet Street, he laughed at me. He said newspaper men would not look at milk; they liked something stronger. Well, he was wrong. By this time next year there will be a thousand milk bars in Britain. They won't be all mine, but there is plenty of custom for them and there is no reason why they should not make money.

Milk is not much of a drink unless it is flavored. We make milk palatable. It should be served piping hot or stone cold. Lukewarm milk is an abomination. Curiously enough, women are shy of the milk bar. They are afraid it will make them fat. Well, it will if they drink it with a big meal, but if they drink flavored milk in moderation, their figures won't suffer.

FRANCIS WILLARD PROGRAM GIVEN

Mrs. Bishop Addresses Student Body Monday

On Monday, September 2, Frances Willard Day was celebrated in high school. Mrs. J. M. Bishop, representing the local chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, spoke on Francis Willard's life and work, and also told something about what the W. C. T. U. is trying to do.

She told of Frances Willard's life from early childhood until she was President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the United States and also in the World. She was born in a small town in Wisconsin and received her early education there. Later she attended Northwestern University and became president of it. Early in life she saw the effects of liquor and resolved to fight it. She was a wonderful writer and speaker, and by these means organized Crusades in the Temperance movement, and through her efforts it became world-wide in its scope.

Mrs. Bishop then showed how liquor ruined the life of the youth of America, and how the W. C. T. U. through its chapters all over the world, is trying to educate the young people. Her talk was very well illustrated by personal examples. She also told the story of the "Wet Parade" by Upton Sinclair. She concluded her speech very beautifully by giving a poem which Frances Willard had written, showing that we may think that we lose our lives by helping others, but we really gain them.

Seek to Have County Included in Federal Drouth Relief Region

The county board at an adjourned meeting Wednesday afternoon of last week adopted a resolution requesting that Pennington county be included in the federal drouth area and thus be entitled to a grant of government funds for relief purposes. At present this is the only county in the northern part not designated as a drouth area. Citing poor crop returns in the county this fall, the resolution declares that 250 county farmers will need work relief and that 154 farmers will require feed loans.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Brainerd, Minn.—Vigorous development of the five-year, five-point program of education sponsored by the Women's Christian Temperance Union was urged Wednesday by Mrs. Ethel Bliss Baker, state president, in her annual address before the opening session of the fifty-ninth annual convention here.

She advocated establishment of a Loyal Temperance Legion and a Youth's Temperance council in every unit in the state as a means of placing before the public the effects of the use of liquor and the return to the liquor traffic.

Speaking before the convention Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, Evanston, Ill., national president of the union, delivered the first of two addresses, saying, "the spirit of the constitution of the United States is unalterably opposed to the liquor traffic despite repeal. A new and binding interpretation of that document will soon prevail. That is our aim."

WILL REAPPRAISE THIRD OF TRACTS IN MUD LAKE AREA

District Judge J. E. Montague Issues Order in Warren

Reappraisals on approximately one-third of the parcels of land obtained in the Mud Lake Wild Life refuge condemnation proceedings were ordered by J. E. Montague, Crookston, 15th Judicial District Judge, at a hearing in Warren last Wednesday, says the Warren Sheaf.

Judge Montague reappointed the original commissioners to make the reappraisal on the lands contained in the area. The first appraisals presented to the court about a year ago, placed an average of $2.75 an acre on the land. Following this appraisal, most of the property owners appealed to the district court and in a few cases tried last fall and winter before a jury in district court, the original appraisals were increased by large amounts.

The appraisers appointed by Judge Montague include T. H. Bjerke, Thief River Falls; Andrew Johnson, Gonvick, and Joseph Patton, St. Hilaire, with Ole Gjerde of Warren, Helgeland township, Polk county, and Tom Howard of Warren as alternates. The regular commissioners qualified last Friday and will commence work at an early date.

The state was represented by Ordner T. Bundlie and Matthias N. Orfield, assistant attorneys general and Louis Brechet and Armond D. Brattland, special assistant attorneys general for the Mud Lake proceedings. Attorneys represented in behalf of clients include Oscar R. Knutson, W. O. Braggans, A. A. Trost, Nels M. Engen, Rasmus Hage, all of Warren, W. E. Rowe of Crookston and H. O. Berve of Thief River Falls.

Marshall county voters will again vote on the poor relief question at the general election, November 3, when the voters will be asked to decide whether they want the poor relief to be handled by the county system or return the poor relief back to the town and village system. Resolutions calling for this expression of opinion were passed the county board of commissioners who began their regular October meeting in Warren Tuesday.

Brainerd Interests Buy Birchmont Beach Hotel

Sale of the Birchmont Beach summer hotel at the north end of Lake Bemidji to the Ruttger interests, extensive operators of resort properties in the Brainerd territory, was consummated Wednesday afternoon of last week, following court approval of the sale Tuesday afternoon when Judge A. L. Thwing in district court at Grand Rapids formally authorized the transaction at a hearing on the proposed foreclosure sale. The hotel property has been operated the past two seasons under a receivership, with C. W. Vandersluis of Bemidji as the receiver.

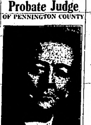
Andrew Bottelson
—for—
Probate Judge
OF PENNINGTON COUNTY



Many problems come up in the course of administration of the Probate Court. In such cases I have had the advice and assistance of the several Attorneys of Thief River Falls. At this, the close of my first term as Probate Judge, I stand ready to testify that no finer advisors to a new judge in office could be found anywhere. I am indebted to all of them.

It is not possible for me to make a canvass of the voters of the county. The office requires my presence during hours.

May I hope that my conduct of affairs of the office will merit the confidence of the voters of our county at the next General Election, November 3, 1936.

Very truly yours,
ANDREW BOTTELSON.

PUBLIC OPINION

Expressions of opinion on timely subjects are invited and welcomed to this department of The Times. Letters should be of reasonable length, and the name should be signed, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. Letters duplicated to other local newspapers are not desired.

An Open letter to J. O. Melby

Hon. J. O. Melby,
Oklee, Minnesota.
Dear Mr. Melby:

I understand that your organization is making an issue of my record and activities in the 1935 Session of the Legislature and in doing so, they are mis-representing and misleading the people. This is especially true with reference to the tax program of that Session.

Mr. Howard Y. Williams one of your party candidates and one of the most influential leaders of your organization came to Thief River Falls and stated publicly that I voted wrong fifteen times and fifteen times differently than you, and that my record was therefore one hundred percent wrong. This Mr. Williams is the leading advocate of the cooperative commonwealth and self styled author of the 1934 radical Farmer Labor Platform, which proposes the same principles that are practiced in Russia. A principle that I do not believe in. I admit that I voted wrong from his point of view and may have voted wrong in the minds of those who want to substitute the cooperative commonwealth for our form of government by taxing property away from people.

I want to remind you of what I told you in St. Paul. At that time I told you that if you voted with that crowd and I did not, they would use it against me in this campaign. I also told you that I would have to defend my activities against your vote.

I have always tried to conduct a square and clean campaign and want to do the same now. I therefore invite you to come to my meetings and discuss our record with me from the same platform. I believe the people would like to hear both sides to enable them to vote intelligently. There are clean-cut issues in this campaign. I have nothing to apologize for and am standing on my record believing that I acted in the best interest of the people who believe in our present form of government.

Hoping that you will accept this invitation and that I may hear from you at an early date, I am

Yours very truly,
Marius Waldal.

Comment on Theodore Christianson's Speech at Erskine:

Editor Times:

Hon. Theodore Christianson's speech was a very able and correct criticism of the inconsistencies, wastefulness and insincerity of the present national administration, but he failed to criticize the absurd system used to finance the government activities, under the imbecile Federal Reserve System, which amounts to making a present of billions of dollars of United States tax-exempt, interest-bearing bonds to a privately owned banking system. Over three years ago, Congress authorized the President to issue three thousand million dollars of greenbacks—legal tender treasury notes, which would have cost the government nothing but the printing, but he has not yet printed a dollar of these notes, so it becomes very plain, to anyone who wants to think, that the big game of the "Big Boys" now, is to saddle a tremendous debt on the people so as to establish a system of interest slavery on the American people.

Just how anyone can expect, or even hope for the return of lasting prosperity under such a nefarious system is more than I can understand, although I can see why Mr. Christianson omitted any criticism of it. I presume it was because, while inaugurated during the Wilson administration, yet this system has been used by each and every administration since—both Democratic and Republican.

The only parties proposing to quit the system, and return to Congress its constitutional right and duty to issue all money, are the Farmer-Labor Party and the Union Party.

Because the Farmer-Labor party has no national ticket, and the Union party has no state ticket, I trust all true reformers will vote for both these parties straight through—William Lemke for President, Ernest Lundeen for U. S. Senate, Elmer Benson for Governor, R. T. Buckler for Congress and all the other F.-L. candidates clear down to Hjalmar Peterson for Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner as that will give better co-operation than a mixed state ticket.

I trust no one is cowardly enough to be scared into voting for Landon for fear Roosevelt is the worst "of two evils" or that anyone will be scared into voting for Roosevelt because Landon is the worst of "two evils". There is no difference between them.

Usury is condemned by the Bible and so are Millionaires and Billionaires. If you don't know it, read the 5th Chapter of the general epistle of James. He was a disciple of our Saviour, so he certainly knew what Jesus thought of these matters.

Andrew Trovaton.

National Chairman Will Meet Young Republicans in Minneapolis Saturday

Kenneth Bradley of Hartford, Conn., national chairman of the Young Republican League, and Harold Stassen of So. St. Paul, state chairman of the Minnesota division, will be the headline speakers at a conference of county officers, ward chairmen and their guests, to be held Saturday, October 10, in Minneapolis. It is expected that delegations will be present from throughout Minnesota, as the permanent organization of the league was recently completed in all of the state's 87 counties.

Plans for the final three weeks' wind-up of the campaign will be discussed and party workers will receive the latest instructions for the Get-Out-the-Vote campaign which the league is launching from Howard Wilcox of Wayzata, chairman of the committee. Extensive plans are being made to get out the vote on a strictly non-partisan basis, and this is going to be an important part of the league's workers from now until election.

The rally will be in the form of a 6:30 dinner meeting at the West Hotel, and advance registrations indicate that a capacity crowd of more than 400 will attend.

May Halt Lake of Woods Commercial Fishing

Members of the state conservation commission announced last week that they would be willing to close Lake of the Woods to commercial fishing provided the evidence warrants such action and provided it is recommended by Dr. Thaddeus Surber, superintendent of fish propagation. Commissioner E. V. Willard stated that repeated efforts had been made to get Canada to join in closing Lake of the Woods to commercial fishing, but without success. Prohibiting commercial fishing would leave many Canadian fishermen without the means of livelihood, it was said. -ach-

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

The New York Times, a conservative Democratic newspaper, is for Roosevelt. The St. Louis Post Dispatch, a Democratic newspaper of more liberal leanings, is opposed to Roosevelt. Both papers are highly esteemed, both well qualified to form intelligent opinions, and both undoubtedly sincere in the opinions they express. In other words there are two sides to the big political question of the day and it is possible to hold with either side and still be a good citizen. We give and take some terrible tongue lashings in these elections of ours. But all in all this American method is greatly to be preferred over the Spanish system of settling differences of opinion.

WHAT THE POLL INDICATES

According to last week's report of the Literary Digest presidential poll Landon has a nearly three to two edge on Roosevelt in Minnesota. Anyone who knows Minnesota realizes that that margin does not truly represent the relative strength of the two candidates in this state. While it probably would be generally admitted that Roosevelt is not as popular as he was four years ago and that Landon is more popular than Hoover was at that time, yet the change in sentiment has not been so great that Landon can be considered a sure winner.

This does not mean that the Digest poll is wrong. It does mean that the figures presented by the Digest poll cannot be accepted without reasonable analysis and interpretation.

For instance Roosevelt carried Minnesota four years ago by 600,000 votes to 363,000 votes for Hoover. Of the Minnesota votes included in last week's poll figures, however, 22,698 had voted for Hoover in 1932 and only 21,203 had voted for Roosevelt. It is apparent therefore that the Digest returns to that date did not present a fair cross section of the state. For some reason or other the Digest ballots have not been voted in proportionate strength by the Roosevelt supporters of 1932 and by those who supported Hoover.

By breaking down the figures by percentages it probably is possible to get a more true picture of the state's political preferences. The figures indicate that 24% of the people who voted for Roosevelt in 1932 are for Landon now. Roosevelt still has 60% of his 1932 following, with Lemke accounting for the other 16%. Dividing Roosevelt's 600,000 vote of four years ago on this basis, he retains 360,000, Landon gets 144,000, and Lemke 96,000.

Breaking down the Republican vote in this same way we find that Landon is getting a strong 83% of the 1932 Hoover vote, Roosevelt 14% and Lemke 3%. Giving this proportion of the 360,000 votes cast for Hoover in 1932 to each of the present candidates, Landon gets 300,000, Roosevelt 50,000 and Lemke 10,000. These totals would give Landon a slight plurality with 444,000 votes, Roosevelt a close second with 410,000, and Lemke third with 106,000.

Such a breakdown of the figures indicates a close race in Minnesota, with the size of the Lemke vote a determining factor in the outcome of the election. There are other factors, of course, that are not considered in these figures, for instance the votes of those who did not vote four years ago, and between now and election the figures may change considerably. But the prospects certainly do not justify any long odd bets either way. All of which, at best, is merely a guess. And your guess is as good as ours.

THE POOR FISH
(Grand Rapids Herald-Review)

This season over 600,000 fishing licenses have been sold in Minnesota. About 90,000 went to those who live outside of the state. Over a half million went to citizens of Minnesota.

We have sympathy with a fish. He has trouble in being hatched or born. Only one little fish survives out of several hundreds or thousands of eggs that are laid.

The little fish has a devil of a time. He is constantly chased by other fish. If his own kind do not eat him up, there is a big faced pickerel ready to dash out after him.

When he gets his growth there are 600,000 people ready to jerk him out of the water. They fool him with bright and pretty things that hide a vicious hook or they dangle before him minnows and frogs that are not meant for food but to kill. The term "poor fish" has real meaning.

FAIR PLAY IN THE CAMPAIGN
(Emporia Gazette)

President Roosevelt has his faults. Neither he nor Landon is God's perfect child. But neither he nor Landon is a knave or a fool. Each is an honest, earnest, puzzled and be-deviled middle-aged gentleman, facing grave responsibilities, not knowing exactly what to do, tinkering here, trying on a branch there, to fumble a way out of what may become the end of a happy era in human civilization—if America fails democracy.

Those who call names, those who say Roosevelt is "a liar and a betrayer," for instance, and that Landon is the tool for Hearst and big business, are equally unfair, equally tragically unjust in a time when we need fairness, need candor and prayerful consideration of the terrible problems that face our country.

THERE ARE SALES TAXES NOW
(Montevideo News)

Rarely has a proposal of an amendment to the state constitution stirred up as hot a fight as now rages around Amendment Number Two. This is the constitutional change which will abolish the state tax on homes, farms and other real property, if approved by the voters on November 3, leaving that class of property as an exclusive source of tax revenue for local divisions of government.

This amendment has the especial support of owners of buildings in cities and of farms in the country. It has the opposition of people who believe it will relieve big owners of property and transfer the load onto the small taxpayer. Effort is made by the Farmer-Labor party to make this amendment a partisan issue in the campaign. Republican candidates take the stand that this is a basic constitutional change for the voters to decide on its merits or demerits without regard to party affiliation.

The charge that the amendment is supported only by the big fellows does not stand up under investigation. J. S. Jones, secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, is a leader in the state-wide organization that is supporting the amendment. Evidently his connection with this association has the approval of the state Farm Bureau. Now, it is evident enough that the Farm Bureau members are not rich people who are trying to side-step a tax. Nor are they a lot of dumb-bells being used by city slickers.

In this part of the state the Farm Bureau does not have a big membership. But taking the state as a whole, the Bureau has the biggest membership of farm-owners and farm-operators of any farm organization. It is in the hands of actual dirt farmers, who live on family-size farms. There is, then, a division of sentiment among farmers themselves about this amendment. Some are for it; some are against it. In view of this established fact, the big business bugaboo vanishes.

Some opposition to the amendment has been aroused by the declaration that its adoption must necessarily be followed by a sales tax. This does not follow. It is possible for the state of Minnesota, under an economical administration, to spend less money and get along. Neighboring states have done it. It is also possible for Minnesota to increase other taxes now being levied on mines and big holders of property so as to compensate for any undue advantage that might accrue to such concerns by adoption of the amendment.

The common man now pays plenty of sales taxes, whether he knows it or not. He will protect his own interests if he protests against the existing sales taxes which have other names, but are just as direct a levy on his monthly pay check. They add heavily to the cost of his groceries, his clothing, his fuel, his rent.

Retail merchants are rightly disturbed about the nuisance factor that will be ever-present if they have to handle a new type of sales tax taken. They will be protecting their own interests and those of their customers, if they also get disturbed about the heavy tax rates now levied on them and their customers. The taxes that have been greatly increased in recent years will go still higher if there is not a change of policy in administration, state and national. As government takes more, the citizen has less to spend for personal needs in the ways he knows best with the retail merchant.

SEVENTY FIVE YEARS YOUNG
(Long Prairie Leader)

Oil and gasoline are so common today that few of us realize August 28 marked the seventy-fifth anniversary of the first practical use of petroleum. Oil was discovered in Pennsylvania in 1859, but it was not until two years later that it was first introduced as kerosene. Kerosene lamps were a great advance over the best in lights used up to that time and the lamps added much in comfort and convenience. They were a poor substitute, however, for the electricity everywhere so common today, but they were the limit in luxury for our grandfathers. Today kerosene, which was for several decades believed to be the sole product of petroleum value, has almost disappeared from manufacture and commerce, and petroleum is now used chiefly to get gasoline and lubricants. Without gasoline our whole system of modern transportation would be impossible. The story of petroleum is one of the real romances of industry. It has built enormous fortunes, created great wealth, changed our laws, supplied the incentive for commercial enterprise and furnished the profit to develop them. Millions depend upon the petroleum industry for their livelihood. It provides more wages, more taxes, as well as more happiness for more people than probably any other of nature's gifts.

AN OUTSIDE VIEW
Valley City, N. D., Times-Record

The Twin Cities have become rather noted as offering a safe place for certain lewd fellows of the baser sort to live and carry on their attacks on organized society. The deliberate murder of two editors there has been allowed to go by without having anybody punished for the crimes. Common report has it that vice in its nakedest form flaunts itself even on the main streets. Strike troubles in most serious ways have quickly shown a liking for the use of weapons. And up to date no official has appeared who seems to have the courage and ability to meet these vicious leaders and chase them to cover elsewhere.

ONE WAY TO STOP IT
Faribault Journal

For years and years, we've talked of reduction of taxes. If we continue just to talk, the tax collector will call the wind-up on all of us. There's just one way to stop this thing and that is to stop spending. There's no other secret, folly-popping politicians to the contrary. Let every thoughtful citizen get into this election. Let him campaign for those, regardless of party label, who know what economy is. The end is in sight, unless we elect this sort of office holder.

BEETLES WITH HEADLIGHTS
(Pathfinder)

Large beetles with headlights are included in nature's strange assortment of creatures in Central America and Northern South America. Department of agriculture entomologists who have found the young of these beetles valuable because they eat white grubs which seriously damage sugar cane, say the beetles are so luminous that one in a dark room will give enough light for reading a newspaper.

The insect's headlights are on the top forepart of its body and consist of two luminous spots. There is, however, another luminous area on the under side of the beetle which is a brilliant spot of light on the ground.

ARITHMETIC IS OUT
(Worthington Globe)

Roosevelt and his aides are going to base their political campaign on history, philosophy and philanthropy, according to the latest dispatches from the front. Arithmetic is tabu. Even such simple problems as: "If I have one apple and give away three, how many apples have I left?" The answer is, of course: "No new taxes will be necessary."

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1936 General Election

HARRY H. PETERSON
Attorney General
St. Paul, Minnesota, April 29, 1936

Honorable Mike Holm,
Secretary of State.

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of Section 46 of Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, I herewith furnish you a statement of the purpose and effect of all proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of said state at the general election in 1936, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the 1935 legislature.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 351 of the Laws of 1935 the legislature has proposed an amendment to Article 8 of the State Constitution. The proposed amendment, if adopted, will not alter the form of any existing section of the Constitution, but will add a new section to be known as Section 9 of said Article 8.

The proposed amendment reads as follows:

"Any of the public lands of the state, including lands held in trust for any purpose, may, with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor, be exchanged for lands of the United States and other privately owned lands as the legislature may provide, and the lands so acquired shall be subject to the trust, if any, to which the lands exchanged therefor were subject, and the state shall reserve all mineral and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to provide for exchanging any of the public lands of the state for lands of the United States and land privately owned, such exchanges to be made with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor. Such exchanges of land cannot now be made because the State Constitution does not permit the legislature to authorize the sale of school lands, state swamp lands and state internal improvement lands except by public sale. One immediate purpose in granting such authority is to make it possible for the state to acquire compact areas of land for forestry and other conservation purposes by exchanging land outside of such conservation areas for lands of the United States and privately owned lands within such areas.

The proposed amendment requires that all mineral rights, water rights and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state shall be reserved. The land so acquired will become subject to the same trust, if any, as the land disposed of. For example, if school land is given in exchange, the land received will become school land.

By the adoption of Chapter 394 of the Laws of 1935, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section 1 of Article 9 of the State Constitution.

This section now reads as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation; and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, this section will read as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200.00 for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads.

"Provided further, that after January 1, 1937, no tax shall be imposed on any real or tangible personal property for any state purpose, except that authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of this Constitution, and/or for the payment of indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January 1, 1937; but this proviso shall not limit, but the state shall have, the right to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is to prohibit the imposition of any taxes on real or tangible personal property after January 1, 1937 for any state purpose, except as hereinafter stated, without limiting the right of the state to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind, said proposed amendment declaring that the state shall have the right to impose such taxes.

If the said amendment is adopted the state will retain the right to impose taxes on real or tangible personal property for either or both of the following purposes:

(1) To provide funds to be used to construct or improve roads and bridges in this state, as authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of the State Constitution, for which purpose, under Section 16 of said Article 9, the legislature in its discretion is authorized to provide for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state, of not to exceed in any year one mill on all the taxable property within the state; and

(2) To raise money to pay indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January 1, 1937.

Respectfully yours,
HARRY H. PETERSON,
Attorney General.

SEWING PROJECT IMPORTANT PART OF WPA IN COUNTY

Sixteen Persons Employed Here on Sewing and Similar Work

Women folk of Pennington County, to the number of 13, all of whom otherwise would be on direct relief, now are engaged on the local WPA sewing projects. This fact was made public this week by Miss Beatrice Mertens, Detroit Lakes, in charge of women's and professional division in this district. The work is under the general supervision of Mrs. Mildred T. Law, acting state division director in the Works Progress Administration, of which Victor Christgau is state administrator.

In addition to the 13 employed women on county's sewing projects, there are 3 other men and women under Mrs. Law's jurisdiction who are engaged in recreational, educational, bookmending, clerical, and associated, activities. According to careful estimate at the Detroit Lakes office, buying power among this class of WPA workers in Pennington County is maintained to the extent of $800.00 each month.

"Counties are benefitting twofold from this WPA work", Mrs. Law said. "For example, our sewing women make some 153,000 serviceable garments each month for the needy. Already, we have clothed some 48,000 relief families. Had it not been for articles made by the sewing projects, county taxing units would have been obliged to buy most of these supplies."

NEW YORK YANKEES WIN WORLD SERIES WITH 4 OUT OF SIX

Take the Title by Defeating Giants by 13-5 Score Tuesday

The New York Yankees blasted their way back to the baseball heights Tuesday with a farewell salvo of basehit shrapnel that crushed the last lingering hopes of their inter-city rivals, the battle-worn Giants, and tore another whole page out of the record books.

Riddled by the long-range guns of the American league champions, the Giants finally crumbled under a ninth-inning barrage that produced seven runs and swept the Yankees to a lopsided conquest, 13 to 5, in the sixth and finis game for the world baseball championship.

The "Bronx Bombers" emerged with a decisive victory, four games to two, in a series that set a flock of new hitting and scoring records, besides scaling fresh heights for attendance and receipts with a return of boomtime baseball prosperity.

The Yankees not only squared accounts with their metropolitan rivals in World series play, with two triumphs for each club in four battles for the game's highest stakes, but registered their fifth championship conquest in eight attempts and their fourth in succession. Following up their sweep of the 1927, 1928 and 1932 battles with the National league, the Yankees now boast a record of 16 games won out of 18 played.

REEMPLOYMENT ITEMS

Interviewer, E. R. Stangbelle

The National Reemployment Service in Minnesota for the month of July registered 4,965 new applicants, placed 10,040 applicants, 1,861 of which were placed with private employers.

The total active file for Minnesota for July was 63,264. This, however, does not constitute this total of unemployed persons in the state; yet is a measure of those actually available and seeking employment through this employment service.

For the week ending September 26, the local NRS Office had an active file of 1,224 men and 203 women, thirteen new applications were received that week and 74 persons recontacted the office for work. During the same week 24 persons were referred to jobs; seven ewre reported placed.

Persons interested in a farm couple opening should contact the local manager.

A number of persons attending school who want part-time work are registered at the local NRS office.

When preparing your home for winter, day laborers can conveniently be secured by calling the National Reemployment service.

DEM CANDIDATES WITHDRAW FROM MINNESOTA RACE

Candidates for Governor and Senator Cancel Entries

Minnesota's gubernatorial and United States senatorial campaigns Saturday night had been narrowed to two-party faces following the unprecedented withdrawal of the Democratic nominees for those offices in an effort to solidify Farmer-Labor and Democratic forces behind President Roosevelt.

Cancellations for Patrick J. Delaney of St. Paul, senatorial nominee and for Fred A. Curtis of South St. Paul, for governor, were filed with the secretary of state by Judge J. F. D. Meighen, chairman of the Democratic state central committee.

Delaney's withdrawal left the Farmer-Labor candidate, Rep. Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis, alone to oppose Rep. Theodore Christianson, Republican nominee. The gubernatorial race was narrowed to U. S. Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor and Martin A. Nelson, G. O. P. candidate.

Both Delaney and Curtis, in prepared statements, asserted they were retiring to define the issue more clearly between "progress and reaction," and to promote reelection of President Roosevelt, thereby insuring "progress thus far made."

AL SMITH COMES OUT FOR LANDON IN N. Y. ADDRESS

Says GOP Aspirant Will Cure Nation's Present Ills If Elected

"Al" Smith, former friend but long a bitter critic of President Roosevelt, went all the way in opposition Thursday night and urged the election of Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas, to the presidency.

Standing before a shouting, screaming throng in Carnegie hall, the "Happy Warrior" of the losing Democratic campaign eight years ago, disavowed the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt and shouted:

"I firmly believe that the remedy for all the ills that we are suffering from today is the election of Alfred M. Landon!"

"How," he cried out above the growing din of a crowd that had sensed what was coming, "can I support a failure?"

"I am an American before I am a Democrat, a Republican or anything else!"

As he spoke Governor Landon's name, his face was grim, and there was no trace of a smile.

ST CLOUD HOBOS GET "A 'BITE' TO EAT"

St. Cloud—An engineer on the Northern Pacific, Mr. Dryer, is catching up on his charity budget after having given two hungry hobos "a bite to eat". When approached by the bums for "two bits", Mr. Dryer preferred to give them a slip to a lunch room. They showed the proprietor the slip and started with a T-bone steak each. While the steak was sizzling each ate two orders of bread—they were hungry. Steak, potatoes, coffee, etc. devoured, each ordered a cut of apple pie, and then another. That did the trick, but before leaving each took along a Havana stogie. That evening Mr. Dryer asked, "Did those two bums come in?" and he inquired about the bill. It amounted to $1.30. Next time he will write the amount on the slip.

PROWLERS WIN EASY VICTORY FROM REEDMEN

Locals' First Half Drive Crushed East Grand Forks Defense

The old gridiron axiom that good blocking can make or break a football team was proved once more last Friday evening as the Prowler stalwarts outcharged East Grand Fork's marauding Little Green Wave to gain a decisive 33 to 0 victory.

The Prowler ball carriers turned in a sparkling exhibition, reflecting careful coaching by Coach George Lee. They wasted no time in going to work on a slightly uncertain East Grand forward wall by smashing their way to a touchdown in three plays. Hill scored the touchdown and Adkins booted a placement for the extra point giving the locals a 7 to 0 advantage. The Prowler kicked off but regained the ball and marched down the field to their foes' twenty yard marker. Hill completely baffled his opposition as he left his interference and dashed around end for the second score. The count remained 13 to 0 as the attempt for the extra point failed. An intercepted pass by Nesse gave the Prowlers possession of the ball. A pass to Mickelson placed the ball on the enemy's five yard line. Hill plunged through the line for the third Prowler touchdown but the place-kick was too low, the score remaining 19 to 0 as the hectic first quarter ended.

Booren tossed a lateral to Nesse, who aerialed the ball far down the field to Clark Mickelson, who snared it before dashing across the goal line. Nesse ran the ball over increasing the local's lead to a score of 26 to 0. Fate in the second period—Nesse was brought down by the Little Green Wave's safety man after outspeeding his pursuers. The half ended with the score being 26 to 0 in the favor of the gold clad warriors.

The Prowlers opponents threatened in the third quarter when they blocked Milt Nesse's kick but lost the ball on downs. Nesse drove forty yards to the east siders twenty yard stripe. Hill scampered around end for the last touchdown. Adkins ended the scoring for the evening by place-kicking the goal. The Prowlers led 33 to 0 as the quarter was completed.

An entire Prowler second eleven took the field midway in the last quarter and held the Little Green Wave on even terms for the remainder of the game. The final gun sounded with the Prowlers winning their third consecutive game and stamping themselves as a serious threat to all their future rivals.

Kermie Sundin's play in the East Grand Fork's line was particularly impressive. Pershing Raymond, quarterback, was an offensive threat besides backing up the line. The Little Green Wave showed an ace ball carrier in Don Heney, but his line could not halt the local's charge long enough to enable him to get away for any long gains.

Clark Mickelson, who started his first game of the season, substituting for the injured Bud Nelson, starred both defensively and offensively. Bredeson's play at guard showed marked improvement. Adkins played well at the other guard position. The entire line, however, blocked with a precision and fury that has been dormant in previous games.

SENIORS SELECT CLASS RINGS

Jostens of Owatonna Awarded Contract

At a class meeting Monday evening the Senior class voted on their class rings for 1937.

They selected a combination pearl and onyx stone in a 10 karat solid gold setting. The ring is being manufactured by the Joster Company. The ring was selected after thorough examination by a Senior army committee, and voted on by the class. There were ten rings in competition, two offered by each of the following companies: Joster's, Herff Jones, L. G. Balfour Co., The Hirchner Renich Co., and the Terry-berry Co.

The race, in the main, was between the winning Joster ring and a Herff Jones ruby ring called the "All American". The final vote being in favor of the Joster ring by the scant margin of two votes.

MUSIC NOTES

Twenty girls appeared for the tryouts for the girls small vocal groups. Final selections will be made next week for the girls trio and the girls sextet.

Lois Nelson, a member of the Chorus for the past four years was, with three other freshmen, elected to the second Chorus at St. Olaf.

Tryouts for boys vocal groups will begin next week, and the following week for the mixed quartette.

81 Band Beginners

Many strange sounds emanated from the various school buildings in Thief River Falls this week, as Mr. R. Riggs started instruction in the beginners' classes on band instruments. The largest group of beginners is at the Central school, where 39 boys and girls have joined the Band. The total membership at Central School is 47, 8 Jr. high members being in the High School band.

The enthusiasm found among the various classes for band membership is very encouraging. The future appears very promising.

Director Riggs announced that additional beginners could not be accepted after October 9th, because of the large enrollment, except on trombone, mellophone, baritone or bass.

It is expected that the various Elementary and Junior high groups will be joined together to form a Junior Band. Thus the young players will enjoy playing in a band, and making public appearances.

Membership in the beginning classes are as follows:

Northrup School—Robert Powell, Louis Twete, Wayne Leverson, Elaine Hammergren, Calvin Traver, Donald Johnson, James Magnuson, Luther Fossum, Lorin Huoen, Genevieve Hess, Betty Woolhouse, William McKechnie, Donald Aasland, Jack Melby, and Robert Abbott.

Washington School—Elaine Hornseth, Marvyn Stephens, Homer Matheson, Conrad Engelstad, Donald Waag, Roydon Belcher, Raymond Offerdahl, and Douglass Snelling.

Knox School—Orville Ness, Virginia Dalton, Edward Peterson, Ione Norby, Dorothy Mayer-Oakes, Duane Noel, Robert Wright, Stephen Alnes, Saul Larson, Howard Haugen, Harold Haugen, Harold Bjorklund, and Robert Biddick, Barbara Jacobson, Marian Bouville, Nick Christo, Marian Swanson, Harriet Nelson, Robert Lund, Alice Boringrud, Marine Rhodegard, Elaine Bessler, Adrain Magnuson, Wesley Groslie, Rose Marie Aalbu, Phyliss Caldis, Luther Flattum, Gordon Reirson, Dale Hostvet, Claire Myrorum, Donald Erickson, Beulah Lerol, Darleen Edwards, Lois McLeod, Doris Nelson, Eldon Foster, Orlin Gjernes, Burnes Larson, Luther Fjelstad, Philip Hess, Lennert Lorentson, Robert Carlisle, Morris Stokke, Keith Marshall, Bruce Biddick, Ray Aalbu, Dorothy Bergstrom, Elizabeth Engle, Glen Anderson, Wayne Holmgren, and Lois Ann Peterson.

Lincoln High School—Eileen Rolland, Roy Johnson, Lorraine Baken, Margaret Jacobson, Marion Oden, Raymond Johnson, Erling Mellby, and Joyce Bennes.

PEP MEETING HELD FRIDAY

Inspiring Pep Talks Presented by Coach

Last Friday afternoon the second pep fest of the year was held in the high school assembly. Lorraine Amundson presided as mistress of ceremonies. As usual the pep fest was opened by the singing of the school song by the student body. Mr. Harrison accompanied the song and Donald Peterson, the freshman class president was called upon to direct it. This was as great a surprise to Don as it was to every one else, but he did well, nevertheless. The school song was followed by several yells, led by Lorraine Amundson and Mary Chommie. Mr. Gabrielson, the new physical education and biology teacher, was then called upon for a short pep talk. He told us of some of the things which happened during the game at Crookston the week before and also told some jokes on several of the football players. His talk was very much enjoyed by all the students.

Next, a group of junior girls entertained us with two songs. One was the popular song "Sing, Sing, Sing", and the other was a song about the Prowlers, with original words written by the girls themselves and sung to the tune of "On a Bicycle Built for Two." The girls who sang were: Harriet Simonson, Lorraine Baken, Marion Oden, Mary Chommie, Lorraine Amundson, Yvonne Anderson, Fae Belcher, Margaret McKechnie, and Evelyn Tungseth.

Jewel Warner, a grade school student, then entertained us with a military tap dance. She received so much applause that she came back with an encore number to the tune of "Knock, Knock." She was accompanied by Alice Protz on the piano. Yvonne Anderson then led the student body in one or two yells. Coach Lee, when called upon to comment on the game said that if his football team didn't have any more pep than the students, the score would be 40 to 0 against us, and we might just as well not play East Grand. This seemed to arouse the students somewhat, for when Lorraine Amundson and Mary Chommie led us in the next yell, you really could hear that someone was yelling. The pep fest was ended by having the football team march out of the assembly first.

Thank you Mr. Lee, for the timely and very much called for "pep" talk last Friday. For a long time the student body has needed a good sound verbal "spanking" for their lack of vocal support of the team. You, Mr. Lee, are not the only one who has noticed this. Other teachers in this as well as other schools have remarked about the great lack of audible support for the Prowlers.

Also, let me offer my congratulations at the student body for the way they responded to that little speech. But will this new support continue? It was in evidence at the game Friday night, especially after the team was far ahead. Will each and every one of the students cheer like that when and if the team is behind. If they do the 1936 edition of the Prowlers should be a world beater. Now lets all come out and really support our team both by our presence as well as by our vocal cords.

SEEN AND HEARD

The Junior Class certainly has been picked on, according to the reports of some of its members. The following is the summary of their complaints:

"When we were freshmen, the upper classmen always sighed and said, "These poor dumb freshmen"; when we were sophmores it was, "These sophomores," and now when we've spent two whole years trying to outgrow these remarks even the freshmen look at us and mumble, "These juniors". That's all right, juniors, some of you might grow up to be seniors some day.

There have been a number of requests for the words of the song which was sung by the junior girls at the pep fest Friday. The song is sung to the tune of "On a Bicycle Built for Two":

Prowlers, Prowlers, give us a victory, do
We're half crazy, 'cause of our hopes for you,
It won't be an easy victory, we can't afford to lose,
But you'll look grand, if you beat East Grand
In your brand new football suits.

It seems that the kids from East Grand Forks object to being referred to as "East Gand" preferring to be called the "East Side." So—if any of you girls have a Romeo in that locality, you'd better watch your step. Of course this applies visa-versa. Well, anyway, the Prowlers have no complaint concerning the cheering section Friday night. Thanks, fellas.

Kind of clever, those men teachers of Lincoln High are.

They have a little scheme all of their own by which they find out the scores of the World Series baseball games. The teacher who has a vacant period goes out into one of the other teacher's car and listen to the game. When his period is over he sends one of his friends out to continue listening to the game. In the meantime, he tiptoes to each of the rooms, motions to the teacher in it. This individual then very business-like tiptoes out to hear the scores of the game. And so the cycle continues. Very, very clever, don't you think? But you can't pull the wool over our eyes.

And did you notice all the sweet young things who experienced their first attempt on the dance floor? They didn't do so worse for the first time, either.

Too many are content with a hand-to-mouth existence these days—when it's Uncle Sam's hand.—Washington Post.

"WIND-CHILL"

Mr. Harrison in Ag. 4: "Soon babies will be born without teeth." Why Mr. Harrison, how many teeth did you have when the stork brought you?

Simile: As charfecteristic as Mr. Montague's "uh-for example."

Marjorie M. believes in renewing old acquaintances—ask Elmer.

We hear from someone who very definitely seems to be "in the know" that Erling Melby missed some fun by not staying home Sat. eve.

Something oughta be done about-it dept. These high school youngsters chasing each other all around town in "too-fast cars.

Remember one day last week when everyone was in the dumps? Solution, just sent in, Bud N. was absent, due to football injuries.

Who was the prominent Senior girl who was so "down in the mouth" over the failure of the class to select the class ring she wanted and still thinks is the best?

Simile: As entertaining as the speeches of the first period Eng. IV class are to the first period Social class in the adjoining room (especially that of Jack "Bierman" Adkins.)

They say the reason why Milt Nesse never made over seventy yard runs against the first three Prowler opponents was that he hated to see them so discouraged and down-hearted.

Could you imagine: Tat M. without Lovey C.; Milt, without a football; Coach Lee without a joke; Margaret M. without Fae B.; Adkins without Popeye; or Mr. Montague without gestures?

And then someone comes along with the short story about our Editor-in-chief—it seems that over the week-end, Don discovered "indelible lipstick."

When a man is always on the go he seldom gets anywhere.

DEBATE SQUAD TO START WORK SOON

Public Utility Question Will be Discussed

The 1936-37 debate team will soon start work Mr. Montague, debate coach, announced today. The question for this year's debate is: "Resolved: That all electric utilities should be governmentally owned and operated." The subject has been discussed for a long time and is still of national importance.

This year's debate squad will be weakened to a great extent by the loss of Oscar Bickley and Morris Engelstad. These two debaters first came into prominence when they won the invitation tournament at Warren in the early part of the year. They then with the help of Fae Belcher nearly managed to win the district championship. Although they defeated Crookston two to one in the final debate, Crookston had amassed one more point during the seasons encounters. However the Lincoln team will have Fae Belcher on which to base their attack and have hopes of a successful season.

All of these students, being interested in the proposition and willing to work, should develop into a good team.

Dead Bodies in Ships Bad Omen

Carrying dead bodies in ships has always been a sore point with sailors, who regard the omen derived from thence as disastrous.

ALL IMPORTANT

The undersized husband was trying on the overcoat his wife had bought him for Christmas.

"You know, dear," he said, gazing at himself in the mirror, "this is a nice present and all that, and don't think that I'm ungrateful. But really, isn't it much too big for me?"

"I know, my dear," she returned. "But we can't help that. You must remember that it's got to cover the radiator of the car in cold weather. We have to consider that first, haven't we?"—Answers Magazine.

The Best Way

A doctor was called in to see a very testy and irritable patient.

"Well, sir what's the matter?"

"That," growled the patient, "is for you to find out."

"I see," said the doctor, thoughtfully. "Well, if you'll excuse me for an hour or so I'll go along and fetch a friend of mine—a vet. He's the only chap I know who can make a diagnosis without asking questions."

TUMBLING TEAM BEGINS PRACTICE

Gabrielson Announces Plans for Season

Approximately twenty-five aspiring tumblers, under the able supervision of Mr. Gabrielson, have been practicing in the high school gymnasium with high hopes of gaining a place on the tumbling team. Students in the various physical education classes that have shown the greatest aptitude for tumbling at present are Harry Oen, Clarence Freed, Harley Lunke, Robert Samuelson, Pomeroy Hill, Warren Hill, William Claffy, Vernon Stenberg, Lionel Bergstrom, Hjalmer Aaseby, Delmar Hovie, Milton Poppenhagen, Perry Pedersen, James Aalbu, "Red" Aalbu, Ralph Gustafson, Selmer Dicken, Earl Tripp and Richard Battleson.

The tumbling team will be organized with the purpose in mind to give exhibitions between the halves at basketball games this winter. Mr. Gabrielson plans to make several trips with his tumblers to neighboring schools and in the early spring will stage a tumbling circus at the auditorium. This circus will slightly resemble the one given there last year.

Several new mats have been secured and other new equipment will be added for the use of the tumbling team and the physical education classes.

Anyone wishing to try out for the tumbling team is requested to report for practice when the announcement is made.

PROWLERS TO MEET GRAFTON HERE FRIDAY

Dakotans to Attempt to Break Prowlers Victory String

After tramping over the Red Lake Falls eleven 33 to 6, Crookston 15 to 0, and the Redmen of East Grand Forks 33 to 0, the mighty golden-jersied Prowlers will meet the Grafton gridders on the local field tomorrow night and try to add another victory to their fast-growing string.

Two years ago when these teams collided the score was 30 to 0 with the Prowlers trailing. Last year Grafton ran up 12 points and again the locals had 0. Although this season conditions look a little more favorable than in the past two or three, an upset is always possible. The Prowlers will go into the game with the odds decidedly in their favor and they should win by a comfortable margin.

Valley City, which has the strongest ball club in North Dakota, defeated Grafton with a very lop-sided score and Grand Forks Central nearly equalled Valley City's work. However, since then there has been much improvement in both the backfield and the line. They have been working consistently on blocking and defensive play and no doubt will put up a much stiffer defense than used against their former opponents. In addition to this, Grafton will be in there fighting to redeem themselves after their recent defeats while the Prowlers will be trying to preserve their so-far-successful schedule.

Taking all these facts into consideration, the contest tomorrow night should prove to be the most interesting game of the season.

PROWLERETTE'S CORNER

The Venus Contest remains, with but six candidates, they are: Mae Anderson, Wanda Hanson, Yvonne Anderson, Enid Olson, Anna Hanson and Delores Froseth. Which of these "josies" will be "the Venus" with arms? 'T is rumored that one of the remaining six received an "A" posture grade. Who is she and who will be Venus? Watch for the announcement of her name in next week's corner, your Prowlerttes!

The G. A. A. (Girls Athletic Association) held their first meeting in the assembly Thursday night after school. Last year's Hiking Manager, Mary Chommie told the girls how points, numerals and letters were received and discussed a hike dated for Saturday. It was decided that the "josies" would meet at school at 1:30 Saturday afternoon and start from there. Lunch was taken and a bonfire built—that was the "Be-an-L-Girl" Hike. If that's being an "L" girl we'll be one, won't we?!

'T was decided, too, at this meeting that the girls would buy G. A. A. Pins. It looks like a grand year so let's go!!

CHRISTIANSON SPEAKER HERE AT G.O.P. RALLY

500 Hear Senate Candidate Discuss National Issues

ASKS PROTECTION OF AMERICAN HERITAGE

Arthur Nelson Attacks Leadership of the Farmer-Labor Party

It is easy for Democrats in Minnesota to vote the Republican ticket this year because it is the only party in the state which represents the American principles of Thomas Jefferson and is a "fortress against the onslaughts of the Communistic leadership of the Farmer Labor party", Congressman Theodore Christianson, Republican candidate for the United States Senate asserted at a Republican rally held in the municipal auditorium Tuesday night which was attended by approximately 500 people.

Arthur E. Nelson, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor and Elmer A. Haugen, Republican candidate for congress from this district also spoke at the meeting which was presided over by W. E. Dahlquist. Preceding the meeting the municipal band and the American Legion auxiliary drum corps under the leadership of Mrs. Jeanette Wright led a parade through the downtown section to the auditorium.

Declaring that the only issue confronting voters in Minnesota this fall is whether or not "America shall remain for Americans", Christianson launched an attack on the "communistic tendencies" of Earnest Lundeen, his Farmer-Labor opponent.

"Farmer Labor leaders charge us with injecting the 'Red scare' into this campaign", Christianson said. "It is they who have injected this issue. They injected it when they accepted the endorsement of the Communist party."

"My opponent" Christianson asserted "injected the Red issue several months ago when he addressed a Communist audience in New York as 'Comrades'. He made it an issue when he joined with 21 other radicals after a trip to Russia in a report in which the setting up of a Communistic order in Russia is called 'labors most gigantic and most promising undertaking and that it will become an irresistible example to the workers the world over."

"All we have done", Christianson said, "is to read the record our opponents have left. If that is injecting the Red issue there will be much more of it done before the campaign is over."

Talking on national issues, Christianson said that he had attempted to follow the leadership of the New Deal administration when it first came into office because of a personal friendship for President Roosevelt and a desire to help him in a national crisis. He said he had supported some

Treasurer Fred Protz Reports [illegible] Cross Chapter Finances

Reports of Mrs. C. M. Adkins, secretary, and Fred Protz, treasurer, were submitted at the annual meeting of the Pennington county chapter of the American Red Cross held Friday evening in the municipal court room. On advice from midwestern headquarters at St. Louis, the election of a new slate of officers was deferred until early next year.

Starting October 1, 1935, with a treasury balance of $374.18, Mr. Protz reported receipts during the year of $266.08, as follows: Roll call, $190.75; dividend from Farmers & Merchants State bank, $15.08; contributions for floor relief, $59; paid for lifesaving badges, $1.25.

Disbursements included postage, $2.50; stationery, 45 cents; national Red Cross, roll call, $180.87; national Red Cross, flood relief, $114; Donald Chalmers, swimming instruction five weeks, $100; swimming badges, $1.25; and Wm. J. Gans Co., film, $7.50. Total disbursements were $306.57, leaving a treasury balance of $333.09 as of September 25.

Mrs. Theodore Quale, county chairman, stated that during the past year the American Red Cross brought relief to more than 131,000 families affected by disasters which struck 39 states. On 105 occasions the organization rushed trained and volunteer workers and hundreds of nurses into the field in the wake of flood, fire, wind and earthquake and other catastrophes, the work being made possible because of the contributions made by citizens thruout the country.

In advance of the annual roll call to get under way shortly in Pennington county, a new Red Cross film featuring Shirley Temple will be shown in the near future at the Avalon theatre, Mrs. Quale announced.

September Electric Billings Above 1935 Despite Lower Rates

Despite the reduction in light rates which became effective with September billings from the municipal power plant, billings for the first month under the new schedule remained slightly ahead of the figure for the corresponding month of 1935, City Clerk P. G. Pederson revealed today. The figure for September this year was $8,198.22 compared to 9,002.17 for August and $8,167.92 for September, 1935. That the new rates represent a material saving to many users of electric current is indicated by Mr. Pederson's estimate that September billings would have been approximately $13,000 higher if the old rates had remained in effect.

COMMUNISTS BACK F.-L. CANDIDATES, STIENING CHARGES

Moorhead Senator Addresses Young Republican Club In City Friday

A dinner sponsored by the Pennington county Young Republican club last Friday evening at the Palm Garden cafe attracted an attendance of 65 persons who heard State Senator Henry C. Stiening of Moorhead cite the support being given by the Communist party to Farmer-Labor candidates for state office. In support of his charge Senator Stiening submitted literature being distributed by Communists in the current campaign.

The speaker further stated that Ernest Lundeen, candidate for the United States senate, and Elmer A. Benson, seeking the governorship, have endorsed Communist principles. He also devoted a portion of his address to a discussion of the mounting state expenditures under Farmer-Labor rule.

Representative Marius Waldal of Plummer spoke briefly and introduced George T. Jones of Bagley, candidate for the legislature for this district. LeRoy Rupprecht sang several cowboy songs, and Harold F. Harrison presented a group of piano solos, also furnishing the accompaniment for community singing. Richard Mabey, president of the Young Republican club, was in charge of the meeting.

YULE SEAL NURSE FINISHES SURVEY IN PENNINGTON CO.

Miss Mabel Johnson Finds Numerous Defects Needing Attention

A total of 1100 children were inspected in the St. Hilaire, Goodridge and Pennington rural schools during the Christmas seal school Health survey conducted here by Miss Mabel Johnson, certified public health nurse from the staff of the Minnesota Public Health Association.

Permanent health record cards, required by the State Department of Education, were filled out for each pupil by Miss Johnson. These records are kept on file at school.

The inspection included a cursory examination of each pupil to discover physical conditions needing attention, and health habits that need correction. It included weighing and measuring of each child and a study of the gains made by each child.

Special attention was given to the observance of posture in the pupils and suggestions for improving when it was not correct. Miss Johnson stressed the importance of proper posture for the sake of health, appearance and success in life.

Dental conditions were also noted in the survey. About one child in four was found to have dental condition that required the service of a dentist immediately.

It is unfortunate how many children neglect to go to the dentist until a toothache sends them because then it is often too late to save the tooth. If children would visit the dentist twice a year serious dental troubles could be prevented, Miss Johnson said, and the teeth would be better and the bills less.

In the local survey it was found that a small percentage of the children have been immunized against diphtheria and a smaller percentage of children vaccinated against small pox. The St. Hilaire school boasts a high immunization record. Neglect of these measures particularly in the case of young children was deplored by Miss Johnson. Immunization against diphtheria is advised for the child at the age of from six months to a year and by all means before he reaches school age. Small pox vaccination should be given the first year.

High praise for the excellent cooperation of the rural school teacher as well as the teaching staff at Goodridge and St. Hilaire was given by Miss Johnson.

Following the auction a lunch will be served after which the floor will be cleared and the members and their guests will enjoy a short old time dance.

DRYS RALLY IN THIS CITY FOR 2-DAY SESSION

Dr. R. N. Holsaple, Anti-Saloon Superintendent, in Charge

NEARLY 100 ATTEND LUNCHEON MONDAY

Supt. Morris Bye Tells of Temperance Work in the Local Schools

A series of spirited dry rallies held in this city Sunday and Monday under the sponsorship of the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league attracted a large attendance of pastors and workers in the cause from thruout this section of the state.

Featuring the two-day session, which was held under the direction of Dr. R. N. Holsaple, state superintendent of the league, was the presentation Sunday evening at the Auditorium of the drama "Death Takes the Steering Wheel", and a luncheon Monday noon in the Civic and Commerce association rooms attended by nearly 100 persons.

Speakers at the luncheon, over which Rev. E. A. Cooke presided as toastmaster, were Supt. Morris Bye of the local schools, Dr. Frank E. Day of Minneapolis and Dr. Holsaple. Mr. Bye outlined the complete program of temperance work being carried on in the public schools, under the mandate of an act of the legislature in 1934. Instruction in the evil effects of indulgence in beer and liquor, he said, begins in the fifth grade and is carried on thru high school in connection with social and scientific subjects.

Dr. Day declared that the state law allowing the sale of liquor at the same time the state orders instruction in the schools on the evils of drinking shows the insincerity of the advocates of the use of liquor. He also pointed out that the national administration had failed to protect dry areas against sales from wet territory.

The speaker asserted that the present situation is much worse than in the old saloon days, citing conditions in Minneapolis, which he said had more than 1,800 beer parlors and 200 liquor stores. He also made a plea for elimination of liquor advertisements from publications circulated in the state.

Dr. Holsaple complimented Mr. Bye on the complete program of temperance instruction in the local schools, and said he found the junior high school pupils unusually alert and well-informed on the problem. He said he finds that the young people in general are taking renewed interest in remedying the problem, and that they are much impressed by laboratory tests showing the effects of alcohol on the human system.

At a meeting of the women's section held following the luncheon in the Legion club room, speakers were Mrs. Bert Levins of Crookston; Mrs. Stuart of Tenstrike; and Mrs. J. M. Bishop of this city. A citizenship and good government session was addressed by Judge M. A. Brattland and Senator E. L. Tungseth.

WINNING LINCOLN TEAM TO TAKE ON MAHNOMEN FRIDAY

Local Team Wins Decisively From Grafton by Score of 19 to 0

With a record of four successive victories behind them, Coach George Lee's Lincoln high school football team is set to make it five straight when the Mahnomen high school team comes Friday evening for a contest under floodlights on Lincoln athletic field.

Playing against Grafton on the local field last Friday evening, the Prowlers had little difficulty in turning back the visitors, the final score being 19 to 0.

Thief River's line outcharged Grafton's all the way and held the North Dakotans to two first downs while the Prowlers piled up 14. Grafton failed to make a single scoring threat, being unable to get plays under way before the Prowlers smashed them back.

Mickelson opened the scoring in the first quarter, taking a pass from Nesse on the 20-yard line and trotting unmolested over the line. Nesse kicked the point after.

Hill counted in the third quarter on a wide sweep around right end from the 25 yard stripe but the kick for point after failed. Nesse completed the scoring in the final frame with a 30-yard dash through Grafton's line but again the kick for point failed.

122 STUDENTS ARE NOW BEING GIVEN BAND INSTRUCTION

Band instruction in the local schools is being conducted on an enlarged scale this year, Supt. Morris Bye reported at the October meeting of the board of education Monday evening. At present, he said, 122 pupils are enrolled for band work, including 41 in the high school and 81 beginners in the lower grades.

The board at its meetings authorized the purchase of a number of larger instruments suitable only for band work at a net cost of $294. They include a baritone euphonium two French horns, a pair of Turkish cymbals, a pair of band cymbals, a tuning bar and two dozen music stands.

COUNCIL SETS LEVY OF $41,000 FOR NEXT YEAR

Increase of $6,600 Is Due Mainly to Needs for Relief Purposes

CITIES ALONG RIVER ASK WATER RELEASE

Grant Permit to McFarland for Construction of Two Houses

A levy of $41,000 for municipal purposes was voted by the city council in a lengthy session Tuesday evening. This figure represents an increase of $6,600 above the levy adopted a year ago, the rise being due mainly to a $4,600 increase in the allowance for relief purposes, the council taking the position that this fund should be kept as nearly as possible on a cash basis.

The following figures give a comparison of the items in the budget for 1936 and 1935:

Poor relief	$12,000	$7,400
Auditorium	5,000	5,000
Library	4,000	4,000
Permanent impr.	8,000	6,000
Parks	4,000	4,000
Cemetery	400	400
Paving impr. No. 1	7,000	7,000
Band fund	600	600
	$41,000	$34,400

With an estimated total assessed valuation in the city, after deducting exemptions, of $1,285,000, City Clerk P. G. Pederson stated that the mill levy should be about 31 mills for city purposes, compared to a levy of 28.83 mills made last year. To this will be added the bond and interest levy by the state of approximately $2,500.

A delegation of Crookston, Grand Forks and East Grand Forks officials appeared at the meeting to request that water be released from above the dam in this city to aid in relieving a critical water shortage in the communities farther down the river.

Mayor W. W. Prichard stated that with water coming out of the Red Lake outlet at the rate of ten cubic feet per second, the level in the pool here has risen during the past week at the rate of approximately one inch a day, altho a continued rise for a considerable period would be necessary to bring the pool up to the desired level.

Mr. Prichard pointed out the necessity of this city cooperating with others along the river to their mutual benefit, and after some further discussion the council went on record in favor of holding the pool at its present level for the time being and allowing what water is coming down from Red Lake to pass thru the dam. The visiting delegation expressed its satisfaction with this offer.

M. T. McFarland was granted a permit to erec wit H permit to erect two more bungalows on Arnold av. N. at an estimated cost of $2,000 each. Other permits were granted to the Detroit Lakes Amusement company for remodeling the Lyceum theatre at a cost of $3,000; W. K. Knight, remodeling residence, $500; and Rasmus Oen, reshingling residence, $125. A request for a permit to erect a Seventh Day Adventist tabernacle at a cost of from $800 to $1,000 was laid over for further consideration.

In Memoriam

Twelve sad months have passed, dear Pearl,
Since that eve you went away,
And our hearts are sad and lonely,
For we miss you more each day.
How we loved you dearest Pearl,
You were oh so kind and good
Why we had to lose you darling,
Cannot now be understood.
You will never be forgotten,
Never will your memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts will always linger
Round the grave where you are laid.
Farewell again then dearly loved one,
May God give us strength to bear,
And the grace to fully trust Him
Until our work is ended here.

SAVES NEIGHBOR'S CATTLE IN AN ALFALFA FIELD

Ellendale.—A herd of thirty cattle was saved for a farmer at Beaver Lake through his neighbor's watchfulness. When the Thompson and Stutesman families left on a Sunday morning trip to Harmony they turned their cattle into an alfalfa field as they had done a week. Due to the fact that a heavy dew had fallen the cattle were affected with alfalfa bloat and a passing neighbor who saw that the cows were down instructed his wife and children to drive them out of the alfalfa while he put in an emergency call to the veterinarian. With the exception of one cow and one large steer, all of the cattle in the herd of about 30 were saved.

STATE TAX LEVY INCREASES COST BIG TOTAL HERE

Tax Relief Group Announces Figures for Pennington County

With political speeches filling the air claiming credit for tax reductions, the Citizens' Tax Relief Association came out today with an analysis showing that the amount of the state tax levy has increased 75 per cent in the last five years and pointing out what this increase has meant in dollars and cents to this county.

Taxes levied against property owners in this county for state purposes have jumped as follows, the association reported:

1935 levy, collected in 1936 48,452
Increase $21,121

"With so many candidates for state offices striving for attention, it is natural that we should hear many claims of tax reductions," John P. Scott, president of the association, said. "Taxes invariably are reduced in campaign speeches, and this year is no exception. Before getting too enthusiastic about the claims, however, it is well to look up your tax statements and see what has happened.

"Reductions have been made in the taxes imposed on property in many communities in the last five years. Candidates for state offices occasionally are tempted to claim credit for this achievement. As a matter of fact, the reductions that have been made are due entirely to the cuts made in local levies when taxpayers rose in their might and demanded that their officials reduce expenditures.

Halvor Moland Passes Away at His Home Tues.

Halvor Moland died Tuesday afternoon, October 13, at his home in the township of North, where he has resided for the past twenty-two years. He was seventy years of age at the time of his death.

Mr. Moland was born in Hesper, Ia., December 13, 1865. He moved from Hesper to Harmony, Minn., where he was married on November 29, 1906, to Helen Kosen. Three years later they moved to Excel township, Marshall county, where they lived until 1914, when they moved to their present home.

Surviving relatives are Mr. Moland's wife, his children Mrs. J. G. Thingvold of Mabel, Mrs. Olaf Gardnes of Minneapolis, Mrs. Ida Nelson of San Francisco, and Miss Elizabeth Moland of Harmony; and his brothers John Severson of Edmore, N. D., and Oscar Severson of Sidney, Ia. His parents, one brother, and one sister preceded him in death.

Funeral services will be held Friday, Oct. 16, at the Moland home in the township of North at one p. m. and at the Trinity Lutheran church in this city at two p. m. Reverend Fjelstad will officiate. The body will be taken to Harmony for final rites and interment.

Generation Reproached

This generation is reproached for putting off the manners of the last—but it has gained by substituting more sincerity.

Mrs. Charles O. Olson Dies at Fergus Falls

Mrs. Charles O. Olson, formerly of this city, died at Wright hospital at Fergus Falls September 30 at the age of sixty-eight years. Mrs. Olson left this city in September, 1935, to make her home with her daughter at Fergus Falls.

Gena Hegland Olson was born at Newburg, Fillmore Co., Minn., on May 8, 1868. At the age of fourteen years, she came with her parents to Ada, living there for three years, after which the family moved to a farm west of this city, where on March 24, 1891 she was married to Charles O. Olson. They resided in this city where Mr. Olson was engaged in the lumber industry. In 1913 they moved to Big River, Sask., Can., where they remained until 1921, then going to St. Joe, Idaho, for two years. Again they moved to Canada and then to Spokane, Wash., returning to their home in this city in 1931. Mr. Olson died in April, 1932. His wife continued to make her home here until 1935, when because of illness she moved to Fergus Falls to live with her daughter.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Karwand and a grandson, Elwood of Fergus Falls, two sisters, Mrs. Julia Garden and Mrs. Dina Morrison, both of Warren, and one brother, Marshall Hegland of this city.

Funeral services were held from the Scandinavian Evangelican church in this city Saturday, Oct. 3, Rev. J. O. Jacobson, officiating. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Fog and Peat Smoke Tie up Traffic Saturday

A fog last Saturday morning held down an extremely heavy blanket of peat smoke that blotted out the landscape and kept virtually all traffic at a standstill until noon in this locality, altho nearby communities reported having experienced no difficulty. The mercury dropped below the 20 degree mark Monday morning, the lowest reading of the week, and snow flurries were in evidence in the afternoon. The temperature since has warmed up considerably.

FIRST MONTH'S FIGURES

Figures for the September light and power billing indicate that the city's recent rate reduction represents an average saving of about fifteen per cent to the consumers. City clerk Pederson estimates that under the old rate the total billing for the month would have been in the neighborhood of $9,500. The actual total under the new rate was $8,198.22, a decrease of $800 from the August total and approximately the same as the September total of a year ago. This result should overcome any fears that the new rates will embarass the city financially. Thanks to the increased demand, there will be no decrease in gross revenue, and the slight decrease in net revenue at this time will probably be overcome by a more rapidly increasing volume as the lower rates encourage greater consumption. With our present rate structure, much of the uncertainty of future rate revisions will be eliminated. It is fair to state therefore that this first step in the rate revision program has been reasonably successful.

THE PRIZE BLUNDER

It would seem that the prize blunder of the political campaign to date was committed by the Democrats when they pulled their candidates for Senator and Governor out of the race. Judging from the reactions among the Democrats themselves, it will mean very few additional votes for the Farmer-Labor candidates for these offices. Most of those Democrats who would have voted for the Democratic candidates will now swing their support to the Republicans. Nor will the results of this blunder be confined to Minnesota. The situation has aroused nation wide interest and the Democratic high command is being openly criticized from within its own ranks for its evident willingness to wreck the party in order to advance the interests of one man. Even the New York Times, friendly to the administration as it is, concludes a scathing rebuke in this language:

> When Daniel Webster was told that the Whig party was about to be dissolved, he cried out in deep concern, "Where shall I go?" The same question is seemingly being asked today by some Minnesota Democrats. They are told that they are temporarily to go to the Farmer-Labor party, but they have attacked and hated that party for years. They are assured that their self-abnegation is the best way to elect a Democratic President, but if a vigorous Democratic organization working for that end is not the best means to attain it then their political education has been all wrong. All things considered, the political situation in Minnesota is not only mixed but pitiable, the victims of party strategy being almost as deserving of sympathy as the victims of the drought.

During the past week the water level above the dam has come up considerably. Daily measurements indicate a rise of about a tenth of a foot a day or one foot every ten days. At this rate there isn't any danger of an overflow at the dam this fall but it is possible that the pond may be pretty well filled by freeze-up time. And a well filled reservoir should mean something in the quality of the winter's drinking supply.

Farmers hereabouts are mighty grateful for the fine weather this fall that has enabled them to handle a late crop under most favorable conditions. Another week or two of the drouth can still be used to good advantage however. There still is quite a bit of threshing to be done in spots and each day's threshing means a lot of dollars. So let's not be too urgent in our demand for rain.

What happened to the cost of state government in Minnesota as compared to other states during the depression years is revealed by a chart reproduced on page sixteen of this issue. Most states, like most units of local government, have reduced their expenses during these lean years. Minnesota, however, has moved in the opposite direction. Comparing what has happened in this state with such neighboring states as North and South Dakota for instance, justifies only one conclusion and that is that we, as a state, have been mighty careless with our money these last few years. Perhaps this condition in Minnesota is due to the prevailing idea that we can place the burden of increased expenditures on our rich. In the Dakotas, where the politicians have no rich to talk about, the people have realized that they themselves must pay the bills and therefore they have been more insistent in their demands for economy.

WHY PEOPLE ARE JOBLESS
(Knoxville, Tenn., Journal)

Arkansas has been called the "wonder state" by President Roosevelt. Its soil is so wonderful that in 1934 and 1935 he gave the cotton planters $55,313,740 to stop growing cotton.

The planters discharged their workers because there was no work to be done.

These workers were put on relief and the WPA by President Roosevelt. He has spent $88,000,000 of the industrial workers' money on these "unemployed."

One hundred and forty-three million dollars to the wonder state of Arkansas in three years!

One hundred thousand men in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois and Ohio must work one whole year to pay for that gift to Arkansas, the antilabor citadel of Joe T. Robinson and the New Deal.

TOUGH ON THE TAXPAYER
(Detroit Free Press)

Some time ago, Rexford Tugwell appeared before the senate committee on appropriations to plead for a deficiency appropriation so he could keep on playing with the socialistic "subsistence homestead" projects. A report on the hearings has been made public. It discloses these facts:

According to the original estimate, the homesteads were to cost about $2,000 per family.

Dr. Tugwell admitted to the committee that those built near Houston, Texas, were really costing $6,814 for each of the 100 families accommodated. The 200 at Jersey Homesteads were costing $7,850 each, the 165 at Arthurdale, W. Va., $10,370 each; the 170 at Tygart Valley, W. Va., $11,143 each, and those at Sioux Falls, S. D., $20,781 each.

This runs into money. The excess alone would take care of a lot of drouth victims. And Tugwell admitted that there is no chance for the government to "recover" any of the money from the homesteaders. They haven't got it. The rest of us will sweat and pay.

SAVING LIVES
(Duluth Herald)

The safety campaign in Minnesota during September proved that when there is a coordinated effort on the part of the people to prevent traffic fatalities the result is successful. But why confine the safety movement to one month? Why not make every month, or every day, in the year an occasion for driving carefully and walking carefully so that the toll of death and injuries can be reduced? If, as it has been shown in the past month of September, a reduction of 20 per cent can be made in the unnecessary deaths from motor vehicle accidents on the streets and highways, it should be possible to do better during all the other months in the year.

A. V. Rohweder, chairman of the Minnesota Public Safety committee, was much pleased to announce that during September there were only 51 deaths from motor vehicle accidents in the state, compared to 61 last year and 64 in 1934.—This is a good showing, a practical saving of 13 lives, but there is no sound reason why it should not be improved. Fifty one fatalities from motor vehicle accidents in one month are far too many. At the same rate there would be 612 such fatalities in Minnesota this year. When it is remembered that this toll of death is unnecessary, that all traffic accidents are preventable, the public should make increasing efforts every day to stop the slaughter.

A POLITICAL DEAL
(Minneapolis Star)

Withdrawal of Fred A. Curtis and Patrick J. Delaney as Democratic candidates for governor and United States senator creates the unprecedented situation of a major political party unrepresented on the November ballot for these two high offices.

Not since Minnesota became a state has the election ballot lacked a candidate of a major party.

In good faith and in a fair and open primary, the rank and file of the Democratic party cast its ballots for the men representing that faith. Now, at a time too late for them to pick other candidates if they had wished to, these voters who are earnest in their allegiance to their party and its beliefs, find their party non-existent as far as this election and the two offices involved are concerned.

The maneuver by which party leaders deprived these voters of party representation is calculated to bring Democratic support for Farmer-Laborite candidates in exchange for Farmer-Labor support of the national Democratic ticket.

But will that be the actual result? It is highly probable that the bargain struck by the two parties will create on both sides as much resentment or more, than satisfaction. The votes may not swing the way the party leaders expect they will.

The basic rights of voters are involved here. The very essence of democracy is that the citizens themselves shall choose their candidates. Any party or party leaders that tamper with these rights in vote-trading deals are breaking faith with their party memberships.

LANDON'S WAY AND ROOSEVELT'S
(Boston Herald)

Governor Landon is interpreting himself to the people of the United States in his own way, and is not taking the advice of those who are urging a series of spectacular performances. He is doing the day's routine work as in the past, and there is not the slightest sign that his new honors have affected at all his ideas of what a governor or a candidate should say or do. He shows his customary restraint and his regard for the proprieties. Appeals to the emotions are absent. There are no flamboyant commitments. We have had so many glowing promises from the President, so much action that does not square with official words, and such an amount of selfish political maneuvering when it was not called for that a man who is calm and moderate, who errs on the side of understatement and does not carry partisanship into all relations of life is a wholesome contrast. And the people will be shrewd enough to draw the proper conclusion.

INCONSISTENCY
(Perham Enterprise-Bulletin)

Senator Benson, now Candidate Benson, reminds us of some fathers we have seen. When children are naughty they belong to the wife; when they are deserving of some particular credit they take after him. Whatever the unregenerate Republican legislators did that was good is the product of the Farmer-Labor administration. All that was done that was bad was exclusively their own doing.

Ted Christianson says that the real "economic royalists" in America are those wealthy men who are hungrily buying up the millions and billions of dollars of tax exempt securities being issued to finance the New Deal spending. He presented a resolution in Congress to remove government securities from the tax exempt list, but President Roosevelt insisted that the proposal be killed. "As a result we find that the only man who is escaping payment of the fantastic tax bill run up by the New Deal spending is the wealthy man who loans money to the New Deal, then sits back and draws interest on the loan without fear of taxation," says Ted. And every time Roosevelt borrows a bunch of money, he creates some more "economic royalists."—Mower Tribune.

Red Lake Falls is practically unanimous in opposing the project of a special ditch to divert Poplar River into Tamarack and Badger lakes and thence to Maple Lake. We do not blame the property owners of Maple Lake for wishing to restore the lake but to divert the waters of the Poplar River would deprive the Clearwater river of water that it badly needs and the diversion would not appreciably change the level of Maple Lake. Red Lake Falls for years has been dependent upon the Clearwater river for its city water supply and for sewage disposal and the city will strenuously fight any attempt to lessen the all too scanty flow of the stream. Maple Lake should look elsewhere for relief.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

Foreign trade policies put into effect on treaties covering importation of agricultural products, are a matter of more than farm policy. They are also a part of labor policy. As George Peek, former [illegible] with the New Deal, stated: "Organized labor has recognized the dangers of cheap, immigrant labor. But that labor entering as goods is even more dangerous, for the goods are not consumers and the immigrants are." Cans of canned meat from South America and hams from Poland, imported into this country, take work from Minnesota laboring men. More of that kind of importation is a result of policies of the New Deal administration put into effect in the last three years.—Montevideo News.

BEARS RAID CABINS

Virginia.—Seven cabin robberies committeed in the wooded areas north of Virginia were solved when it was found the offenders were bears. The animals obtained entrance to the cabins by tearing off screen doors and forcing the other doors open, taking bacon and other foodstuffs. The only clews found in investigations were the imprints of the bear's feet and strands of hair on the door sill.

To The Voters
—of the—
FIRST COMMISSIONER DISTRICT

At the request of friends, and because of recent developments in the contest for commissioner in this district, I have re-entered the race and am now a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner from this district.

Having been eliminated in the primary election by only a small margin of votes I believe this action will meet with the approval of a large number of the voters of the district.

If re-elected I pledge my continued support to the program of economy that has put the county back on a cash basis again and will give all townships of the district fair and impartial representation.

Stickers will be distributed for your convenience before the election. Your vote and your support will be appreciated.

REEMPLOYMENT ITEMS
Interviewer, E. R. Stangbelle

A nation-wide Reinterviewing program has recently been undertaken by the National Reemployment Service for the purpose of making a more intensive study of applicants' qualifications for positions and an increased effort to place qualified applicants with private employers is under way.

In order to satisfactorily accomplish the Reinterviewing Program and to justifiably handle the increase of activity, an additional interviewer has been added to the local staff.

The nation-wide Employment Service comprises 700 district or principal offices with 1,000 additional offices whose primary objective is to "Fit opportunity for each unemployed worker and fit placement in each unoccupied job."

Can the employer be reasonably sure to secure someone fitted for his vacancy? Yes, because every interviewer is equipped with a dictionary of information for all occupational abilities, tests the applicants on the basis of his past work experience, and because the interviewer is trained to detect characteristics of similarity among affiliated classes of work.

For the week ending October 3, 1936, 1277 men and 213 women were registered at the Thief River Falls office. Over 144 persons contacted the office for work, 28 persons were referred to jobs, 26 persons were reported placed, 11 placed with private employers.

From July 1st to September 12, 1936, 636 public employment placements were made by the local office. This figure constitutes placements made with the Works Progress Administration, the Public Works Administration, other miscellaneous governmental enterprises and chiefly with private contractors operating under the Bureau of Public Roads.

In anticipation of a new building program, persons skilled in the building trades should register with the local interviewer.

The local manager is proud to announce that many employers have commented on the satisfactory and convenient service they have received from the National Re-employment Service. We invite you to try this Service.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1936 General Election

HARRY H. PETERSON
Attorney General
St. Paul, Minnesota, April 29, 1936
Honorable Mike Holm,
Secretary of State,

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of Section 44 of Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, I herewith furnish you a statement of the purpose and effect of all proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of said state at the general election in 1936, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the 1935 legislature.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 393 of the Laws of 1935 the legislature has proposed an amendment to Article 8 of the State Constitution. The proposed amendment, if adopted, will not alter the form of any existing section of the Constitution, but will add a new section to be known as Section 8 of said Article 8.

The proposed amendment reads as follows:

"Any of the public lands of the state, including lands held in trust for any purpose, may, with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor, be exchanged for lands of the United States and other privately owned lands as the legislature may provide, and the lands so acquired shall be subject to the trust, if any, to which the lands exchanged therefor were subject, and the state shall reserve all mineral and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to provide for exchanging any of the public lands of the state for lands of the United States and land privately owned, such exchanges to be made with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor. Such exchange of land cannot now be made because the State Constitution does not permit the legislature to authorize the sale of school lands, state swamp lands and state internal improvement lands except by public sale. One immediate purpose in granting such authority is to make it possible for the state to acquire compact areas of land for forestry and other conservation purposes by exchanging land outside of such conservation areas for lands of the United States and privately owned lands within such areas.

The proposed amendment requires that all mineral rights, water rights and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state shall be reserved. The land so acquired will become subject to the same trust, if any, as the land disposed of. For example, if school land is given in exchange, the land received will become school land.

By the adoption of Chapter 331 of the Laws of 1935, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section 1 of Article 9 of the State Constitution.

This section now reads as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, this section will read as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200.00 for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads.

"Provided further, that after January 1, 1937, no tax shall be imposed on any real or tangible personal property for any state purpose, except that authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of this Constitution, and/or for the payment of indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January 1, 1937; but this proviso shall not limit, but the state shall have, the right to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to prohibit the imposition of any taxes on real or tangible personal property after January 1, 1937 for any state purpose, except as hereinafter stated, without limiting the right of the state to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind, said proposed amendment declaring that the state shall have the right to impose such taxes.

If the said amendment is adopted the state will retain the right to impose taxes on real or tangible personal property for either or both of the following purposes:

(1) To provide funds to be used to construct or improve roads and bridges in this state, as authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of the State Constitution, for which purpose, under Section 16 of said Article 9, the legislature in its discretion is authorized to provide for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state, of not to exceed in any year one mill on all the taxable property within the state; and

(2) To raise money to pay indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January 1, 1937.

Respectfully yours,
HARRY H. PETERSON,

SWALLOWING NAIL TRIFLE TO BABY

Hackensack.— Modern mothers who worry constantly over their children's stomachs behaving in obstinate and impractical ways, may give up their books by child experts and obtain a little first hand advice on building a cast iron constitution from Mrs. Roy Johnson of Birch Lake township, whose 12 months old baby has demonstrated his ability as a miniature sword swallower. When the youngster started one of his daily investigation tours he was struck by the desirability of a shiny pointed object on the ground, and desiring to come into closer contact with his prize he put it into his mouth and his ambition was realized, the object slipped down his throat and into his stomach. The next morning the baby squirmed uncomfortably with a pain in his stomach. Out came the castor oil and a few hours later, also a nail passed through all the quirks and curves of a baby's stomach with absolutely no ill effects.

GIVE SUGGESTIONS AS TO CHANGES IN SOILS PROGRAM

Requests of County Farmers Receive Attention of Committee

At a meeting Monday of the board of directors of the Pennington County Agricultural Conservation association, the suggestions for improvements for a 1937 program as obtained from the meetings held in the county for this purpose were discussed.

The following suggestions were approved by the committee as practical and fitting into the needs of this county and territory as changes which would improve the program and still effectuate the purposes of the act.

1. That since summer fallow in this territory is carried on for the purpose of weed control and since this is the only practical method of combating this menace as cultivated crops are not grown extensively enough to be used for this purpose it is very important to this part of the state that land uses for this purpose should be classified as soil conserving. This practice, however, in addition to the weeds already allowed should include French weed, mustards and wild oats. This land to be plowed before July 1st and kept black all summer.

That all legumes plowed under as green manure before July 1st and land kept black the balance of the summer be included as a soil building practice and payment of $1.50 an acre be allowed.

3. That a maintenance payment be made after a certain percentage of the crop land has been put in soil conserving crops to equalize payment to men who have a large percentage of their land in soil conserving crops and to in this way encourage them to keep this acreage in soil conserving crops.

4. That a payment be computed for each farm based upon the crop acres of that farm so each farmer would know in the spring just what payment could be earned on his farm.

5. Crop Insurance: The present program offers a certain amount of insurance particularly when the farmer knows in the spring just what payment can be earned on his farm that year.

Along with this program loans on stored wheat, oats, barley and flax stored on the farm similar to the corn loans in the opinion of those in this county offered the most feasible form of crop insurance to the farmers in this territory.

500 AT REPUBLICAN RALLY HELD IN THIS CITY TUESDAY NIGHT

New Deal measures on the grounds that they were emergency legislation but that he had been forced to break with the New Deal when its farm policies and foreign trade agreements became in his opinion injurious to the interests of farmers in this section.

Criticizing the increasing cost of government operation, Christianson scored the theory that increased governmental spending is the solution to economic problems.

"If we follow the advice of those political doctors", Christianson said, "who tell us that the cure for the after effects of too much debt is more debt then I fear that someone after our autopsy has been performed will have the painful duty of announcing that the treatment was successful but unfortunately the patient died."

Arthur E. Nelson, former mayor of St. Paul and the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor charged Farmer-Labor leaders with "putting the labor end of their party on strike against the farmer end." Citing the recent mill strike in Minneapolis, Nelson asserted that farmers of this territory had been "beaten out of from 5c to 10c per bushel by reason of the fact that grain which should have been consigned to Minneapolis had to be routed to other market.

Asserting that Farmer-Labor leadership is in the hands of "corrupt political connivers of Minneapolis and St. Paul" Nelson stated that these leaders seemed proud of the fact that they had been endorsed by the Communist party.

"Only last Sunday," Nelson said, "at a district meeting of the Farmer Labor party held at Little Falls and attended by some 150 people, candidates of the Farmer Labor party boastfully stated from the platform that they were proud of the international attention they were receiving."

"The blessing of Red Russia is the only international attention Farmer-Laborites are receiving," Nelson asserted "and this blessing is evidenced by the fact that printed literature of the Communist party carried a strong appeal for the support of the Farmer-Labor candidates in Minnesota."

Speaking on the same program, Elmer Haugen, Republican candidate for Congress in the 9th congressional district denounced the reciprocal trade treaties of the New Deal administration which he asserted were a "menacing threat" to the farmers of this territory.

Haugen said that the dairy industry and the growing of grass seed, two of the largest agricultural pursuits in Northwestern Minnesota now not only had to meet "ruinous competition" from foreign producers but were faced with further competition from Southern states where decreased cotton production brought on by the administrations farm policies has disturbed the normal agricultural program of Southern farmers.

Boomerang Old

There is evidence that the boomerang was known to paleolithic Europeans. It was used in ancient Egypt and is still used by Australian natives and by some tribes of India and of American Indians.

PENNINGTON CO'S. SHARE IN NEW DEAL DEBT IS $875,000

State's Share $300,000,000, Republican National Committee Says

Minnesota's eighty-seven counties are holding the bag to the tune of $300,800,000 as their share of the Roosevelt New Deal Administration's enormous national deficit of $12,800,000,000 on the basis of a reckoning made at this time, the Republican National Committee disclosed today.

Pointing to President Roosevelt's own statement in Pittsburgh in 1932 when he said: "Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors," the Republican National Committee shows that the burden of New Deal extravagant spending falls heaviest, in all Minnesota counties, upon those who have jobs, own property or rent a home or farm.

Minnesota's quota of the national deficit of more than three-hundred million dollars piled up under the Roosevelt Administration has been broken down into county deficit quotas, which show staggering sums for each county in Minnesota to shoulder. The county deficit quotas in Northern Minnesota are:

Pennington	$ 875,000
Red Lake	506,000
Marshall	1,471,000
Clearwater	713,000
Polk	3,342,000

In figuring the state and county deficit quotas two-thirds weight has been given to percentages of wealth (as estimated by Robert R. Doane in the Annalist, New York Times, for November 15, 1935) and one-third weight to percentages of population.

The state quotas have been divided into quotas of the counties in each state by giving two-thirds weight to assessed values of property, and one-third to population.

PRES. ROOSEVELT MAKES SPEECH IN ST. PAUL FRIDAY

Gives First Address of Campaign Tour at State Capitol

Standing before Minnesota's state house in St. Paul, President Roosevelt Friday night attributed to reciprocal trade treaties an "increased general trade" which he said was benefitting American industry and agriculture alike.

The first major address of his 5,000 mile campaign swing through some of the nation's finest agricultural centers, it produced:

An assurance of continued active support for farm co-operatives from the administration, a statement that the AAA had depicted "economic democracy in action," and references to such varied topics as dictatorship, the new international monetary accord and world peace.

Speaking just across the Mississippi river from Minneapolis, where Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas recently criticized the administration's reciprocal tariff program, the president contended that these activities were one influence toward "economic co-operation which leads to international peace."

Thousands of persons packed into the plaza in front of the capitol burst into a cheer as the president's car rolled up just after dusk had fallen and brought the lights twinkling from windows of office buildings and homes spreading out from the base of the hill on which the capitol stands.

He left Billings on Tuesday evening and expected to be back at 4 a. m. Thursday morning.

Washburn, pioneer of flour milling are the eight who are being honored.

The names were selected by a committee of university staff members including Professor Theodore Blegen, superintendent of the Minnesota Historical Society.

Lundeen in Keynote Asks Social Security

Congressman Ernest Lundeen, Farmer Labor candidate for the U. S. Senate, placed two propositions squarely before the people of Minnesota in his keynote address last Friday night, delivered from Alvin Theatre, Minneapolis, over a six-station radio hookup. These propositions are: The necessity for security at home.—The necessity for neutrality abroad. "Strict adherence to these two principles", he declared, "are imperative if the democratic form of government is to survive and progress, and the American standard of living be maintained."

SOIL CONSERVATION UNIT TO PLANT 1,390,600 TREES

This fall 1,390,600 trees and shrub seedlings will be planted for erosion control in southeastern Minnesota, it was announced this week by A. F. Laidlaw, supervising forester for the Soil Conservation Service in this state. The plantings will consist of 457,500 conifer seedlings, 788,000 hardwoods, and 145,100 shrubs. In addition, 19,233 pounds of hardwood seed will be planted.

SOILS PAYMENTS START SOON, SAYS ADMINISTRATOR

Initial Payment to be 90 Per Cent, Says Washington Official

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today that initial payments of 90 per cent would be made to producers under the 1936 Agricultural Conservation Program in the North Central region. Payments will be made as rapidly as possible, but due to the amount of work involved several weeks will elapse before they can go out in volume.

H. R. Tolley, Administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act and related Acts, said: "The decision to make initial payments of 90 per cent in some Regions is in line with the policy previously followed. In former years administrative expenses have been deducted from the second part of the payment, and the same procedure will be followed this year. Complete information on participation and expenses will not be available for several weeks," Mr. Tolley added, "although it is known that the number of farmers taking part in the program is in the neighborhood of 4,000,000. This is substantially in excess of participation for any one year under the adjustment programs.

"From the standpoint of sound business procedure, therefore, it was deemed advisable to take advantage of the safeguards provided by the program in order to avoid possible deficits, and, at the same time, avoid holding up a large share of the applications for payments until all of them are completed.

"The second part of the payment will be made as soon as participation and the expenses of the County Conservation Associations have been determined. It is contemplated that they can be exactly determined around December 1, and applications approved after that date will be paid in full with a single check. It may be found that available funds will permit the rates of payment to be increased in the Regions where county administrative expenses are deducted from the payments. Any adjustment made in any Region will be uniform throughout the Region."

Valley Winter Shows Will be Conducted Feb. 8-12, Officials State

The annual Northwest School Farmer's Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows will be held during the week of February 8 to 12 according to a recent announcement by Winter Shows officials. This will be the twenty-seventh annual meeting, sponsored by the Northwest School and numerous regional organizations.

Last year a disastrous fire gutted the main livestock barn three days before the official opening. Organizations and individuals by the score offered full cooperation and rushed temporary repairs so that the Valley classic could be held as scheduled. Repair work was handicapped by the most severe weather ever experienced, with the thermometer ranging from 29 to 42 below zero throughout the week. The attendance, however, exceeded 8000, and the agricultural, 4-H Club, and industrial exhibits were the best in years. The varied educational program established a new standard of excellence for these important mid-winter meetings.

The Winter Shows board of managers, composed of representatives of the various cooperating organizations, will coordinate the activities of the week. Superintendent A. A. Dowell, is president of the board, while John Saugstad is business manager. Other members include F. A. Green, Stephen, Red River Valley Livestock association; C. M. Peack, Secretary of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association; R. S. Dunham, Secretary of the Red River Valley Crops and Soils association; H. A. Pflughoeft, Boys' and girls' 4-H club leader; C. L. McNelly, St. Paul, district county agent leader; E. W. Spring, Secretary of the Red River Valley Development association; and representative of the Crookston Association of Public Affairs: and Harold Thomforde, secretary, Northern Minnesota Poultry association.

News and Comment

By R. W. Hitchcock

At Appleton in his keynote speech, Candidate Benson said (1) that republicans have always controlled the legislature, (2) republicans are responsible for what the legislature has done.

What did the legislature do in the last six years? It enacted the mortgage moratorium, the income tax law, the relief bill, chain store tax, old age pension act, homestead tax law, increased aid to schools, conservation act, pensions for the blind, regulation of the sale of timber act, aid to high and college students, levy on oleo-margarine.

Farmer-labor claims all these things as its accomplishments. The list is practically all that farmer-labor lays claim to as its accomplishments in the last six years. But Elmer Benson, farmer-labor candidate for governor, says that the republicans are responsible for all these things.

According to the keynote testimony of the farmer-labor candidate for governor, farmer-labor cannot claim credit for anything that has been accomplished in the last six years. The republicans are responsible for it all.

Perhaps Candidate Benson repented of his depriving his party of any and all accomplishments during the last six years. At least in his radio address of September 29th he made a gallant effort to give his party credit for something.

He declared that farmer-labor distributed $22,000,000 in state aid to local communities for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936. It was because of this farmer-labor largess, all bestowed in the twelve months ending June 30, 1936, that the local communities of the state during the last six years, have been able to reduce their burden of taxation $27,000,000, Banker Benson said.

This astonishing news made the state sit up and take notice. Here, without anybody's knowing about it, farmer-labor had done a whale of a service to the people of the state.

But suddenly some black republican remembered that it was a "republican controlled" legislature that had done this. Candidate Benson had said so; Candidate Benson had even said that the republicans were responsible.

So it wasn't farmer-labor after all that had conferred this benefit on the people. It was the same old republicans who had passed the old age pension law and the mortgage moratorium act and the chain store bill and all the other things that farmer-labor declares so roundly are good.

Meanwhile a lot of farmers and businessmen out in the hinterland had been scratching their heads and wondering how come that 22 millions appropriated by the legislature in 1935 had enabled them to reduce their local taxes 27 millions several years before.

It will take more than a smart man like Banker Benson to explain that to the hinterland.

Pleased with himself at mouthing a 22 million dollar service for his party, Candidate Benson, in his radio address, took another fling at figures. Forgetting again that he had said that a republican legislature was responsible, he declared that for the fiscal year ending June 30th farmer-labor had distributed $14,000,000 state aid to the schools while in the last year of Theodore Christianson republicans had distributed only $7,000,000.

Candidate Benson had better buy himself a new adding machine. The old one is doing him dirt.

The official records of the state, which are more reliable than any farmer-labor speaker, show the following distribution of aid to schools:

Last Year of Theodore Christianson
Appropriation by legislature	$ 5,610,000
Appropriation from current school fund	500,000
Apportionment from general school fund	3,596,621
Total	$ 9,706,621
Year ending June 30, 1936
Appropriation by legislature	$ 6,500,000
Appropriation from current school fund	500,000
Apportionment from general school fund	3,639,059
Income tax	3,076,960
Total	$12,746,019

Here is an increase of about $3,000,000, most of which is income tax diverted to the schools by republican action. The increase in legislative appropriation was made by a republican legislature. The permanent school fund is growing each year, so the interest from this source was somewhat greater.

What had farmer-labor to do with these increases? Absolutely nothing, except that the farmer-labor minority in the legislature voted for most of the increases, as did, also, the republican majority—and if it hadn't been for the republican majority, the increases would not have been made.

The state even has the testimony of Candidate Benson to this effect, for he emphatically declared that the republicans have always controlled the legislature and that the republicans are responsible for what the legislature has done.

Candidate Benson's adding machine did him wrong in another respect. It made him say in his radio address that "despite the aid given to the local communities, the appropriations for our state government were less under the Olson administration than under the Christianson administration."

According to the official records of the state the total appropriations for the Christianson administration were 123.5 million ($123,457,034.75) and the appropriations for the Olson administration were 124.35 millions ($121,348,319.17), so that the appropriations for the Olson administration were actually $851,284.42 greater than those of the Christianson administration.

The only significance of this is that Candidate Benson's adding machine made him say something that is not so.

Do you suppose it is rickety adding machines and higglety-pigglety typewriters that get farmer-labor candidates and speakers and writers into such terrible trouble? Or what is it? Farmer-labor figures are seldom right, and right or wrong they don't mean what farmer-labor says they mean. When farmer-labor says it, black is white, waste is economy and anybody who is soundly liberal is a reactionary. It's a disease that attacks all farmer-labor candidates and causes them to run a fearful fever, so that they are out of their heads most of the time and rave something awful.

Take Senator George Lommen, for instance. Georgie is fluent of speech and facile with figures. Can he make 'em talk! Adroitly juggling insurance figures in a radio address, Georgie had the insurance companies paying a property tax of $3,627,000 through a 12 mill levy on an assessed valuation of $30,165,000. The answer in the back of the book is $362,260, but Georgie probably thought it would serve the devilish republicans right if he used millions instead of thousands. Georgie raved on about it quite a while and pulled a lot of other magical figures out of a hat for the entertainment of his radio listeners.

The worst trouble we have with rheumatism is trying to spell it.

PROWLERS ROLL UP 19-0 VICTORY

Prowlers Win Their Fourth Consecutive Game of Season

As you've probably heard, the Prowlers went on another rampage last Friday evening to defeat an outclassed Grafton eleven 19 to 0. The locals dominated play throughout the game, giving the invaders but few chances to try any real offensive work, most of the time having to punt to keep the ball out of territory dangerous for them. Bergh did a large percentage of the ball-carrying for Grafton and proved to be a very slippery runner if and when he got through the line, breaking away several times for substantial gains. As it was, however, he was not given much chance because of lack of effective blocking and weight in the forward wall.

Milt Nesse seemed to be the key man in the Prowler's attack during this particular game, plugging straight through the line for gain after gain, once racing 44 yards to a touchdown. However, the whole team deserves credit for this victory. The linemen were opening up holes big enough to "drive a truck through" to use a familiar expression, and the backfield men were charging, blocking, and tackling as never before, each one possessing the drive that is so essential to a successful football team.

The Prowlers started the drive to their first touchdown in the early stages of the first quarter after taking a punt on their own 40 yard line. Dicken took it around end for 12 yards and Hill carried it from there 5 yards more. On the next play Clark Mickelson made a beautiful catch on a forward pass from Milt Nesse, not stopping until he was over the goal line. Adkins kicked goal for the extra point making the score 7 to 0.

The next tally was made by Milt Nesse when he took the ball on his 44 yard line and literally plowed through the center of the line to a touchdown. The kick failed and the score stood at 13 to 0.

The final score was made in the fourth quarter. After taking the ball on Grafton's 48 yard line they advanced it to the 5 yard marker and there Hill drove over the line. The kick was low and the final score was 19 to 0.

Pep Fest Held Prior to Contest With Grafton

The pep fest prior to the Grafton game was held in the assembly Friday afternoon. Don Olson served as Master of Ceremonies.

The pep fest opened with the school song played by Mr. Harrison and directed by Mr. Riggs. Mr. Hye then delivered a pep talk. He said that this game was of greater importance to him than any other because of the fact that his wife was from Grafton and he had many relatives there. He also had two nephews on the Grafton team, which would make it quite unpleasant at home if the game were not won by the Prowlers. But not alone for this reason, but for various other reasons should the Prowlers "bring home the bacon". The most important of these is that for our best interests and those of the enemies, we should give our best efforts, and if so, victory will probably be ours.

A skit was given by the grade school children under the direction of Miss Holquist, to show that yells really are appreciated. Mary Chommie, Yvonne Anderson, and Lorraine Amundson led yells. A feature of this pep fest was the increased pep and better yells probably due to Coach Lee's appeal last Friday.

WIND-CHILL

Miss Steenerson has certainly been enjoying driving a foxy new car these first few weeks of school. She says it's her father's—but we wonder.

Smile (or as some people say smile) As anticipated as Coach Lee's joke at the next pep fest!

Yours truly wonders if Mr. Hye enjoyed a "visit" with his two nephews on the Grafton football team after the game was decided in our favor?

Mel Hougum is a late but welcome addition to the student body. What's the idea of playing hookey so long, Mel?

It seems to be unanimous, three cheers for Mr. Riggs for getting the band out for the game last Friday.

About now several students are being pleasantly (?) surprised with little white slips reading "You are in danger—" And we hear that a few very prominent "about the schoolers" have received them too.

Some seniors we know should have more school spirit—especially when it comes to selling hot dogs!

As disappointed as Bud K. when he had to stay home Saturday instead of taking his previously planned excursion.

There's been a lot of money exchanging hands these last few days—what with the World Series and football games!

Mr. Riggs has arranged a schedule for beginners. He is meeting regularly with those who are interested and willing to learn.

Scenic Film Presented Tuesday Morning

The second assembly program of this year was presented in the morning at 11 o'clock. This program was not one of the regular programs, but was just an extra one given free of charge.

The entire program was a motion-picture, showing the beautiful scenic spots in western America. Preceding this, however, were two "popeye" comedies which showed "Popeye" defeating two huge monsters and saving Olive Oyle just because he ate his spinach.

The travelogue started us in Minnesota, where the 10,000 lakes make Minnesota scenery famous. From there we journeyed to the Black Hills in South Dakota, where the faces of George Washington and three other famous Americans are being sculptered on a cliff. From the Black Hills we traveled to Glacier National Park and then on to Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming. We were shown beautiful colored pictures of "Old Faithful", Yellowstone Falls, and Yellowstone River, and many other mountains and lakes found in this park. Next we viewed the peaceful beauty of the mountains and lakes in Teton National Park and saw Crater Lake, one of the deepest lakes known, which was formed by a volcano.

We were then taken on a mountain climbing tour up Mount Hood, proving that the Swiss are not the only ones who are skilled in mountain climbing.

In San Francisco, we were shown the Golden Gate Bridge, Alcatraz Island, and the Japanese Tea Garden, which is an exact replica of the Gardens in Japan. We also saw several scenes from Los Angeles and Hollywood. From there we traveled to Yosemite National Park and on to the Grand Canyon, one of the scenic wonders of the world. We were also shown the homes of the cliff dwellers in southwestern United States which are 700 years old.

All the pictures were beautifully colored and proved to us that America cannot be excelled in beautiful scenery.

The Prowlers win again. If we may be allowed to say so with the present Gridiron campaign but half over, it looks like Coach Lee has turned out a "world beater" this season. If the team were to lose the rest of its games their record would still be superior to that of last season. Last year three games were won and three were lost. So far this season the Lee men have won four without a setback. Not one of these games were "setups", two of them being over teams that defeated the '35 Prowlers and one of these teams had not been vanquished by the Prowlers since 1930. Now, with games against two traditional rivals, Warren and Bemidji, and one against a team undefeated in Minnesota in 1935, Mahnomen coming up, the national question is whether or not the localites can keep a clean slate. We are sure the student body thinks they can and will support the team to the last.

PROWLIN' 'ROUND

"The heavy and experienced Prowlers defeat—" 'This is the headline that has appeared in two of our first three opponents' newspapers'." We would just like to show some of these people the exact averages of this year's team. The first team line averages 148 pounds, the heaviest man, Bredeson, weighing 163 pounds. The backfield averages 147 pounds with Nesse being the heaviest at 160. The second line has an average of 143 pounds and the second backfield only 124 pounds. This gives an average of 143 pounds to 16 line men and 130 pounds to 9 backs or 139 pound average to the 25 first string players.

As for the experienced side, there are only seven lettermen on the team and only three others who saw any play at all last year. This comprises Thief River Falls' heavy experienced team.

So far this season the Prowlers have made 54 first downs to opponents 5, gained 889 yards against opponents 316 and outscored the opposition 81 to 6; averaging 27 points a game to the rivals 2.

MUSIC NOTES

The Lincoln High School band made its first appearance at the football game Friday night, under the direction of Ronald G. Riggs, their new instructor. Several selections were played before the game and between halves. Due to successful soliciting, Mr. Riggs has now a band of forty members under his direction. In addition to his high school band, Mr. Riggs has a large number of grade school pupils.

LOCAL GRIDDERS SEEK FIFTH WIN

Undefeated Prowlers Oppose Mahnomen

Local grid fanatics will have their last opportunity to see the 1936 Lincoln High School Prowlers in action on the Lincoln field when they match their brain and brawn against the visiting Mahnomen aggregation tomorrow evening under the floodlights.

The Prowlers will meet a team that has known defeat only once, in a period of three years. That defeat was sustained last year at the hands of a powerful Grand Forks Central eleven on a last minute fumble. This season Coach W. E. Hoffman's gridders have defeated Crookston Cathedral, Sacred Heart Academy of Fargo, Casselton, N. D. and defeated Warren 14 to 12 last Friday. Mahnomen will present a starting eleven that has a weight advantage of six pounds per man. Mahnomen's average weight is 154 pounds while 148 pounds is the average weight per man of Coach Lee's first team. The probable starting lineup for Mahnomen will be Strand and Hodous, ends, Eraker and E. Johnson, tackles, Hanson and Jansen, guards, De Mates, center, B. Johnson, quarterback, Glass and Bonn, halfbacks, and Wambach, full-back.

The prowess of the Prowlers is well known. They have won four consecutive games without being in danger of defeat. This contest will bring together two squads that will "shoot the works" in an effort to keep their heretofore unblemished records without a defeat. In all probability, the Prowlers will face their first stern test of the season that should prove the true mettle of Coach George Lee's aggregation.

THE SCREAMER

Problem: Who are the two girls in sixth period assembly who seem to giggle incessantly? (Solution next week).

Don't look now but there's another one coming up on the teachers or rather on a teacher. From all sources comes the reports of Coach Lee's dream. The other night he dreamed that there were two girls on the football team and it so happens that Milt Nesse greatly favored this plan according to the way some of these girls travel down the hall. Now, Coach, is that the kind of dreams for you to go in for?

Those hot-dog sellers had better watch their step or they'll be way down in the hole. At the football game Friday night, some of those great big seniors let some of those little tiny Northrop kids "jew" them down on the price of hot-dogs from ten cents to two for a nickle. Poor business, in fact very poor business.

After the trip down to Minneapolis Saturday, some of the teachers who made the trip are considering adopting "Smoke Gets in My Eyes" as their theme song.

PROWLERETTE'S CORNER

The first hike is over, gals—but not quite forgotten. Our memories of it remain with sore feet, slight stiffness, and recollections of a bean can explosion (yeah-a few of the gals were pelted with beans 'cuz one Prowlerette forgot to puncture the can cover before heating.) All in one, though, 25 points for eight miles isn't bad—sort of introduces us to a big year, maybe!

Oh Yes! And—"Venus" my dears. Don't look now, but well, Mary Chommie is the name. Clap the young goddess on the back, sisters—and profit by following a swellegant example of good carriage and posture!

Volley-ball is coming up for Prowlerette's aspiring toward the "L" goal. Night practices to begin with. Frosh one night, Soph, and Js. The next. Let's go out and do big things, little ones!

And won't we breeze along with coats wide open when the G. A. A. pins nestle on the "buzzum" of sweater or frock?

'Twon't be long, my pets!

SOPHOMORES WIN OVER FRESHMEN IN ANNUAL EVENT

Freshmen Do Well in Holding Heavier Sophomores

The victory-starved Freshmen Gridders knocked again on the door of opportunity but again were refused admittance as the Sophomores won a well-deserved 13 to 6 triumph in their annual football classes.

The more experienced Sophomores began their march to victory early in the first quarter as Austin Shanahan made a long run after receiving the kickoff. Lunke carried the ball around end for the first touchdown.

The Sophomores blocked a punt at the beginning of the second quarter. Their widely heralded backs then advanced the pigskin to the Frosh twenty yard stripe. Lunke exploded through the one for the second counter and also scored the extra point by running the ball over.

The Freshmen team held their foes on even terms during an uneventful third quarter. The Frosh spurted in the last quarter and Warren Hall scampered over the goal for the Freshmen's lone counter.

The Frosh gridders, coached by Mr. Gabrielson, provided sturdy opposition that was wholly unexpected. The superior punting of the Freshmen kept the Sophs at a disadvantage at numerous occasions.

Burly Nels Holmberg, Nelson and W. Hill were constant threats in the Frosh backfield while Sorenson played a commendable game at the left flank position. Claffy and Froseth upheld the honor of the smaller gridders by play that was worthy of recognition.

Shanahan, C. Lunke and J. Stadum, Soph backs, were consistent ground gainers. Karl Sundberg and Schmeltzer bore the brunt of the Frosh attack, unyieldingly.

Another game between the two same rivals later this fall in prospect.

Historic Ski Trip

The most important sport event of the year in Dalecarlia, Sweden, is a ski race from Mora to commemorate a ski trip made by the Dalecarlians in the Sixteenth century. Two men were sent to recall Gustavus Vasa, the national hero, and ask him to lead the country, but they did not overtake him until he was near the Norwegian frontier.

Thief River Falls, Minn.

Dear Editor:

With your kind permission I wish to use the columns of your paper for a little chat with your readers. This is campaign year for the state and for the nation. We can not forget that now that the broadcasts, the press and every other means of communication have been taken into service for the several candidates and parties. There is the usual oratory of half-truth intended as smokescreen. How utterly false many political statements are. Here is hoping that all of our voters will take time to become fully familiar with facts. They can be obtained. It is not to be expected that all of us will vote alike, because we do not think alike. We differ in our opinions as to ways and means for gaining certain objectives. Then again, our objectives may differ. Only the voter who is well informed can vote well.

If there has ever been a time when the American voter needs to be well informed and needs to do his own thinking, that time is now. This is not a time to think merely in terms of certain parties. Those who can condescend to advise voters simply to "Vote the party ticket straight", is frankly telling the voter that he is a fool, uninformed and unable to think for himself, and that he simply should go to the polls with a party ticket in hand. That kind of voting is unworthy of an intelligent American citizen.

The many friends throughout the state of Mr. Hjalmar Pederson, are indeed sorry that he is not heading the State Farmer-Labor ticket. He is one of the few properly capable of so doing. It is difficult not to form the conclusion, that party leaders don't want him because he is too honest and straight forward. He thinks more in terms of the people of this state than he thinks in terms of party. Under the present party management, such can not be used in important offices.

But who is this man Benson? We should know him. If, when knowing him you want to vote for him, that is each voter's privilege.

Mr. Elmer Benson is an ex-banker. One of the kind that ran his bank on the rocks—letting the patrons and depositors be the usual victims. When he in this way had worked himself out of a job, he was picked up by the Farmer-Labor party machine. "Why stand ye here idle?" The Farmer-Labor party needed a Bank Commissioner and here was a banker who had nothing to do. It was "humane" to give him a good job.

The next important step was his appointment to the U. S. Senate. A man who never had been elected to anything appointed to fill a most important elective office. But party politics will do such things in the name of Political Strategy. This did give Benson a chance to show whatever colors he did possess. He went to work and introduced the Benson-Amlie bill, generally known as the American Youth Act. I would have passed this by as a mistake. All inexperienced men make mistakes. Even the experienced will sometimes go wrong too. But when Mr. Benson mentioned this bill in his key-note address, saying "I am proud of it", then of course it can not be considered a mistake. The bill then must be considered characteristic of the man. It is his pet baby.

The voter who wishes to sound the political character of Benson need then only turn to this American Youth Act. In common ordinary language it is a youth pension bill. It would provide the minimum of $15.00 per week for all youth between 16 and 25 years of age, to be distributed by the youth themselves. A conservative estimate of the cost is five billion dollars per year, plus cost of administration. If the voters of Minnesota want a governor that only thinks in terms of spending money, then no doubt, Benson will fill the bill. "Well", somebody might say, "he will make the rich fellow pay." But then let us remember that the rich fellow never paid anything except with the poor man's money. The rich always have a way of loading the burden on the rank and file of those with whom they do business. The rank and file of our citizens always did pay the tax bill, and no one has yet devised methods whereby they might be exempted. Let us not fool ourselves by thinking that when we get money from Washington or St. Paul that such contributions are Santa Claus gifts. It is always our own hard-earned money.

No one objects to liberal expenditures for human welfare. Human welfare must come first. Let us not however be so shortsighted that we overload the taxpayer. When the taxpayer no longer pays, who will then provide the funds for welfare and relief?

The Communist party in its Election Platform of 1936, calls upon all its voters to vote Farmer-Labor in Minnesota. They list the whole Farmer Labor slate. The Communists support this effort by the claim that a Farmer-Labor victory will be nothing less than a Communist victory. Let us be well informed that we may think clearly before we vote this year.

E. L. Tungseth.

Editor Times:

I have been noting how the politicians have been working and trading—especially those of the Farmer-Labor party. I have been a strong supporter of this party. But there is a limit to everything. For years we farmers and others have been supporting the machine with votes and money. And we have also supported the machine newspapers—one in Thief River Falls. And we have gotten no recognition at all.

The machine is making an awful fuss about Amendment No. 2, which will relieve real estate of some taxes in the country and cities, and should receive strong support from all, including the Farmer-Labor machine. Nobody would be opposed to pay a reasonable tax if the tax money was wisely spent. But the way President Roosevelt has shoveled out money after he took office certainly is not reasonable. The Farmer-Labor machine complains how much Theodore Christianson spent when he was Governor in Minnesota but does not say anything about the enormous amount Roosevelt has spent or the big amounts spent by the state administration during the past six years.

The Farmer-Labor machine also states the Frazier-Lemke bill will never come up again if Republicans get into office. Labor leader Green and President Roosevelt were the ones that killed the bill. The machine also thinks Amendment No. 2 will help insurance companies. Would it be wrong if it did? In order to safeguard policy holders they must invest the money somewhere. Those companies represent the cooperative savings of millions of Americans and if those companies are destroyed it will be the common people who will suffer.

Borrowing and spending never has worked before any length of time for anybody. If our Government gets short of money and cannot borrow more useful services such as rural free delivery will have to be cut down. They have already cut off some of it in the vicinity of Thief River Falls.

President Roosevelt and the Farmer-Labor machine are not friendly to agriculture. That's the reason they get along so good together. If the Farmer-Labor machine had done as it preached it should have endorsed Lemke, but he wanted to give cost of production to agriculture. President Roosevelt traded or sold the American farmers' market to foreigners, but he did not trade away taxes and he did not attempt in any of these deals to collect what the foreigners already owed us.

Governor Alfred Landon is fair and honest. He has stated time and again that he will restore the American market to the American farmer, and that those who need help and are out of work will be taken care of. But he will cut overhead expenses. The way it is now by the time the relief money gets to those who need it there is not much left.

If farmers get cost of production they can take care of themselves. When the Farmer-Labor leaders made a deal with Roosevelt, the voters have a right to wonder if there was some money in it. When voting this year we are up against something we never have faced before. If those on the Farmer-Labor ticket should be elected, what then? They would have to be Farmer-Labor in Minnesota and if they are not to double cross Roosevelt they would have to be Democrats in Washington. They will not do anything for agriculture or the Frazier-Lemke bill. And it will be the same with Elmer Benson. He will be Farmer-Labor in the forenoon and Democratic in the afternoon. I have been a farmer and a taxpayer for forty years and I am for more economy in government and not for half breeds in office.

Yours truly,
P. O. Sorlum

Editor Times:

I was recently informed that a Mr. Shoemaker has been touring this section of Minnesota in behalf of Elmer Benson and Ernest Lundeen. A detailed account of the things said, and the language used, easily explains why hundreds of honest and sincere members of the Farmer-Labor party are this year going to the polls to cast their votes for Martin A. Nelson. A former resident of Austin, the home of Mr. Nelson, perturbed over Shoemaker's insane charges, wrote to a friend in Austin for information. Here is the answer:

"I was glad to hear from you again. It has been many years since I have seen you or heard from you and your letter comes as a welcome surprise.

The contents of the letter were a bit of a shock and surprise, to be sure, as no finer young man or upright attorney ever practiced law in this city. Mr. Nelson was for a number of years a partner of Gen. A. W. Wright, who, as you remember, conducted one of the finest law offices in this part of the state. Upon the death of Mr. Wright about ten years ago, Mr. Nelson took over the practice and has kept it on the same high plane ever since.

When your letter was received, I submitted it to Judge S. D. Catherwood and Lafayette French of this city, both of whom are widely known over the state for their absolute integrity. They immediately called a meeting of the Bar Association and have, no doubt, by this time sent you a telegram expressing the sentiments of the members of the Austin Bar toward Mr. Nelson. No viler report could be circulated by anyone than that Mr. Nelson was not a scrupulously ethical attorney in every sense of the word. Not only that—he has a very extensive practice and his services are in demand by Clients in all walks of life.

Knowing the disregard which Mr. Shoemaker has for the truth as a result of experience with him in this city a few years ago, we are not surprised that he is spreading the reports which you declare he is.

You can vote and work for Martin A. Nelson with a clear conscience for if he is elected, Minnesota will have a governor who will discharge the duties of his office with credit to the state and all its citizens."

Signed, H. E. Rasmussen,
Publisher Austin Daily Herald,

Martin A. Nelson has conducted the kind of a campaign that good citizens approve. Unless the character of the people of Pennington County, and Minnesota in general, has suffered a great degeneration during the past few years, Martin A. Nelson cannot fail of election. I have been in educational work during my entire adult life. In our churches and schools we teach good sportsmanship, tolerance and decency. I cannot understand how any of these attributes can be found in the kind of campaign being carried on by Mr. Shoemaker. Candidates who accept the help of such a man most assuredly cannot measure up to the type of man we have in Martin A. Nelson

Editor Times:

There was quite a howl by some of the Democrats when Lemke, presidential candidate of the Union party, called Landon and Roosevelt "The Gold Dust Twins", because he claimed they were both subservient to the International Bankers.

Well, this morning's press and radio news proves that Mr. Lemke is right, because Roosevelt now has gone on the gold standard again, so as to keep control of the money supply in these banker's hands. Landon, of course, went out of his way, by telegraphing the Republican convention that he was for the gold standard, which was news to nobody because the Republican party has been for the gold standard ever since 1873, when this country was practically wrecked by the demonetization of silver. Likewise, the democratic party has been for the gold standard since 1896 when they ran Bryan on a remonetization platform and were beaten, and this country was plunged into the panic of 1896.

This fight is not between Republicans and Democrats, but between the International Banking Interests and bond holders on one side, and the intelligent, honest people who try to wrench control of government from them, on the other side. These interests are also in for free trade and war, in order to reduce the whole world to a common low standard of living for the common people and a snob-aristocracy for a few, on top, as they had during the "Dark Middle Ages".

Why these American Warships over in Spanish waters weeks after all Americans who wished to leave, had been taken care of? "He kept us out of war" was a great slogan in 1916, and it will be the same keeping out when the European conflict breaks out, if the two old parties have their way.

The first plank in the Union Party's platform is as follows: "America shall be self contained and self-sustained, no foreign entanglements,—be they political, economic, financial or military." The second plank is that "Congress and Congress alone" shall coin and issue all our money.

There were, in the last election 468812 votes for the Farmer-Labor party, 396,359 for the Republican party and 176,918 for the Democratic party in the state of Minnesota, so you see we have plenty of votes to carry Minnesota for Lemke if 90% of our Farmer-Laborites stand by this splendid candidate, who has fought for all F-L principles ever since the party's organization.

Do not be a coward and let them scare you with Landon or Roosevelt,—"The gold dust twins."

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

Now listen, my children, and you shall hear...

The other evening, we turned in on the radio for some Republican entertainment. It was a so-called Fireside skit. We had been told of the ditties which had come over the air such as "We will lick the Farmer-Laborites, we will, we will," to the tune of some popular song.

We should like to hand it to the Republicans for this program. They have really accomplished something. It is perhaps the first time in history when a major political party has been able to make burlesque out of a serious political campaign.

The piece de resistance that night was L. I. Nicholas, chairman of the Republican Committee for Martin County. Mr. Nicholas told of how local communities had succeeded in reducing their taxes and the chorus of "ah's" was perfect. Although he himself spoke in a quivering voice, when he mentioned the dread Farmer-Laborites, a chorus of "br...rr...rr's" was likewise perfect—like little children listening to an eerie ghost story.

But Mr. Nicholas didn't tell his audience how and why local communities were able to reduce their taxes, and the part the Farmer-Labor Administration played in aiding that reduction. He didn't, because this is a political campaign and failure to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth is forgivable under such conditions.

Senator Elmer A. Benson, however, told the citizens this past week exactly what the Farmer Labor Administration did to aid local communities in reducing their tax load. He cited figures to show that during the last fiscal year of the Olson administration, state aid to local communities totaled $22,536,462, which is more than $7,000,000 in excess of all revenue received by the state from the levy on real property, and exceeded state aid to local communities by $15,135,162—the amount given to local communities during the last fiscal year of the Christianson Administration.

State aid for schools alone was $7,121,626 more during the last year of the Olson Administration than during the last year of the Christianson Administration.

In other words, had Christianson been governor instead of Olson, local communities would have had to raise that additional amount for school purposes alone, or they would have been compelled to close a large number of the schools as was done in the state of Kansas, where more than two hundred schools were forced to shut down.

Perhaps before this campaign is over, the Republicans will discover that burlesque is all right in its place, but in speaking of campaign issues, the people want facts and figures.

Outstanding liberals in the United States are coming into Minnesota to aid the Farmer-Labor candidates this fall. Among the big names are the two sons of Bob LaFollette, Governor Phil F. LaFollette and Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Senator Gerald P. Nye and Lynn Frazier of North Dakota, and George Norris of Nebraska. Senator Robert LaFollette will speak in New Ulm October 17.

Mr. Martin A. Nelson, Republican candidate for governor, appears solicitous for the "few remaining millionaires."

Really Mr. Nelson shouldn't waste his gray matter worrying over the "few remaining millionaires," as he says. There are more millionaires today than there ever were in the history of America—perhaps not as many as Mr. Nelson would like to see. And these millionaires haven't applied for tickets at the bread lines, either. Matter of fact, they are much sleeker than ever before.

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers will come to the Twin Cities from Cleveland to speak on behalf of Elmer A. Benson for governor and other Farmer Labor candidates. He was particularly attracted to Senator Benson because of the senator's fight against the dismemberment of the M. and St. L. Railroad and his work for railroad pensions.

Speaking over a statewide radio hook-up last Saturday night, Congressman Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Labor candidate for U. S. Senate, declared that "the real issue of this campaign is social security and the Republicans' cowardly attack upon it. Republicans oppose social security; liberals are for it. That is the real issue of this campaign."

Republican propagandist, R. W. Hitchcock, in his weekly newspaper broadcasts, states that Senator Benson is campaigning in a state automobile at state expense. There is about as much truth in that assertion as there is to his assertions that the Republicans are the friends of labor, and that the Farmer-Labor Administration has done nothing for cooperatives in this state.

Homecoming Festival at N. W. School Set for Saturday, Oct. 24

Elaborate plans are being made for the annual Home Coming celebration to be held on the Northwest school campus Saturday, Oct. 24. Activities will open with a large parade and bonfire Friday evening, followed by a special assembly Saturday morning. This program is being arranged by R. S. Dunham, J. W. Mlinar, and the Misses Dorothy Smith, Katherine Hennig, and Grace Mary Warne.

A feature of the day will be a football game between the Northwest Aggies and the Morris Aggies. Coach R. J. Christgau and his warriors are hoping for a victory which will return the interschool trophy to the Aggie trophy room for the coming year. Joe Widseth, McIntosh, younger brother of Edwin Widseth, co-captain of the University of Minnesota football team, is playing his first year of football and will be in action during this crucial game.

The alumni banquet will be held in the school dining hall at 6:00 p. m., under the direction of a committee composed of Miss Retta Bede, E. R. Clark, and O. M. Kiser. The traditional Home Coming dance evening will be devoted to the traditional Home Coming dance and party. Arrangements for the dance are being made by A. M. Foker, Miss Warne, and Miss Lois Lahn, while the party is being sponsored by the Misses Katherine Hennig, Fanny Lippitt, and Mr. B. C. Strecter and Mr. Howard Myster.

EXPLOSIVES DAMAGE ANOKA AUTOMOBILES

Anoka—High explosives, placed recently on the street car tracks in Anoka were set off by cars which passed over them, carrying a number of passengers. A dense cloud of smoke enveloped the scene and one explosion raised the forward trucks so that when the car dropped a spring was broken and a window shattered. The following evening another explosive was struck and investigations revealed a portion of the material used. The cars involved did not carry mail, but if they had, it would be a federal offense. No clue has been discovered as to how the explosives were placed on the tracks.

Red River Valley History

Thief River Falls Lore

We have next from the booklet a sketch of the history of the city government of Thief River Falls, most details of which are new to this series; "The space allowed for this article will not permit a biographical account of all the early settlers, but enough has been mentioned to refresh the memories of those living and afford valuable reference.

The directory of first business men is here given and is as follows:

"Postmaster, T. Thibeault; Merchant, Joe Gendlau; Printers, E. C. Knappen & A. E. White, established "Thief River Falls Press" 1889; Druggist, John Hookolts 1881; Saloon keeper, T. Thibeault, 1883; Hardwareman, Henry Cook, 1883; Blacksmith, John Forsberg, 1888; Liveryman, Chas. Meyer; Harnessmaker, W. W. Gibb; Preacher, Rev. Thomas, Methodist; Doctor, Henry Grundy, 1892; Lawyer, Ira C. Richardson, 1892; Bank, First State, 1892, Lewis P. Johnson, cashier."

Here we take up the history of the city government:

"On the 19th day of June, 1896, Lars Backe and Chas. J. Knox made affidavits to a certain petition to the Board of County Commissioners of Polk County for the incorporation of the village of Thief River Falls and contiguous territory as a city under provisions of Chapter 8, Laws of 1895, and that the corporate name thereof be "Twin Falls".

"By resolution of July 26th, 1896, the Board of County Commissioners of Polk County granted the petition to incorporate, except as to the name, as another petition signed by M. C. Burns and others endorsing the first petition, but praying that the name of the Corporation be Thief River Falls in place of Twin Falls and ordered an election to be held to vote on the proposition September 1st, 1896.

"The county Commissioners of Polk County, Minnesota, on the 15th day of September, 1896, decreed the territory incorporated as a city, under the name of Thief River Falls.

"The first city election under the new organization was held October 17th, 1896, under notice given by the Board of Commissioners of Polk County.

"On the 26th day of October, 1896, the County Board issued its certificate declaring F. H. Kratka elected Mayor; J. W. Wallin, Treasurer; Chas. J. Knox, John E. Burkee, P. O. Bergh, Chas. A. Hobbecke and O. T. Tandberg, Aldermen.

"The new City Council organized on November 4th, 1896, by electing C. J. Knox, President, P. O. Bergh, Vice President; Lars Backe, City Clerk.

"Certain interests at this time requested the Attorney General to file an information against persons constituting the new council in order to test the validity of the new Corporation. In his opinion dated December 10th, 1896, held the incorporation to be legal and declined to file the information."

We are confident there is much in this copy that has not previously been presented in the Times and we are sure as well that the authoritative source of the information makes it especially acceptable to residents of the city.

Discuss Chick Raising, New Barns in Bulletins

Essential points to know in raising healthy chickens on a profitable basis and how to plan a convenient and efficient barn may be learned in two special bulletins now available from the county agricultural agent or Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul.

"ABC of Chicks" special bulletin 176 authored by Miss Cora Cooke, extension poultry specialist, won first place in a national contest for class one popular bulletins held during the annual convention of the American Association of Agricultural Editors at Madison, Wis., in August. An attractive bulletin from cover to cover, it brings to the poultry raiser clearly and effectively the essential practices necessary in raising chicks to the productive age. The salient points discussed by Miss Cooke include healthy chicks, early hatching, clean ground, complete rations, clean feed, separation of sexes, early housing of pullets, and others.

"Barns", special bulletin 98, recently revised, written by H. B. Christopherson, of the Division of Agriculture Engineering, gives plans for several types of barns for Minnesota farms. The location, type, size, arrangement, equipment, lighting, ventilation, appearance, and construction of barns are discussed in the bulletin.

FIREMEN CALLED TO CHASE SNAKES

Faribault.—Calls to take cats from telephone poles, drag horses out of the river, pull squirrels out of trees and crank cars for the ladies, are not unusual for members of the Faribault fire department, but a new one for the records is "to hunt snakes out of attics. When firemen arrived at a private home on request, two dead snakes were exhibited which had been taken from the attic. Because the family was afraid of more snakes the firemen conducted a thorough search to determine that it was the end of the snakes. The reptiles had entered with camping equipment stored there after having been allowed to remain on the ground first up for several days.

Tall Tales

As told to: FRANK E. HAGAN and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Humiliated Teeth

IN SALT LAKE CITY, baseball bugs still refer to Joe Jenkins, their old catcher, as the man who always wore a mask, not because Joe used a mask when catching, but the contraption he wore other times was a little net slung under his chin. It acted as catcher, too—whenever Joe's lower plate of 16 shiny, false teeth, worked loose.

Without dreaming of being insulting, Joe laid the plate aside in a restaurant one night and went right on eating. It happened the teeth were on edge; they were so humiliated by his act they rolled to the floor and hid there.

Next day, filled with remorse, the teeth began to hunt Joe. It was a long search, filled with heart breaks. Once the teeth almost caught up with Joe while he was gulping milk toast, missing by snapping distance only.

One afternoon, Salt Lake opposed the Portland Beavers. The Utah team was three runs behind, ninth inning, two out and the bases filled. Joe'd been in an awful slump and was benched.

At this moment, fortunately for Salt Lake, something resembling a wide smile crawled up the players' bench and bit Jenkins where he carried his eating tobacco. Whooping wildly, Joe leaped seven feet in the air. With his right hand he snapped the prodigal lower plate into his mouth; with the left he reached down for his bat. Joe slammed a home run over the left field fence, winning the game for Salt Lake by a score of 6 to 5.

Growing With Your Child

Young Children and Music

A little child is very dependent of what his home has to offer toward the stimulation of his cultural taste He has few outside contacts, and what he sees and hears at home is bound to be limited somewhat by his parents' interests and capacities. For example, one family of three children whose mother believes she cannot sing never heard her voice raised in song, whether lullaby, or rollicking Mother Goose rhyme. Only over the radio have they heard women sing, where the type of song chosen rarely appeals to little children. Another group of children may grow up in a family where ensemble playing is an almost nightly occurrence, where friends often drop in to try out some new piece of music with mother at the piano, father playing the flute, and Junior playing the clarinet.

Not all children are talented enough to make it worth while for them to study music and take lessons on some instrument, but all children do have an impulse to express themselves in song, and should be encouraged to learn how to enjoy both taking part in and listening to music.

The mother who is not musical can nevertheless give her young children musical experience by means of phonograph records. First of all, children like rhythm; they spontaneously and easily adapt themselves to it, just as a native African beats his drum and writhes to a pattern of rhythm. Children often show remarkable ability to express different feelings in motion, associated with music, and will "hear" all manner of interesting things in a phonograph record they are asked to interpret. They like to run, to skip, to hop to music. They like to impersonate animals and objects, and jump as they see squirrels do, hop like rabbits, or crawl like a puffing, chugging train. There are numbers of good records that can be used for such purposes, in case where mother isn't equal to composing or finding music to fit the children's needs. Schumann's Wild Rider, The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers, Pop Goes the Weasel are familiar examples of activity music.

Songs for little children themselves to sing must be very simple, so simple the melody almost sings itself, with a good deal of repetition in both words and music. Children like songs about things and experiences they know, animals and pets being of unfailing interest. The swinging, lilting Mother Goose rhymes have been set to music that children love, one of the best versions now obtainable at the dime store. All the Ducks, I Saw Three Ships, Old Shoes, The Cow, Polly Perkins are some of the favorites of nursery school children in addition to such old standbys as Away in a Manger, and game songs like London Bridge.

Children sing as naturally as they dance and laugh and play. Often a child will be heard singing a little song he has made up himself, which, if not written down by some grown up, will be lost and forgotten. We frequently jot down the amusing utterances of our children, but how few of us have thought of keeping record of the melodies the children themselves originate. Even though they are far from remarkable, they will prove as interesting as records of their vocabulary at different stages.

Any one wishing to have a list of music for the preschool age may secure one by writing to the Institute of Child Welfare at the University of Minnesota.

Campaign Aims for Herd Improvement in State

The elimination of the dairy cow that cannot pay for the cost of her feed and a definite dairy improvement program for Minnesota are among the chief objectives of the cow testing program to be sponsored this fall by the agricultural extension division, states Ramer Leighton, extension dairyman, University Farm, St. Paul.

It is common knowledge that there is a wide variation in the producing ability of dairy cows, Mr. Leighton states, but the importance of this variation is not so well understood. Taking a specific example, the average cow kept for dairy purposes in Minnesota produces less than 5,000 pounds of milk and only about 170 pounds of butterfat annually. Her average feed cost in 1935 was $36, and she returned her owner $18 above the cost of her feed.

Presenting a more profitable picture is the average cow testing association cow in Minnesota which produces 7,800 pounds of milk and 304 pounds of butterfat. Her feed cost was $44 and the return above such cost was $53. For additional feed which cost about $8, the cow testing association animal returned her owner $35 more than did the non-tested association cow.

MINNESOTA CORN IS 14 FEET HIGH

Princeton.—While Iowa is the state "where the tall corn grows", Minnesota has at least one township where corn grows to considerable height. James Larson, a farmer living six miles south of Princeton in Baldwin township, has a field which produces corn 14 feet high. The stalks, are heavy and look like small trees with ears measuring a foot in length.
